CIVIL SERVANTS HAVE PARTY

Charles Walton and Miriam Horne make good use of the music provided by Al Blanchard and his orchestra at the Charlottetown Hotel last evening. The occasion was the annual Civil servants Christmas party. The entertainment part of the program was provided by Didi Wynn, Patsy Lightizer, the Roberts Sisters, Kay and Elmer Gallant. The guests were welcomed by the president of the association, Thomas White. Master of Ceremonies was Ivan Docherty.

Weekend Briefs

DO YOU HAVE a favorite Christmas story for reading in the family circle, after "the stockings are hung by the chimney with care"? You'll find one in The Evening Patriot's Weekend Magazine tomorrow that will warm the hearts of all members of your family—and leave them some food for thought too! The setting of this illustrated drama is a tiny village in the Laurentian mountains, near Quebec; the main character, a dedicated country doctor. "Good Tidings of Great Joy" brings home the true meaning of Christmas.

YOU'LL ENJOY browsing back through the 1958 world of sports with Andy O'Brien, as he takes you on a 45,000-mile tour, and tells how he received his top sport thrill of '58.

EACH YEAR THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT is brought to life in its original setting—a country inn. But this time it's in Ontario, on the shores of Lake Huron. Three generations of family gather to fill the old inn to the brim with gay spirits, and to preserve precious traditions as they celebrate a real story-book Christmas. Your Weekend Magazine captures their festive spirit in a special feature.

"WHAT WE OVERLOOK, we businessmen, is that Christmas is a certain Birthday." Greg Clark (whose business is to amuse you by pulling stories out of his hat) arrives at this conclusion when a chain of misunderstandings is sparked by a car accident.

JOIN NIPPER at a gala Christmas party. The antics performed by Doug Wright's brain-child will produce a good many chuckles.

THERE'S PLEASURE for the whole family in The Patriot's Saturday edition, complete with Weekend Magazine and a 16-page color comic section. As the Island's "best buy newspaper," The Patriot is the only paper in the province featuring a magazine and comic section.
