

Mrs. L. Hicks Dies In West

The funeral of the late Mrs. Leaman Hicks, the former Lilla Bowness, was held from the McTague Funeral Home, Saskatoon, Wednesday, May 22. The service was conducted by the Rev. Hart Cantelon of St. Thomas Wesley Church. Mrs. Hicks leaves to mourn her passing, her husband Leaman Hicks, Saskatoon, a daughter, Mrs. W. F. Curry, Saskatoon, a son, Jack of Vernon, B. C. Ten grandchildren; also four sisters, Mrs. Clara Bell, Mrs. Hector Oag, Miss Jennie Bowness, Miss Estelle Bowness all of Summerside, two brothers, Firth of Summerside and Arthur, Mt. Gilead, Ohio.

Burial was in the family plot in Hillcrest Memorial Gardens, Saskatoon.

A NEW DEAL FOR LABOUR

It was Sir John A. MacDonald who, in 1878, introduced the legislation that made it possible for labour to organize into unions.

It was a Conservative Government in Ontario in 1914 that introduced Workmen's Compensation.

It was under the Borden Government in 1918 that legal status was given to trade unions with the statutory right to organize for Collective Bargaining.

A PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE GOVERNMENT WILL CONTINUE TO ASSIST LABOUR IN THE FUTURE AS IN THE PAST - BY

Reviewing immediately all National Labour Legislation through a combined effort of Labour, Management and Government;

Renouncing Compulsory Arbitration as an instrument for settling labour disputes;

Eliminating delays in the conciliation procedures;

Preventing the employment of outside labour on Federal projects in Prince Edward Island where such labour is available within this Province.

FOR FISHERMEN

The Progressive Conservative Party has long recognized the need for assistance to the Fisheries Industry and when elected will:-

Assist our Fisheries Industry in developing markets and in improving equipment;

Safeguard the rights of Canadian Fishermen in Canadian waters;

Assert full Canadian control over fishing within the Twelve Mile Limit.

MAYFLOWER II 180 MILES OFF BERMUDA

The Mayflower II, patterned after the original ship of the Pilgrim Fathers, was reported about 180 miles southwest of Bermuda at mid-day Tuesday. Cmdr. Alan Williams, in a radio report, Wednesday, gave the ship's position at noon June 4 at 29 degrees 35 minutes north, 67 degrees 50 minutes west. He added that the Mayflower was sailing northwest at five knots. The ship is due at Plymouth, Mass. later this month. She sailed from Plymouth, England last month.

Service Vote Takes A Week; Results Will Be Known June 15

OTTAWA (CP) — The 117,000 members of Canada's armed forces Tuesday night completed their second day of voting in the federal election, but there was no early indication of how heavy the turnout at the special service polls will be.

Members of the forces plus some 7,000 servicemen's wives overseas and 8,000 veterans in federal hospitals are eligible to vote in the special week-long polling. The results will be known June 15, five days after civilian voting.

There are about 425 service polling stations, each with either an officer or non-commissioned officer as deputy returning officer in charge.

Canadians are allowed to have a civilian agent at the polling stations on military establishments, but few of them do. They may also send agents to polling stations overseas if they want to pay the cost.

FOUR DIVISIONS

For purposes of the election, army, navy and air force establishments have been divided into four divisions, each with a civilian returning officer appointed by the cabinet or the nomination of the chief electoral officer.

Returning officer Aimee Desrosiers in London, Eng., handles the voting in the United Kingdom, Northwest Europe, Italy, Egypt and Indochina. There are approximately 45 army polls, 12 air force polls and one navy poll reporting to London.

In the Atlantic region, Frank B. Zink in Halifax is responsible for 35 army polls, 40 navy polls and 20 air force polls.

The Ontario-Quebec region, with headquarters at Ottawa, includes Canadian armed forces personnel in the United States. The returning officer is Lucien Bouchard. The army has 80 polls, the navy 11 and the air force 60.

IN WEST

The Western provinces, the Arctic and some 35 troops in Japan and Korea will report their ballots to Archie Baplle in Edmonton. The Western division has 60 army polls, 30 navy polls and 30 air force polls.

In large military establishments the armed forces have set up a poll for about every 600 men. Each poll has one deputy returning officer, a member of the service involved.

The four political parties in the Commons all have their representatives in the offices of the special returning officers, to act as scrutineers in sorting the ballots next week and to watch over their parties' interests. They were nominated by their respective parties and appointed by chief electoral officer Nelson Catagway.

RESULTS JUNE 15

Only after being thus separated and no longer linked with voters' names are the ballots opened and counted by the returning officer. The results will be known June 15.

It is conceivable that the service vote could produce belated upsets in constituencies where the civilian vote is close. It has happened before, notably in 1917 when 14 candidates apparently elected by civilian vote were turned out by the service vote. In each case the switch was from a Liberal to a candidate of the Unionist government.

Former prime minister King was defeated in Prince Albert by the service vote in 1945.

Conventions Get In Their Stride

By FORBES RUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

June, month of weddings, is also a month of conventions.

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association starts its three-day annual meeting in Toronto today, with registrations expected to run around 2,000.

Delegates will hear some 80 speeches in addition to the discussions.

J. N. T. Bulman of Winnipeg, president for the last year, will give his annual address at today's luncheon.

H. V. Lush of Toronto is first vice-president and, in accord with CMA practice, will presumably succeed Mr. Bulman at Thursday's election of officers. Ian F. MacRae, Toronto, second vice-president, will presumably become first vice-president.

Next week two national conventions will be going simultaneously at Banff and Jasper.

The Engineering Institute of Canada holds its annual and professional meeting at Banff June 11-14—with a heavy schedule of technical papers on its agenda.

Four engineers will be given honorary memberships: Omer Martineau, assistant chief engineer, department of highways, Quebec; Gen. A. Q. L. McNaughton, chairman Canadian section, international joint commission; William G. Wilson, assistant dean, faculty of applied science, University of Toronto; and Penrose M. Sauder, Lethbridge, department of water resources, Alberta.

The Investment Dealers' Association of Canada meets at Jasper on the same dates, June 11-14. Also next week, the Federation whose activities will include a dinner at the Motor Country Club. Theme of this convention will be "marketing—hub of our Canadian economy." Convention topics will include:

"Top-management looks at sales and advertising"—an address by Ron W. Todgham, president of Chrysler Corporation of Canada; and "What's new in the West? What's new in the East?" — a panel discussion.

The federation comprises 29 advertising and sales clubs from Halifax to Vancouver, with a membership of about 8,500. Some 200 delegates are expected to attend, and also representatives from the Minneapolis Advertising and Sales Club.

This is the first time the organization has met outside the East.

The Canadian Gas Association will hold its annual meeting at Jasper June 23-27.
