"Imitation is the Sincerest Form of Flattery"

The best proof that

has extraordinary merits, and is in good repute with the public, is that IT IS EXTENSIVELY IMITATED. The imitations resemble the genuine article in appearance only. They lack the general excellence of the Genuine.

This notice is necessary, as injurious and dangerous imitations, liable to produce chronic inflammation of the skin, are often substituted for MINARD'S LINIMENT by Dealers, because they pay a large profit.

They all Sell on the Merits and Advertising of MINARD'S.

One in particular claiming to be made by a former proprietor of MINARD'S LINIMENT, which simply is a lie.

THE DAILY EXAMINER

DECEMBER 14, 1904.

A PRE-ELECTION PLEDGE.

ONE of the many pre-election pledges to the electors of Charlottetown was reported by the Patriot of the 12th inst., as follows:

"It was gratifying to all, to learn that both candidates were in favor of removing the old jail, and converting that land into an ornamental square. The Premier also endorsed this idea, and we may now look forward to the carrying out of this much needed improvement."

This is something to look forward to. We hope that the early days of the Twentieth Century will see the promised improvement, even though we have learned that pre-election pledges are, like pie-crust, made to be broken. Certainly the old jail ought to be put away as one of the Nineteenth Century relics that is not desirable as an historic monument. When they are about it, the Government ought to carry out THE EXAMINER'S idea: have a Provincial jail and poor house with the other provincial institutions, erected on the Government farm, and utilize the labor of those of the inmates who are able to work in the production of the food for all. A chain gang for the prisoners and a sharp overseer for sturdy beggars: keep them clean and comfortable, and work them well.

PAST AND FUTURE.

It cannot now be said that Tories in Parliament or Tories in the Legislatures have powers to greatly hamper the movements of the combined governments. Throughout Canada (except in Manitoba) the Liberals will see the old century out and the new century in. They have a splendid opportunity. Rightly, they hold the conservatives responsible for that which has been done in the past,—though they overlook the fact that Canada is all that she is from the national point of view, as a result of the grand designs and great labors of the men who have led the Conservative party. They will begin the new century surrounded by highly favorable conditions. The people have given them a free hand. We shall see what they will do towards the further development of the great heritage left to them by the Conservative party. It has been said that one man gathers and another scatters. Will the New Liberals scatter that which the Old Conservatives gathered, or will they go on building and strengthening and developing the national edifice? In the favorite words of Premier Farquharson, the new Liberals have "led the people to expect a great deal." We sincerely hope that the expectations of national prosperity that they have raised will be fully realized.

By the way, that was, on the part of the Patriot of yesterday, a rather unhappy application of the scriptural reference to the green bay tree. The words of the Psalmist are

"I myself have seen the ungodly in great power, and flourishing like a green bay tree; I went by and lo, he was gone, I sought him but his place could nowhere be found."

As for the Conservative party, which has played so eminent a part in the century drawing to a close, let us hope, on their behalf, that they will profit by the lessons they have lately received.

"Sweet are the uses of adversity, Which, like the toad, ugly and venomous, Hath yet a precious jewel in his head."

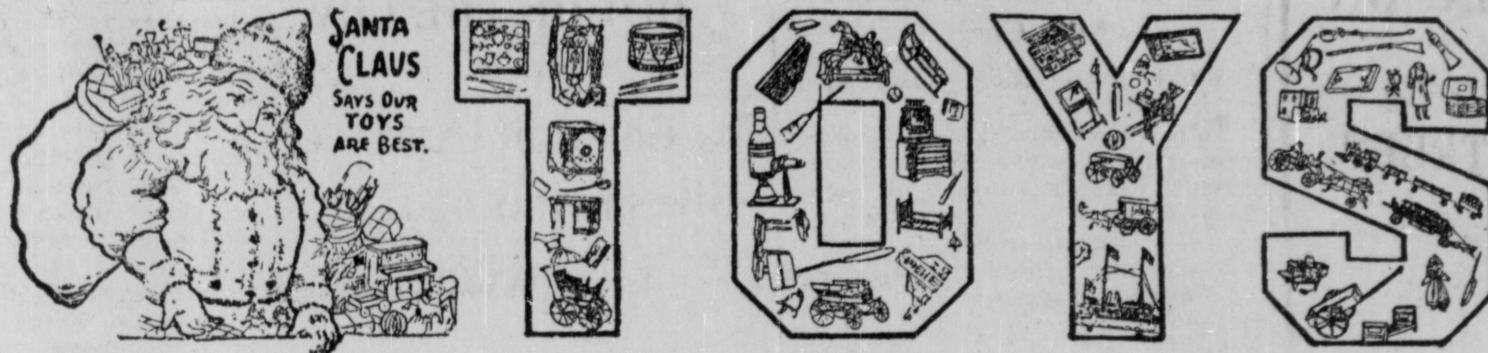

If the recent reverses are but accepted in the right spirit, the Conservative party will, again, ere long, present an united front, fully organized to do battle for the country within clearly defined lines of public policy.

We await with great interest the development of events.

AFTER THE BATTLE

THE Patriot glories in the hope that the Opposition will number but six in the new Legislature. Seeing that it is a universally recognized fact that a strong opposition is the best guarantee for the good government of the country, the Patriot's glee over the prospect of a weak opposition is, we submit, not patriotic. But we are not without hope that when all the votes are counted, the Opposition will be found to number nine or ten at least. It is to be noted, too, that less than a hundred votes judiciously distributed would have added four additional members to the number on the Speaker's right in the new Legislature, and have converted an opposition numerically weak into an opposition numerically, as well as otherwise, strong. In this connection we greatly regret that the editor-candidates are all among the fallen; for editors, as a class, are necessarily compelled to study carefully, from day to day, and from week to week, the conditions of the country, and are, consequently, always ready to give good advice to the majority in the Legislature.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

THE estimate of the Russian grain crop shows a decrease of about 48,000,000 bushels, compared with last year, on wheat, while the other crops make a favorable comparison. During the past eight years, the wheat crops of Russia have averaged 376,000,000 bushels, and the exports have averaged 104,000,000 bushels. This would leave an average home supply of 372,000,000 bushels. On the basis of this year's crop, and the average exports, the export surplus would be 52,000,000 bushels, plus the surplus of old wheat carried over from preceding years.

By a convention between Great Britain and the United States, the citizens of either country may inherit real property situate in the other. The difficulty has hitherto been that no foreigner could hold real estate in the Republic, the policy of the exclusive law being to compel immigrants to become citizens. Three years is given by the convention to sell real estate in the United States which has been a bequest. The convention does not bind the British colonies until notice given by any colony of a desire to have the benefit of its provisions. The Monetary Times remarks that it would be for the benefit of Canada to obtain inclusion.

It has been remarked that Lord Rosebery is the most adroit if not the most pronounced of Imperialists. In a recent speech, he presented Imperialism in a new light, as a necessity for the industrial life of the nation, quite as much as for protection against enemies in war. He pointed out that in some matters the British had allowed themselves to be outdistanced in industrial affairs by Germany and the United States. In war, we had found in Boer horses and Boer horsemanship something to learn. The English cavalry horses are too high; a new kind would have to be reared for that purpose, and the colonies present the proper field for their introduction.

In the course of a recent address Principal Grant, of Queen's University, said that he was a Canadian, and not a hyphenated Canadian, not an Irish-Canadian, nor a Scotch-Canadian, nor a French-Canadian, but just a Canadian. He was also a British subject; and this meant much. Since the Master of the Administration began his race war for the purpose of making the French-Canadians "solid" in support of the Liberal party, hyphenated Canadians have been too much in evidence. It is to be hoped, now that the elections are over, and the master's object has been gained, that we shall all be, like Principal Grant, just Canadians, and one people. It is as true of Canadians as of citizens of the United States that "United we stand; divided we fall."
