Poetry.

ENIGMA.

It is formed like the globe, and 'tis planed in the centre,
It commands every tongue, every mouth it will enter,
It is always in fashion—the first to be odd,
It departs not from home, yet it wanders abroad,
It grows in each kingdom and in every soil,
It is fond too of labor—the partner of toil,
It appears in all seasons—belongs to all nations,
It has many connections and worthy relations,
It presides o'er the ocean—reigns likewise on shore,
It leads every object—it enriches our store,
It attend all our actions—directs every omen,
It turns one into ten—hates men and loves women,
It is seen in the morning—gets brighter in noon,
It is hid in the sun, 'tho it shines in the moon,
It is shown in the rainbow, likewise in the snow,
It will follow our footsteps wherever we go,
It is shunned in the palace. beloved in the cot,
It is found in our bosoms whate'er be our lot,
It rules in accounts when we balance our coffers,
It begets every order, whate'er be our offers,
It is sure to be foremost on every occasion,
It will join any count proud to make an oration,
It is part of our reason, and also our hope,
It does honor to God—'tis a prop to the Pope,
It will peep through each window, and half every door,
It despises the rich, but is kind to the poor,
It aids all our knowledge—our morality too,
It lends double service for lover to woo,
It is taught with our lessons in all we receive,
It is mixed with our doctrines in all we believe,
It assists to make joy—it abides in the foe,
It dwells in the regions above and below,
It is present in wo and is absent in mirth,
It is never in heaven in hell or on earth,
It leagues with the coward as well as the bold,
It combines with the young and succours the old,
It embraces all points, yet it stands in the wrong,
It is courteous to those who are robust and strong,
It clings to the doctor, the parson, the patron,
It favours the bachelor, widow and matron,
It is kept from the father, bestowed on the mother,
It disowns every sister, and courts every brother,
It forms a companion in forming a quorum,
It is heard in each council and college and forum,
It prevails in a flood and roams in the wood,
It was ne'er caught in evil, but always in good,
It soars with ambition, joins pupils at school,
It boasteth of wisdom through the heart of a fool,
It was partial to Solomon, monarch of song,
It is melody sweet to the musical throng,
It is marked at the soul or the essence of glory,
It will mingle its voice and be heard in each story,
It is known through the land as the third of our sorrow,
It may sleep in the night but it wakes in the morrow,
It is ne'er found in silver, but always in gold,
It has merits so various they ne'er can be told,
It will stand by the pilot that weathers the storm,
It is useful in commerce in many a form,
It is shut from our notice ten months in the year,
It is only in two it presumes to appear,
It clothes us with raiment—supplies us with food,
It is hoped this enigma is well understood.

NEVER DESPAIR.

"Where there is a will, there is a way;" and, as no one attempts an impossibility, and therefore will make no strenuous effort, until he has the hope of success, the "will" that makes the "way" must fi st be made out of faith in the resources which are placed at our disposal. There must not merely be religious faith, but there must be political faith, commercial faith and faith in ourselves and our talents and capabilities. Despair is the opposite of faith, and under its influence, not only is effort impossible, but life is intolerable. All that is necessary to raise the masses is to give them faith. Let the possibility of their rising become an article of their creed, and, along with it, also, let there be the impression that they may, can, must, might, could, and should, help themselves, and these auxiliaries will soon set them to work out their domestic, intellectual, civil, political, and religious salvation. What a strange thing it is, that the people should imagine that they can do nothing, when they have the great fact before them,that they do almost every thing that is done in the world. Monarchs do not reel nor spin. Princes, dukes, lords, squires, bishops, and priests, do not build, nor plant, plough nor delve: ladies do not spin, weave, cook, nor wash, in these days; nearly all the valuable labour that is performed is done by the hands of the poor. The greatness of the British empire is a monument erected by the agency of the masses, and attests the almost infinite power of the people. And we might say the same, if we referred to the pyramids or other records of the glory of antiquity: for history, both ancient and modern, both sacred and profane, has every page inscribed with some testimony of the skill and power of the working classes, which ought not to be lost on the mechanics and labourers of this generations.

CONCISENESS OF TRUTH.—No disorders have employed so many quacks as those that have no cure, and no sciences have exercised so many quills as those that have no certainty. Truth lies in a small compass; and, if a well has been assigned her for a habitation, it is as appropriate from its narrowness, as its depth. Hence it happens that those sciences that are capable of being demonstrated, or that are reducible to the severity of calculation, are never voluminous; for clearness is intimately connected with conciseness, as the lightning, which is the brightest thing, is also the most brief; but, precisely in proportion as certainty vanishes, verbosity abounds. To foretell an eclipse, a man must understand astronomy; or to find out an unknown quantity by a known, he must have a knowledge of calculation; and yet the rudiments that enable us to effect these important things are to be found in a very narrow compass.

THE IRISHMAN'S COMPLIMENT.—A sudden gust of wind took a parasol from the hand of the owner, and a lively Irishman, dropping his hod of bricks, caught the parachute. "Faith ma'am," said he, "if you were as strong, as you are handsome, it would not have got away from you." "Which shall I thank you for first, the service or the compliment?" asked the lady, smiling. "Troth, ma'm," said Pat, again touching the place where originally stood the brim of what was once a beaver, "that look of your beautiful eye thanked me for both."

SLIGHT DIFFERENCE.—The servant of a Prussian officer, one day met a crony, who inquired of him how he got along with his fiery master, "Oh, excellently," answered the servant; "we live on very friendly terms; every morning we beat each other's coats; the only difference is, he takes his off to be beaten, and I keep mine on."

AN EYE TO BUSINESS.—We are often entertained, says a journal, by the tone of sentiments adopted in advertising a death. There is frequently a facetious union of puff and despondency. We will give a specimen of a "death":—Died, on the 11th ult., at the shop in Fleet street, Mr. Ed. Jones, much respected by all who knew and dealt with him. As a man he was aimiable, as a hatter upright and moderate.—His virtues were beyond all price, and his beaver hats were only twenty-four shillings each. He has left a widow to deplore his loss, and a large stock to be sold cheap for the benefit of his family. He was snatched to the other world in the prime of life, and just as he had concluded an extensive purchase of felt, which he got so very cheap, that the widow can supply hats at a more reasonable charge than any other house in London. His disconsolate family will carry on the business with punctuality."

We were much amused by an incident related the other day:—"A gentleman who had been absent for a considerable time, and who, during his absence, had raised a pretty luxuriant crop of whiskers, moustaches, &c., visited a relative, whose child—an artless little girl of five or six years—he was very fond of. The little girl made no demonstration towards saluting him with a kiss, as was usual. 'Why, child,' said the mother, don't you give uncle P———,a kiss!' 'Why, ma, returned the little girl, with the most perfect simplicity, 'I don't see any place!'"

It is stated that thirteen thousand cows are kept in London, confined in cellers and sheds in various parts of the city

THE ROAD TO HEALTH!

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

CURE OF A DISORDERED LIVER AND BAD DIGESTION

Copy of a Letter from Mr. R. W. Kirkus, Chemist, 7 Prescot Street, Liverpool, dated 6th June, 1851.

To Professor HOLLOWAY;

SIR,—Your Pills and Ointment have stood the highest on our sale list of Proprietary Medicines for some years. A customer, to whom I can refer for any enquiries, desires me to let you know the particulars of her case. She had been troubled for years with a disordered liver, and bad digestion. On the last occasion, however, the virulence of the attack was so alarming, and the inflammation set in so severely, that doubts were entertained of her not being able to bear up under it; fortunately she was induced to try your Pills, and she informs me that after the first, and each succeeding dose, she had great relief. She continued to take them, and although she used only three Boxes, she is now in the enjoyment of perfect health. I could have sent you many more cases, but the above, from the severity of the attack, and the speedy cure, I think, speaks much in favor of your astonishing Pills.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF RHEUMATIC FEVER, IN VAN DIEMEN'S LAND.

Copy of a Letter inserted in the Hobart Town Courier, of the of the 1st March, 1851, by Major J. Walch.

Margaret M'Connigan, nineteen years of age, residing at New Town, has been suffering from a violent rheumatic fever for upwards of two months, which had entirely deprived her of the use of her limbs; during this period, she was under the care of the most eminent medical men in Hobart Town, and by them her case was considered hopeless. A friend prevailed upon her to try Holloway's celebrated Pills, which she consented to do, and in an incredibly short space of time they effecteda perfect cure.

CURE OF A PAIN AND TIGHTNESS IN THE CHEST AND STOMACH OF A PERSON 84 YEARS OF AGE.

From Messrs. Thew & Son, Proprietors of the Lynn Advertiser, who can vouch for the following statement.—August 2, 1851.

To Professor HOLLOWAY.

SIR,—I desire to bear testimony to the good effects of Holloway's Pills. For some years I suffered severely from a pain and tightness in the stomach, which was also accompanied by a shortness of breath, that prevented me from walking about. I am 84 years of age, and notwithstanding my advanced state of life, these Pills have so relieved me, that I am desirous that others should be made acquainted with their virtues. I am now rendered, by their means, comparatively active, and can take exercise without inconvenience or pain, which I could not do before.

(Signed) HENRY COE,
North Street, Lynn, Norfolk.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF THE GRAVEL, AND A MOST DANGEROUS LIVER COMPLAINT.

Copy of a Letter addressed to J. K. Heydon, Esq., Sidney, New South Wales, dated February 25, 1851.

SIR,—A Mr. Thomas Clark, a settler at Lake George, was for a considerable time seriously afflicted with a complaint of the Liver, together with the Gravel. His medical attendants, after trying all their skill, candidly told him that his case was hopeless, and any further efforts useless. In this situation, and when expecting every day would terminate his existence, a friend recommended him to try Holloway's Pills, and as a forlorn hope he did so, the first dose gave him considerable relief, he therefore persevered in taking them according to the directions, and is now restored to perfect health. He will feel great pleasure in confirming this statement, or even make an affidavit to the same effect, should it be required.

Goulburn Herald, New South Wales.
