

Would Have Publishers' Story In Newsprint Probe

MONTREAL (CP)—President R. M. Fowler of the Canadian Newspaper Association has suggested that a United States Senate committee investigating newsprint might determine how hard up American publishers are.

In a personal statement filed with the committee at its request, Mr. Fowler says Canadian mill owners would like to know more about the U.S. customers "this kind of information is almost totally lacking" because ability to pay is a vital economic factor.

"What we hear and what the publishers say and do themselves would seem to indicate that the U.S. publishing industry is not in any financial distress or depression."

UNABLE TO APPRAISE

His 17-point statement was sent to the committee on interstate and foreign commerce of the United States Senate last week. Since Feb. 26, the committee has been looking into a newspaper, prompted by a $4-a-ton increase effective March 1 which raised the New York price to $134 a ton.

Mr. Fowler said his duties as chairman of the royal commission on broadcasting made it impossible for him to appear before the committee at this time.

He said 1956 purchases of high-cost newsprint from sources other than Canada amounted to more than $10,000,000 in the U.S. last year, "which might perhaps be taken to indicate that U.S. publishers could afford to pay something more than the prevailing market prices and found it profitable to do."

CANADA'S BEST CUSTOMER.

He also said that since Canada is the best U.S. customer and since her newspaper exports account for 22 per cent of all dollars earmarked for U.S. imports, "it is perhaps unfortunate that other Americans who have a direct interest in the newsprint trade have so one to speak for them."

Nor, he added, is there any one to speak for Canadians who "periodically are faced with increased prices by American sellers."

"An enquiry such as this in Ottawa into the prices charged by U.S. sellers of coal, oil, steel, machine tools or motor cars would be unthinkable."

NO SHORTAGE EXPECTED

He raised these other points: No newsprint shortage exist in North America and none is anticipated barring "some calamity" during the next three years.

Publishers, Canadian and U.S. newsprint producers seriously underestimated the market future in 1954, invoking a scramble to meet demand.

Nearly all Canada's production expansion since 1946, has been "expensive capacity," increasing from the newsprint capacity cost in the 20s and 30s of about $35,000 per daily ton to $100,000-$125,000 per daily ton in a new mill.

Increased costs of labor, raw material and transport have more than exceeded price increases—upped from $106 a ton in 1950 to the present $134.

Statistics showed that the recent $4 increase adds three per cent to the newsprint price and "amounts to an increase of less than three-fifths of one per cent in operating cost of most newspapers."

Employment In U.S. On Upgrade

WASHINGTON, (AP)—An upswing of 600,012 in employment last month in the United States, offsetting in part a surprisingly steep decline in jobs in January, was reported Tuesday by the government.

Employment rose to a total of 63,190,000, the highest February level in history and about 900,000 higher than a year ago.

The commerce and labor departments said in a joint announcement that unemployment dropped by 123,000 to a total of 3,121,000, or 4.7 per cent of the labor force.

Because of the adoption by the census bureau of a new definition of unemployment, the jobs total was 240,000 larger than it would have been under old standards. Similarly, the employment figure was about that much smaller.

Mr. Large said his statement was: "No mainland university has a course granting an ordinary teacher's license in one year."

In another quotation attributed to Mr. Large in yesterday's paper, it was stated: "In granting the privilege to St. Dunstan's, the Department of Education had committed a direct violation of the cherished rights of the church and the people." Mr. Large said his statement on this subject was: "Saint Dunstan's teacher training plan is a direct violation of the cherished principle of equal rights of all the branches of the church and at the same time an invasion of the public school system."

On another question regarding the School Act the Press report said "He said the Public School Act has been re-enacted each year and the act has remained the same." Mr. Large stated that what he said was, "Section 147 on non-sectarian schools has been re-enacted in the School Act each year it has come before the Legislature." At the same time, Mr. Large said a couple of statements made by him had been attributed to a Mr. Clark.

Mr. Large claimed that the newspaper report omitted to stress the lack of explanation on the part of the Minister of Education for the educational crisis and the lack of a plan for the future.
