ELLEN'S DIARY

Moonlight On The Water Is An Enchanting Sight

We remember now from the wide range and lovely, of the September scenes of today, the magic play of moonlight on the waters of the Strait. From an island beach, its sheen reached across miles of rippling tide, toward the far horizon. It made a fetching silver path on the blue of the sea, and above it the sky of silver-blue was a planned path of stars. James with us in the machine, which I was driving along a road that skirts a shore, smiled his appreciation.

Not to their native land across the seas, but to that of their adoption in a rather far State south and west. "This is surely a lovely night!" she said later. "The sight of moonlight on the water is enchanting. When we stood looking off across it, so many things came to my mind: thoughts of the homeland, which seemed so far away — but which we visited back in the years. Indeed a whole life passes in review at such a time. One sees the good days and the not-so-good, because we have experienced both. Yes, the happy ones, and those filled with that anxiety that comes when a member of the family is seriously ill, and everything seems dark and hopeless. But now with that past, a great sense of gratitude filled my heart. My husband beside me seemed to have that same feeling, for without saying a word, he put his arms about me. And suddenly because I was so happy, so grateful for shadows that had passed, I found there were tears in my eyes." Standing together on a cliff, above an island shore, alone there in the light of a harvest moon, a cou-

McInnis presided. The matter of a joint meeting of the Guild and the two W.A. groups, was discussed. This will consist mainly of potluck supper, followed by discussion sessions with the aim of learning how to create more interest in the work of the church. The members approved the meeting which is scheduled for September 18. At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Thompson.

Reports On Guide Camps Heard At Council Meeting

Members of the P.E.I. Council, Girl Guides of Canada, met at Red Cross Headquarters on Thursday, Sept. 9. Mrs. G.M. Avard, provincial commissioner welcomed members back, after the summer months.

Mary Donahoe, a Queen's Division representative who recently returned from Ottawa, gave a vivid and interesting report of the Trainer's Conference there. Under the leadership of Dr. Alan Thomas, Toronto, director of the Canadian Association for Adult Education, delegates discussed leadership and its relation to guiding. Dr. Thomas urged that we think of ourselves, not as an organization but as a movement, suggesting that a movement changes with the time and improves. By this, we should be a movement to create better Christian girls through the guide law and promise. Remarking that organizations often fail because of conflict of personalities, Miss Donahoe stated that we are often deprived of capable leadership because we cannot adjust to each other. Too often also, leaders are chosen on the basis of friendship — rather than capability. Citing some of the changes in the new guide program beginning this fall, the speaker stressed the need for basic training for people interested in youth work, and she outlined plans which the training committee have for future training programs.

Los Angeles, California concerned Heather Orford, one of two Canadian girls who attended the Senior Girl Scout Round Up in Idaho. Both girls, she reported, were extremely cooperative, adaptable, reliable and well trained in camping and other areas of scouting, and were well informed regarding Canada and guiding in Canada. A second letter from Mrs. W. C. Pirie, commandant of the Sunset Valley Round Up, in Gorham, N.H., sent appreciation for the fine patrol of guides from P.E.I., and their contribution to the good spirit of the camp — also for the excellent help of Mrs. Palmer, the guide in charge.

Mrs. T. E. Hickey, Prince Co. division commissioner extended an invitation for the October semi-annual meeting — to be held in Summerside, while an invitation to meet in Montague in November was given by the Kings Co. division commissioner, Mrs. G. Inman.

The baskets were carried by Marilla Woodside and Janet Henderson and refilled by Mrs. James Woodside and Mrs. Roland Proffitt. PERHAPS YOU WONDER WHY more and more women shop DOMINION for meat. That's because they know beforehand it will be naturally tender. Dominion doesn't stop at touring the packinghouses every day — they know that meat is not tender until it is properly hung. So Dominion waits until time and Nature bring out the full, rich, satisfying flavour and goodness — natural tenderness results, thanks to Nature and Nature alone! But shopping at Dominion is always a delight. The friendly people — the true bargains in good food is why more Canadians shop at Dominion than at any other store.

GOOD NEWS! A friend of mine, just back from a cross-country trip via CN's Super Continental, had plenty of good news to tell about the "traveling" comfort of CN's services. A curious person, she "examined" the cosy coach lounges as well as the sophisticated living rooms and gave me a "delicious" report on the elegant dining car and pleasantly casual dinette facilities. But, she felt that nothing could beat the ride through the Rockies in CN's "Scenicramic" Observation car. It is interesting to note that the standard of service is equally high on all of CN's "top of the line" trains, and the Scotian.
