TREES IN CHARLOTTETOWN.

Mr. P. P. GILLIS strikes the nail on the head. To have finetrees in Charlottetown must not merely plant; we must also care for them.

TRADE OF CANADA.

It is a remarkable fact that notwithstanding a universal depression of business the exports of Canada are still increasing.

THIS YEAR'S WOOL CLIP.

(The Canadian Journal of Commerce.) Writing on the position and prospects of Canadian wool growers, Mr. John Hallam says, in his annual circular, that so far, nothing is definitely known about the coming wool clip, or the prices it is likely to realize.

The delay at Ottawa in settling the tariff on woolen goods has created an industrial uncertainty and a want of confidence in the future of the trade. The proposed change in the tariff from compound to purely ad valorem duties will seriously embarrass the tweed, blanket and yarn manufacturers.

Most of the clip of 1893 is still in the hands of dealers and unsold. During the last twelve months large quantities of wool and shagwools, in the hands of the States, have found their way into Canada at prices much lower than our domestic wools and sheepskins could be sold for here.

The trend of the trade goes to show that the coming clip should be met with more care and at the following prices: WASHED FLEECE WOOLS. Combing Fleece, including Leicester, Cotswold, Oxford, Down, and all long-haired bright wools, 15 to 16c.

WASHED FLEECE WOOLS. Leicester, Cotswold and Oxford bright wools, 8 to 9c. Shropshire, good sound staple, 10 to 12c. Pure Southdown, 11 to 12c.
