Y Maintenance Fund Campaign Is Launched

The annual Y. M. C. A. Maintenance Campaign was launched last evening with a supper meeting at the Y at which the more than 100 volunteer canvassers present were cheered by the report of Mr. T. Roy Cudmore, co-chairman of the Special Names Committee who stated that this committee were already in sight of the $9,000 mark. Total objective is $14,500.

"I congratulate you on the privilege of going out and raising money for the Y.M.C.A. There will be people in this town who will be disappointed if you do not call on them, stated Mr. R. S. Hosking, General Secretary of the National Council of the Y. M. C. A. of Canada who was guest speaker at the meeting.

The meeting was presided over by Messrs. J. A. MacNair and M. J. Barkhouse, co-chairmen of the City drive. Both men spoke briefly and urged the canvassers to do their utmost.

Mr. Hosking, in his remarks, stated that he was impressed with the fine work which the Y. M. C. A. is doing among the young people of Charlottetown. With Mr. Cudmore, your president, I visited a number of your citizens including the Hon. T. W. L. Prowse and Mr. George DeBlois and I found that the interest and support of these men for the Y. M. C. A. was excellent.

Your building, the first to be built in North America after World War II, is standing up well and meeting a real need in this community.

Mr. Hosking came to Charlottetown from Halifax and leaves today for Sydney. He described his visit last summer, to Europe where the world's Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. are working in the D. F. camps. He described the work as very necessary and greatly appreciated by the unfortunate people who have lost country, homes and all their possessions.

"I returned to Canada feeling how fortunate we are to live in a country with freedom and with unlimited future. I returned with a deep conviction too that the Y. M. C. A. can render a great service to Canadian young people," he concluded.

Mr. Hosking was introduced to the canvassers by Mr. T. Roy Cudmore, President of the Charlottetown Y. M. C. A. Mr. Cudmore noted that no other National Council of the organization, in his time, had ever been granted such a warm reception as Mr. Hosking.

Brigadier W. R. Reid thanked the guest speaker. I extend to you the heartfelt thanks of the meeting here and of the meeting as a whole, stated Brigadier Reid. Supper was served by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. and appreciation of the fine meal was expressed by Mr. Cudmore.

Two Distinct Cultures - With this approach to the future of culture in Canada in relation to Canadian civilization, Mr. Vandy went on to say that he did not approve of the term "Canadian culture." Canada is and must remain a country with two clearly different cultures. The aim should be to unite them without blending, enabling them to develop side by side and mutually enrich each other by their respective vitalities, while remaining each one perfectly distinct.

"They cannot merge one into the other without losing their cultural value," he declared. "Our duty is to use to the limit the spiritual wealth of these two cultures for the benefit of the homogeneity of a civilization which must reflect the true genius of the two great races which built this country."

"It is not compulsory that we think in the same manner on all problems," he added. "It is not compulsory that we all express in the same tongue a national ideal which will be identical, notwithstanding the shades which vary its aspects. It is not necessary, either, that the distinguishing ethical traits be expressed in works marked with similar stamps. To my mind, the essential is that there be enough charity in our hearts to bring together minds that have not been formed in the same pattern. Let us not tie our hearts to ideas, however excellent they may be. It is at this price that with dissimilar ideas we will be capable of building a civilization that the world will marvel at."

Chinese Use Spears - In regular supply dumps abandoned by the Chinese, the Allies found about 20 spears with six-foot shafts tipped with eight-inch blades.

AP correspondent Tom Bradshaw said it was believed that about 20 units of the Chinese troops in that sector were armed with these crude weapons.

On the extreme western front, AP correspondent Jim Becker reported Allied troops made their greatest gain in a week.

All along the Han they moved up to the ice-bogged stream against light resistance. Some units gained as much as four miles.

G. D. Steel, retired principal of P.W.C., who stated it was a privilege to hear such an inspiring lecture on one of the two basic cultures of this Dominion.

At the conclusion of the evening an informal reception was held at the Cumberland Street residence of Dr. and Mrs. Frank MacKinnon when many guests had the privilege of meeting and talking with the guest speaker. Mr. Vandy stated that although this, his first visit to this Province, was necessarily brief, it had awakened in him the determination to return in the summer in order that he might enjoy a tour of the Province of which he had heard so much.

Magr. Vandy's Address - Culture Magr. Vandy defined as the expansion of the intelligence in its search after truth and beauty. This included knowledge of the speculative sciences, of the liberal arts, and in general of all the imitative arts, as well as the moral sciences insofar as they remain in the fields of speculation and thus add to the enlightenment and splendor of the intelligence.

Civilization, on the other hand, must be defined by the virtues which make man righteous in the sphere of action and not only in the

Some Highways Closed Owing To Mild Weather

Certain Prince Edward Island highways have been closed to heavy vehicle traffic due to the exceptionally mild weather of the past few days.

The Provincial Department of Highways announcement applies to trucks, tractors and trailers whose weight exceeds five thousand pounds. The ban was effective at 8 P. M. Monday, Feb. 19.

Routes included in the weight restriction orders are: the highway from the Hillsboro Bridge to Mount Herbert Orphanage, from Millview Corner to Eldon, and the paved portion of the highway from Montague to Murray River.

Weight restrictions such as those announced yesterday are usually applied to light pavement during the spring months. But the high temperatures in the province during the past few days resulted in the Highway Department's decision to ban heavy loads in a move to protect the highways from damage.

Says Canadians In Korea Want Action

BRANTFORD, Ont., Feb. 19 - (CP) - Protestant chaplain home from Korea said the one thing Canadian troops in Korea want is "solid action."

Capt. R. C. Nunn, chaplain of the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, was overcome with virus pneumonia shortly after conducting Christmas service for the Patricia's and sent to Japan for treatment.

Now he's home on leave at Scotland, Ont., where he is United Church of Canada minister.

"The Korean terrain is worse than Italy," he said. "There are high winds, dust and a gnawing kind of cold. And there's nowhere to go for recreation. So the boys think they'll get their recreation in some solid action."

He said the Patricia's, who late last week were reported moving toward the battle lines, are among the best-equipped soldiers fighting for the United Nations.

OTTAWA, Feb. 19 - (CP) - Canada produced 261,798,000 pounds of creamery butter and 94,032,000 pounds of margarine in 1950, the Government said in a Commons return. At Jan. 31, this year, there were 46,376,000 pounds of butter and 1,359,000 pounds of margarine in storage.

ed in the secrets of divine wisdom. Some of the realities indispensable to human life he defined as the rights of God and the rights of man, the requirements of human brotherhood; the interdependence of souls in the bosom of the great human family; the superior laws of Christian charity enfolded in its divine embrace all the nations of the earth, and with greater reason, all the groups in the same nation; the transcendent requirements of truth which always remain one above all the ignorances, all the prejudices, and all the passions; the inexpressible rights of Christ and his Church, the spiritual realities he found in both French and English culture, both being permeated with Christianity, and equally vital to Canadian civilization.

Frankly Speaking - "English and French people of Canada, we are the sons of a Christian tradition," the speaker continued. "Most of us are baptized. On this score we belong to Christ. Our baptism we are bound to pay homage to Christ of all that we are, of all that we have, of our country as well as of everything else. But I do not forget that we, Catholics and Protestants, do not understand Christianity in the same manner."

"Let us be frank enough to admit that, relative to Christianity, we are at diametrically opposite poles. Our creed is not the same. There is even an abyss which separates us in the profession of the religion of Christ. Nevertheless there exist, let me hasten to add, convictions in both groups concerning Christ. His divinity, His doctrine, His spirit, as well as concerning the moral obligations which all men have to become His disciples and to love him, convictions which meet and which should be pooled together so as to create a Christian atmosphere in the entire country, from ocean to ocean."

"Thus by adhering more profoundly to Christ, by putting Christ more fully in our lives, in our homes, in our activities and in our political life, as well as in our personal lives, we take the chance of making Christ penetrate more deeply into our Canadian life and civilization. Let us put Christ frankly in the relations which unite us, Catholics and Protestants."

"It is for this reason that I throw Him between you and myself tonight; so that He may bring us together. Let us take it at heart to know one another because of Christ; let us love one another as brothers, on account of Christ. Let us not attach our hearts to our ideas, let us learn to love even those who think differently from ourselves."

In conclusion, Magr. Vandy said that "if we sincerely desire it, we shall be able to build a Christian nation which could serve as a lesson to the world, a nation where Christ will be at home, where His teachings will be law, His spirit will inspire the laws, where His charity will enlighten the hearts, where all men will be brothers; in a word, a Christian nation where all the citizens will have the ambition of walking in the light of Christ, toward His light, trying to enlighten their hearts at the fire of His divine charity."

Spiritual Values - Strengthening spiritual values as the keystone of human culture, Magr. Vandy declared that French culture was built on these values. The spirit is human reason enlightened by faith, and thus initi-

New Method Of Teaching History In Island Schools

A new and easy way of teaching history in Prince Edward Island has been developed by the Visual Education Division of the Provincial Department of Education. It is a departure from the old text book routine and combines illustrations with contemporary happenings in other parts of the world to tell the story of the province since its founding.

The lessons are simple and direct. They are printed in large letters on a three-panel cardboard upright which folds neatly and can be circulated easily from school to school.

Full arrangements for the celebration have not yet been completed. It is understood that plans are also under way for a special service on Sunday, Feb. 25, when a wreath will be placed on the South African monument by two of the veterans.

Native Islander Dies In San Francisco

Mrs. Nelson MacDonald, Wheatley River, received the sad news on Saturday morning, December 30th that her sister Mary Ethel Moreside had passed away the previous evening in the San Francisco Hospital where she had been a patient for almost ten months.

On March 6th, 1950, she suffered a severe stroke and with her heart condition it seemed several times that the end was very near and on several occasions the doctors were amazed at the re-action of stimulants and other treatments. She was tenderly cared for by a cousin, Mrs. Jessie Lockner, R.N., who has been nursing in that hospital for a number of years and who gave her every attention possible and in addition to that she wrote very frequently to the members of her family advising them of her condition from time to time, which helped to ease the strain at having a loved one so critically ill and so many miles away.

She was born in North Milton and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Moreside school. When set up, it has a stage effect - floor and all. The floor contains a map which is used to trace the story in the unit. Each lesson is called a unit and there are 16 in all.

This particular series - the first - deals with the development of communications in the Province. Unit No. 1 deals with the discovery of the Island. The discovery is told in story and picture on the panel to the left. The middle and right side panels record, also in story and illustrations, contemporary happenings in other parts of the world - particularly the progress being made in the arts and sciences.

In each unit there is a folder contained in a side pocket which gives helpful instructions for the teacher as aids in teaching the material presented in each unit.

Unit No. 2 deals with the French Regime and No. 3 deals with the period when Prince Edward Island became a British Colony. Some of the phases dealt with in that section include the establishment of a government, and the first winter crossing of the Northumberland Strait with mail.

By Unit No. 4 the teacher has taken her pupils right into the communications of the province - an ever important topic in the history and development of the Island. This unit deals with the institution of a postal service.

The following units are entitled: The Advent of Steamships; Conversations through the Sea (Submarine Cable); Living by Gaslight; Railways; Conversations through the Air (Telephone); Electricity; Printing Progresses; The Gasoline Motor; Music in the Air (Introduction of radio); Travel by Air; Television (when it is likely to come to Prince Edward Island); Summary of Communication Developments.

The visual education division refers to the project as an exhibition and received many of the illustrations for it from the Public Archives of Canada. Actual work on the Exhibition was done by Miss Frances Johnston.

"Social evolution may form the background of this exhibition, for change in social attitudes and behaviour accompanied the growth of communication systems," said Miss Johnston in describing the new method.

Claims Housing Shortage Growing

MONTREAL, Feb. 19 - (CP) - F. A. Mager, president of the National House Builders' Association, said today that Canada's housing shortage will get worse in the coming year.

In his annual report to the association convention, Mr. Mager said curtailment of the National Housing Act by eliminating the "additional one-sixth loan" is an "alarming move."

He said this will make down payments $1,000 more than at present on five-room houses and $1,500 more on six-room houses.

In the discussion following Mr. Mager's report, A. T. Chaband said the Toronto Board of Trade estimated that 25,000 immigrants a month are coming to Canada, all looking for places to live.

Mr. Mager estimated in an interview that in 1951 "about 50,000 homes will be built," compared with 88,000 in 1950.

and had resided in San Francisco for the past twenty-five years where she had many close friends who mourn her passing. She visited the Island five years ago next summer after an absence of thirty-eight years.

She also leaves to mourn one sister (Gladys) Mrs. Nelson MacDonald and two brothers Garfield Quill Lake, Sask., and Adrian in Strathburg, Sask. One brother, Alford, predeceased her in May, 1947.

The funeral services were held on Tuesday morning at 10 a.m. at Manely-Matthew Chapel Divisadero St. The services conducted by the minister, Rev. Leon Harris. Interment was in Cypress Lawn Cemetery, San Mateo, Calif. Her death is deeply regretted by a host of relatives and friends on P.E.I.

Seaway Hearings Open Today

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 - (CP) - A congressional committee tomorrow will begin hearings on legislation to authorize the long-disputed St. Lawrence seaway and power project. Proponents hope they won't end up again on the merry-go-round.

If the estimated $1,000,000,000 project fails to win approval of Congress this time—Canada said "yes" 10 years ago—it probably will be years before seaway supporters can again match the momentum they have churned up now.

While some observers have hinted that the U. S. Government in past attempts to put the legislation across, had rendered only lip service, that scarcely is true today.

President Truman jumped into the fight this month, saying the seaway "is urgently" needed for defence—a view accepted by a former St. Lawrence opponent, Charles E. Wilson, now director of defence mobilization. This view is receiving serious consideration in Congress.

The opposition is reported to be frankly concerned. This is a vast departure from the attitude of "amused tolerance" shown in other years.

Opponents have vehemently termed the seaway idea "fantastic." They say the estimated cost is only a starter and in the long run the project would cost three times as much—or around $3,000,000,000.

The coal industry, railroads and some utilities have fought the development.

But many big steel companies are all for it and hope the half-century-old battle will be won this year.
