

Plant a Home.

Young beginners in life's morning, Don't forget the rainy day; Sunshine cannot last forever, Or the heart be always gay.

He Came up Smiling.

You never can tell when a baby is going to cry. The merest trifles often strike them with the ragged edge, while really serious mishaps are sometimes taken with a certain semblance of philosophy.

Thy Speech Bewrathed Thee.

A Highlander in the British army, during the war of the Revolution, was caught creeping out of a thicket just beyond the lines, evidently returning from some secret errand.

"Only this, sir; I got away quietly from my comrades to pray a bit while in the bush, and was coming back when the soldiers took me."

"Are you in the habit of praying?" demanded the officer.

"Yes, sir!" "Then pray now. You never needed it more in your life."

Humorous.

One of the problems which puzzle a musician is how to strike a bee flat without getting stung by its demi-semi-quaver.

A correspondent asks:—"Do blondes or brunettes have the worst tempers?"—That depends on which you marry.—Philadelphia Call.

"I wish my wife wasn't a politician," said Sulkinks, sadly:—"Why?" asked his friend. "Is she a Democrat?" "No; she's a bolter—she won't let me in after a half-past ten o'clock at night."—Burlington Press.

A Lady of Newbury, S. C., the other day, found a gold ring in a potato which she cut in two for dinner. And yet most ladies lose every chance of finding gold rings by hiring servants to peel the potatoes.—Philadelphia Call.

"Let us go out hunting to-morrow," said Bob to Jim. "But you haven't got any dog." "Of course I haven't. If I had a dog I wouldn't want you to go along with me."—Texas Siftings.

A young man writes: "I have used Mack's Magnetic Medicine and am much pleased with the result." It has cured me after Doctors and other medicines had failed.
