VITA, Man. (CP) - A swirling cyclone ripped through this little farming community in southwestern Manitoba Sunday killing a two-year-old boy and leveling several buildings along its northern outskirts.

Scores of persons were injured and ambulances and firemen were rushed to the area from Emerson, 30 miles southwest. Vita, with a population of about 350, is 50 miles south of Winnipeg and eight miles from the Minnesota border.

The hospital, high school, bakery, hotel and drug store in the north end of the village were smashed to the basement level. Three homes were also burned to the ground.

Speculate Army Actually In Control In Argentina

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) - The Conservative afternoon newspaper El Diario de Montevideo surmises editorially that the army by itself may have assumed control of Argentina and command over the country. It listed these factors:

1. Peron, the "apparent victor" in the naval-air revolt against his regime, has been unusually "measured" in his aftermath speeches.

2. There is "a visible difficulty for full return to normality" in Argentina.

3. Peron's first two speeches did not mention the labor federation a mainstay of his regime, but heaped praise on the army.

4. Running against "typical Peronist" style the failure of the revolutionary attempt has not been celebrated with popular mass meetings.

El Diario says all this does not necessarily mean that the army has dismissed Peron but it could be that "this might give a new slant to a government which would lean more on the armed forces than on the workers unions."

To Study Problems Of Space Travel During Sun's Eclipse

BANG PA, Thailand (Reuters) - The space particles in that time. The next eclipse as long as Monday's next occur for nearly two centuries—on June 25, 2150.

The path of the total eclipse also falls across Ceylon, where teams of scientists are assembling from Canada, the United States, Britain, Japan, Switzerland, India and Holland.

Canadian scientists there are James Hargreaves of the University of Ottawa and C. C. Batchelder, formerly of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont.

Federal-Provincial Talks On Relief Open Today

OTTAWA (CP) - A federal-provincial conference on unemployment relief, opening today, is expected to receive a federal plan for sharing in the cost of relief. The plan, it was reported, will provide that the treasury bear a portion of the cost of caring for unemployed above a certain basic level. Because it does not provide for Ottawa bearing the major burden, it may meet with objections from several provinces.

The conference is an outgrowth of the April federal-provincial meeting called originally to draft an agenda for a full-scale fiscal conference in October. The conferees decided unemployment should be dealt with separately without waiting for the main meeting.

Representatives of all provinces will be on hand for today's session that will convene under the chairmanship of Prime Minister St. Laurent. Most of the provincial representatives will be departing.

mental ministers. THREE PREMIERS EXPECTED However, at least three premiers are expected to be on hand. They are Hon. Leslie Frost of Ontario, Hon. W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia and Hon. Alex Matheson of Prince Edward Island.

The federal formula, according to advance information, would be based on a calculation that about 150,000 persons are normally unemployed because of inability to work and hence would be outside the realm of federal responsibility.

Federal contributions would start as unemployment rises above that figure. The payments with the provinces and municipalities contributing, would go to those employables not drawing unemployment insurance.

The federal government already has indicated it will suggest a sliding scale of contributions, ranging from 30 and 50 per cent of relief costs, depending on the intensity of unemployment.
