investigated. Usually, I may say, I find that no misrepresentation has been made—sometimes the circumstances are much worse than was expected from the information given. Every effort is made to keep a touch with the homes helped. Visits are made to such every morning during the week, and each afternoon the Dispensary is open to receive applicants, hear their trouble and help them as best we can.

The past Winter with its prolonged unemployment has brought unusually large numbers of people to our doors and we had to restrict our help for the most part to the giving of medicine. Groceries were supplied only in extreme cases, and with extra nourishment was needed by those who were ill.

Malnutrition Common

Underweight and undernourishment have unfortunately become very common in our town, and when we possibly can do so, we supply Cod Liver Oil to such cases and find it very effective, especially when our patients are children.

An epidemic of whooping cough caused a great deal of distress among children last Winter, many, among the undernourished little ones with whom we deal, took the disease in the early Fall and have coughed practically all through the Winter months. To such we gave cough medicine when applicable, and, in the most unfortunate children who contracted impetigo sores, we supplied and advised as to care and cleanliness was not lacking.

There were a number of cases of pneumonia through the Winter—two children dying from its effects, and five adult deaths. We have several cases that are year round charges on the Dispensary. One such is an old lady who after weeks in the hospital was taken to board in the country. She was most unhappy to be away from her Doctor and the Dispensary worker—so had to be brought back to town. The Doctor is giving her every attention free of charge—never disregards her calls and under his care she has improved greatly. For her the Dispensary supplies Insulin, which is an expensive requirement, tablets and liniment.

HIGH CLASS RECITAL AT HEARTZ HALL

The Benzie-Lloyd-Miller Recital in Hertz Hall last evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of Trinity Church, Charlottetown, was a decided success, from the standpoint of attendance and excellence of program. The artists acquitted themselves splendidly and were encouraged again and again.

Mrs. (Dr.) Benzie of Stellarton, N.S., is an artist of great promise and a violinist of rare skill, having studied in Halifax, Boston and London. She devotes her time and talents largely to community and church life. She is a lady of winsome appearance and genial spirit.

David Lloyd is a young violinist of fine accomplishments, and has a promising future before him. He is of Welsh extraction, and studied under a famous Welshman, Professor Williams, of the Conservatory of Music, Halifax. His selections were played in perfect harmony and delighted the audience last evening.

Mr. L. N. Miller, pianist of the evening, is the accomplished organist of Trinity United Church, New Glasgow, N.S. He is a licentiate of McGill University. His selections from Liszt, Rubinstein, and Paderewski thrilled the audience. He plays not only skilfully, but marvellously.

Mrs. (Rev.) Hugh Miller is now well known to Charlottetown audiences. To quote a St. John paper, "She started last evening," as she always does, as Reader and Soloist. It was said of a distinguished literary writer that "there was nothing he touched, which he did not adorn." So she adorns whatever she touches with her own originality.

Prof. Kendall, in his usual capable manner, was accompanist for Mrs. Miller.

The programme of the Recital consisted of beautiful selections from artists of the 19th and 17th centuries and some modern artists.

Mrs. H. Miller delightfully rendered Cavallini by Meyerbeer (1791-1831) a German Jew.

Selections from Wagner and Liszt and Stossel and others, by Mrs. Benzie and David Lloyd were rendered with beautiful response from the appreciative audience.

It is said of Wagner (1813-1883) that he improved opera as much as Liszt did piano playing.

Mr. L. N. Miller, as pianist, made Liszt's "Rubinstein" and Paderewski live before us as famous musicians of world-wide celebrity.

Liszt (1811-1886) was born in Hungary and introduced marvellous changes in piano playing and was reputed as very rich and very generous.

Rubinstein (1830-1894) was born in Russia and was a rival of Liszt, and considered by some critics to be superior to Liszt.

Paderewski (1859—) was born in Poland and was a man who always exercised great power over audiences.

The closing selection of the evening's concert was from Mendelssohn whose name is familiar in musical circles. He was born in Germany, the son of a Jewish banker, but became a Christian.

Such were the musicians of note, whose compositions were brought before the audience in a captivating and delightful manner.

Viscount Allenby, Great War Hero, Dies Suddenly

VISCOUNT ALLENBY
(C. F. Cable)
(By Guardian's Special Wire)

LONDON, May 14.—Death closed today the brilliant career of Field Marshal Viscount Allenby, conqueror of Jerusalem, who restored Christian sovereignty in the Holy Land after nearly seven centuries of Moslem domination.

The great soldier collapsed shortly after noon at the writing desk in the study of his house in South Kensington, and died almost immediately. He was 75.

Lord Allenby was a courageous, tireless soldier, who will be remembered in history as the last General to achieve victory by means of the mounted arm. With British and Indian cavalry he swept around the flank of the Turks in Palestine and attacked their rear, completely destroying the opposing army as a fighting force.

This flanking movement with masses of cavalry along the seashore and the Turkish lines of communication to Damascus was regarded as the greatest military success attained by the allies throughout the war.

Commanded Third Army

Allenby commanded the third army at the battle of Arras in 1917 in which the Canadian forces captured Vimy Ridge, while the British troops penetrated the German positions further south, together inflicting one of the severest defeats of the war on the Germans. It was generally believed, however, that Allenby and General Sir Douglas Haig (afterwards Earl Haig) disagreed regarding the conduct of this battle and that Haig for this reason recommended Allenby for the position in Palestine later the same day.

Allenby also was in the second battle of Ypres in which the Canadians first encountered gas.

Mr. E. L. B. B. in the "Lawrence of Arabia" when he was in the less than a month ago was installed as Lord Rector of Edinburgh University when he made a striking speech condemning war and urging the institution of an international police force. He renounced the glory of conquest with its gain of dead sea fruit.

Associated With Lawrence

In the popular mind Lord Allenby was linked with the late Colonel T. E. Lawrence, the "Lawrence of Arabia." When Allenby reached Palestine Lawrence was on the verge of failure in his efforts to foment the desert revolt. Allenby threw his support behind Lawrence, providing him, money and arms, resulting in the Arab tribal uprising which helped destroy the Turkish armies.

The title passed to his nephew, Dudley Jeffrey Hyndman Allenby, an officer of the 11th Hussars. Allenby's only son, Horace, was killed in France in 1917.

Sketch Of Career

Edmund Henry Hyndman Allenby 1st Viscount British 1864 Marshal, son of Hyndman Allenby, was born April 23rd, 1861 and joined the Inneskilling Dragoons in 1882. His first few years in the army were spent in South Africa where he took part in the Bechuanaland expedition of 1884-5 and in the Zululand operations of 1888. After returning to England with his regiment he passed through the staff college and in 1896 he married Adelaide Mabel Chapman. He went out to South Africa again as a squadron leader in 1899 and took part in the important cavalry operations by which Kimberley was relieved, in the battle of Paardeberg and in Lord Roberts' advance to Pretoria and into the eastern Transvaal. During the late phases of the South African War he made a great name for himself as a column commander and he was for his services promoted brevet Lieutenant-Colonel and Colonel, and given the C. B. He then commanded the 5th Lancers from 1902-5 and for the next four years he was at the head of a cavalry brigade, being promoted major-general in 1909. He became inspector of cavalry in 1910 and, as holding that position, went out to France with the Expeditionary Force in 1914 in charge of the cavalry division.

The work of his mounted troops won great praise and on a second cavalry division arriving Allenby was appointed commander of the newly constituted cavalry corps. He was about the same time given the K. C. B. He had been promoted lieutenant-general in 1916, and in June, 1917 was selected for the command of the troops in Egypt and Palestine, and promoted general.

The season was unsuitable for active operations on the borders of the Holy Land, for the first three months after his arrival in Egypt, but these were spent in perfecting preparations for an advance which began at the end of October, with the capture of Beersheba and the taking of Gaza a few days later. Successes followed relentlessly until Jerusalem surrendered on Dec. 9th. Allenby had been given the G. C. M. G. for these achievements, materially improved his position during the next few months, and then was obliged by events in France to detach some of his troops to the western theatre of war.

In September of 1918 the British commander struck with crushing effect.

Edraon was flooded with mounted men, the infantry moved irresistibly forward, the enemy suffering overwhelming defeat. Allenby's brilliant services were recognized by his being given the G.C.B. and on the general distribution of honors for the war in 1919 he was promoted field marshal and was raised to the peerage as Viscount Allenby of Megiddo and Felixstowe, at the same time being awarded a grant of 50,000 pounds.

In 1919 he was definitely appointed British High Commissioner in Egypt.

Dispensary Reviews Year's Activities

the Anti Tuberculosis Association of Prince Edward Island and its functions were confined solely to the treatment of the poor of Charlottetown suffering from T. B. Dr. S. R. Jenkins was its first president and his meticulous attention to detail and administration is largely responsible for the continued success of the institution. Since the death of Dr. Jenkins the Association has honored me by electing me to preside over its destinies.

"The Dispensary did not long confine itself to the treatment of Tuberculosis. Sufferers from various diseases sought recognition, food had to be provided to sustain the strength of the sufferer, and in process of time the Dispensary became an emporium where the poor of the City applied for general relief, which was freely given so far as financial resources, which were always very much restricted, would permit.

"Later I shall explain the work of the Dispensary at the present time.

"Measured by individual existence twenty six years is a long time and necessarily, during that period, many changes have taken place in the persons of our organization who assisted in the organization of the dispensary and in its maintenance have finished their life's work and passed, let us hope to a happier sphere, but their labor has survived them, the Dispensary still lives. The succeeding generation has firmly grasped the torch, kept the flames burning, and its healing light still shines in the homes of the afflicted poor of our City.

Philanthropic Effort Better Organized

"It is an historic fact that the great majority of a passing generation view with, many misgivings, the attitude of who are succeeding them. They are not to be obsessed with the idea that at their passing a world of chaos will supervene. This is a great fallacy. The rising generations, in most civilized countries, are in most cases, superior morally and mentally to their predecessors. While they may not attend church so frequently they are nevertheless, I believe, carrying out the principles of the Christian religion more fully than any past generation has done since its Divine Founder came down from Heaven. There never was a time in the history of the world when the civilized nations were so thoroughly organized for philanthropic effort, formulating and making plans for the benefit of the human family.

Social Service Organized

"Let us, for example, investigate the advance made in Social Service in Prince Edward Island during the last fifty years. Fifty years ago there was no hospitalization in Prince Edward Island, now we have three modern, well equipped hospitals. Fifty years ago had no orphanages. The poor and homeless children, deprived of their parents, were auctioned to the good and care to the best of their ability. We have two orphanages and a day care center for the poor. We have made to homes during the year. Our method is to give help to the children and to their parents. We have a Boys' Club and the Males Chorus for their generous help. Because of their bounty we were able to supply stockings and mittens at our Christmas time.

Work Among the Sick

A bed-ridden young girl is supplied with rubbing alcohol, cod liver oil and other medicine, and two young women who suffer with epilepsy get their tablets each week. Innumerable worm powders were given out—there is always a demand for these. One wonders why we can only suppose that insufficient, incorrect and poorly cooked food is the cause of it.

You will not be surprised after what has been said that our drug bill is over $600. As a rule people do not ask for medicine because they like the taste—indeed in a great many cases, they do not ask for it as soon as they should and we feel that every dollar spent for drugs, has been absolutely necessary and well expended. We keep a supply of simple drugs on hand, medicine we can give out without a Doctor's order.

The dental clinic for children up to twelve years of age is a splendid service and a great help to the town. Children over twelve and adults as well, constantly come to the Dispensary suffering with toothache, unable to afford to have the tooth extracted. We call a dentist in and state the case, and help has never been refused. On the contrary, the dentists are always ready to help the sufferer—and I wish to pay a tribute of sincere thanks to them and to the medical Doctors who are always ready to give of their services to the needy without charge. We pay for the medicine ordered, but to pay for medical services is not in our power, and the cheerful kindness with which such services are rendered is beyond all praise.

One Man Helped!

One man brought a prescription to us recently for the first time. He had been unemployed and was greatly discouraged. There was sickness in the home, no money to pay the doctor, grocer or landlord. He could get no further help at the grocer and the rent must be paid. A few days work helped but only a little. The man's clothing was really inadequate and he seemed ready to give up. We managed to ease the strain a little—and that is only one of the many such cases with which we have to deal. What a joy to be able to help even in a small way to brighten such burdens.

Distress Great At Christmas Time

So many children wanted to come to the Dispensary's Christmas tree, partly at least because Santa does not come to the homes of the unemployed, that it was difficult to know how to manage. We decided to give tickets, so many to a family, rather than one to each child as playing, was the fairest way. This was done, but the plan did not please the children, as none of them could bear to be left out. One tiny lad of four knocked at the door one morning and asked for a ticket. His bigger brother and sister had taken possession of the family's tickets and there was none for him at home. He was refused and started off in tears. But on second thought he turned back and marching into the room announced, "If you don't give me a ticket my Daddy will make you hop!" What would you have done with such a valiant little lad? Well, I did that, too—sometimes it seems rules are made to be broken.

The distress at the last Christmas season was greater than for years, but we found a splendid response to our appeal from men and women of good-will. Hearts are open at the Christmas time, and we think of others less fortunate than we, and for a few days at least, most families are adequately supplied. We wish particularly to thank the Rotary Club and the Males Chorus for their generous help. Because of their bounty we were able to supply stockings and mittens at our Christmas time.

The valuable health service rendered by the Red Cross, in this province is so well known that it is not necessary to give to this audience a detailed account of its ramifications. Similar efforts are in progress all over the world. Educational advantages are much greater than they were fifty years ago. With all these advantages the next generation surely must enter upon the activities of life better equipped than its predecessors.

Civilization Progressing

"In view of what is transpiring it would appear logical to conclude that civilization is progressing favorably and the human family is becoming more cultured and better as time goes on.

"It is gratifying to see that one of the buildings in the city that for many years has been unfit for human habitation, is now being demolished, which is a hopeful sign that in its place comfortable cottages may be built for the accommodation of our underprivileged citizens.

"This ends the moral disquisition of this address. I shall now introduce something more prosaic.

Function of Dispensary

"The principle function of the Free Dispensary is supplying medicine to the sick. The medicine is dispensed on doctors' prescriptions. In many cases food is supplied to those in absolute need. The year's operations will be fully dealt with by our worthy and painstaking supervisor, Miss Earle. The financial statement will be submitted by our secretary Treasurer, Mrs. Cotton.

"Last year we received from the Provincial Government, $300,000, and a like amount from the City Government. If the Dispensary is to function with a reasonable degree of efficiency it is absolutely necessary that these subventions be continued.

"Owing to the inclemency of the weather the envelope collection is not yet finished, the results, so far, are very satisfactory."

DISTRICT NURSE'S REPORT

The following is the report of Miss Amy Earle, district nurse in charge of the Free Dispensary: Ladies and gentlemen:

Once more the Winter is past and spring-time is here, and once more the report of the Free Dispensary comes to you with its tale of poverty, whose gloom is only pierced by the kindly rays of your generosity. This twenty-sixth annual report does not differ materially from the reports which have preceded it. Individuals come and go, circumstances change, cases differ and no statistics can give you an adequate idea of our work—its sum is written not in tables of figures on sheets of paper but in gratitude on humble hearts: If you could accompany me on my visits, or spend the afternoon of one week in our room, you would see for yourselves what new hope—new life almost—is given daily to discouraged, weak, depressed folk through the Dispensary as it deals out your charity with the utmost economy and the wisdom that comes of the needs.

Wishes to Homes

678 visits were made to homes during the year. Our method is to give help to the children and to their parents. We have a Boys' Club and the Males Chorus for their generous help. Because of their bounty we were able to supply stockings and mittens at our Christmas time.

Plan Formation Of "Ministerial Credit Union"

Members of Prince Edward Island Presbytery of United Church may be the first in the Island Province to start a co-operative credit union. United Church ministers in the province are planning to form a "ministerial credit union" for their own benefit as well as to demonstrate the workability of the credit union plan. Rev. J. W. Barbour said last night.

Formation of United Church Ministers' Credit Union was discussed at a Presbytery meeting in 1914 in charge of the cavalry division.

The work of his mounted troops won great praise and on a second cavalry division arriving Allenby was appointed commander of the newly constituted cavalry corps. He was about the same time given the K. C. B. He had been promoted lieutenant-general in 1916, and in June, 1917 was selected for the command of the troops in Egypt and Palestine, and promoted general.

The season was unsuitable for active operations on the borders of the Holy Land, for the first three months after his arrival in Egypt, but these were spent in perfecting preparations for an advance which began at the end of October, with the capture of Beersheba and the taking of Gaza a few days later. Successes followed relentlessly until Jerusalem surrendered on Dec. 9th. Allenby had been given the G. C. M. G. for these achievements, materially improved his position during the next few months, and then was obliged by events in France to detach some of his troops to the western theatre of war.

In September of 1918 the British commander struck with crushing effect.

Edraon was flooded with mounted men, the infantry moved irresistibly forward, the enemy suffering overwhelming defeat. Allenby's brilliant services were recognized by his being given the G.C.B. and on the general distribution of honors for the war in 1919 he was promoted field marshal and was raised to the peerage as Viscount Allenby of Megiddo and Felixstowe, at the same time being awarded a grant of 50,000 pounds.

In 1919 he was definitely appointed British High Commissioner in Egypt.

Gifts From Many

Shortly after Christmas a generous friend left an order totalling $50.00 at two shoe stores and two clothing shops to be spent for needy children. What a delight it was to spend that money, and how we wished we had five times as much, for the need was so great. Underclothes, shoes and stockings are always in demand and our supply is pitifully inadequate.

The appeal through the press for the Dr. Jenkins Coal Fund brought but little response—only $100.00. It is true that the City gives relief in this way but those who draw pension money cannot get relief, and an order for coal helps such people materially, as it is hard for an old person to make the pension cheque cover all requirements.

A group of Boy Scouts again supplied a quart of milk a day for four months to a needy family, and our good friend from the country continues to bring in milk quite often through the Winter.

A lady's Club sent $5.50 to buy milk and another $4.80 for nourishment for needy ones. A group of young bankers sent us $5.00, the surplus after their Summer Camp was closed.

The Dispensary furnished the Y's Men with the names of several needy families with children and After the business of the evening had been disposed of an entertainment and smoker was held in honor of the newly elected members. Music was furnished by the "Harmonizers." The program included a recitation by Bro. Patrick McTague, a step dance by Bro. Stephen Connolly and a solo by Bro. F. Murray.

A vote of thanks was tendered the "Harmonizers" for the music they had furnished during the evening.

There was a record attendance at last night's meeting.

Personals

Mr. Walter Hyndman of Charlottetown, who spent the past two months in the West Indies following a severe attack of rheumatic fever, returned home Wednesday. He is very much better and hopes to be able to resume his regular business duties in a short time.

New Members Initiated At B.I.S. Meeting

A number of new members were initiated into the Benevolent Irish Society at the regular monthly meeting last night. The charge was read to the new members by Bro. Joseph Malone, first vice-president, who occupied the chair in the absence of the president, Bro. J. H. McKenna.

A number of applications from prospective new members were submitted and passed on to the investigating committee, which will bring in a report at a later meeting.

The society decided to make a drive for new members, each member being urged to endeavor to enlist new members in order to make the B. I. S. bigger and better than ever.

The report of the chairman of the charitable committee, Bro. Henry Dalton, indicated that during the past month there was a further increased demand for charity.

The secretary, in presenting the report of the social evenings committee, told the meeting that the evenings have been well patronized for the past month. A substantial revenue was derived from that source, he said.

A resolution was passed expressing the sympathy of the society to the death of his father, the late Mr. Patrick McKenna, who was a valued member of the society for a number of years.
