If it be said they are but few whom this qualification would exclude; and, therefore their admission cannot be dangerous; we answer—The great objec of the education to be afforded to the people, is to qualify them for the due appreciation, and the right exercise of the political privilege of freemen; and, be they few, or be they many, who are unwilling to entitle themselves to these privileges, by their own exertions, when the means of enabling them to do so are provided for them, they cannot justly be deemed worthy of them; nor would it be safe to entrust such men with the exercise of them.

Mr. Longworth, we observe, is reported to have said that he thought the proposed Bill a very sweeping measure; and that it would have the effect of completely taking the privilege of returning members to Parliament out of the hands of those possessed of property, and who have a stake in the country, and giving it to those who had none. This view of the hon. member is, we apprehend, to a certain extent, the correct one. The measure, were it even limited by the educational qualification once proposed, would still be "a very sweeping" one, possibly a very dangerous one, for a time; but, with that qualification it would certainly, we think, be a much wiser and safer measure than it will be without it.

If the Bill pass with its present latitude of application, not only will it operate in the manner indicated by Mr. Longworth, but it will effectually place "the basement class of our social edifice in a position to over-rule all the others; it will give to those who toil the power to govern those who think; and impart to those who labor with the hands a supremacy over those who labor with the brain."

We are indeed the determined and steadfast friends of progress, and of every measure of true liberality and enlightenment; and—wholly regardless, as we are, of mere party interests, and, identifying our own with none but those of the people at large—we heartily rejoice in having it in our power honestly to declare, that the government measures of the Session now in progress—with the exception in one particular, of that now under our consideration,—are, in our opinion, not only strictly in accordance with the principles of justice and right reason, but we even question whether any others could, at present, be devised, more likely to give satisfaction to the people, and secure their future prosperity. But, with respect to the Extension of the Elective Franchise Bill, we are fully convinced that the extension, unless restricted by the educational qualification above alluded to, will be a very dangerous measure.

Extension of the Elective Franchise Bill.—On Friday evening, (25th, inst.,) in the House of Assembly, this Bill was reported agreed to in Commitee, without any amendment; and ordered to be engrossed. So far it has, we are sorry to say, progressed without an educational qualification clause.

(For Haszard's Gazette.)

Mr. Editor:—

I saw in your paper of the 10th instant, a copy of Mr. Gladstone's amended Bill, which is to confer upon the Church population of the Colonies, the privilege of meeting in Synod for the settlement of their own Ecclesiastical affairs. The Bill itself appears to be remarkable for little else than its vagueness and ambiguity. Still were the church thoroughly free from Tractarian error, less exclusive in her pretensions, and more anxious for the advancement of Christ's spiritual kingdom, than the enforcement of antiquated forms and pompous nullities, little danger might accrue from its passing into a law. Indeed, under such circumstance, sit might conduce to the promotion of a better state of discipline amongst us, and to render our public services more generally acceptable. But the professed principles of its framer, coupled with the ambiguity to which I have referred, are sufficient to excite suspicion as to the fairness of his intentions, and doubt as to the fitness of the remedy which he provides.

That Mr. Gladstone is a man of first-rate ability few will question, that he is a rash and busy meddler in Church matters is equally evident—and will it not at once occur to the mind of the reflecting and consistent Churchman, that if any pressing necessity existed for bringing such a Bill before Parliament, the Bishops, as the professed guardians and rulers of the Church were the men to initiate such a measure, and not a comparatively youthful Layman? Their Lordships have hitherto cautiously and wisely abstained from interfering, (at least so far as publicly known,) and who is he, who has had the temerity to put forth his hand to steady the ark of God? You will find his name among the supporters of the Maynooth grant, as well as among the opponents of the Ecclesiastical Titles' Bill. You will find him voting for the admission of Jews into Parliament, thus aiding in an attempt to unchristianize the legislature. He was the active associate also, with the Irish brigade, in overthrowing the late conservative and sound Protestant Ministry. As a theological writer, he is is said to be subtle and evasive, and as a Denominationalist, we know that he has left the fold in which he was nurtured, and made his way to a more retrogressive communion, not the Church of Rome, but a sort of half-way house between. Can we regard the boon then which this seceder offers to the Church, from which he thought fit to depart, without suspecting his motives, and the object at which he aims? We know not the voice of a stranger, and we must hesitate to follow where a stranger leads. After all, what need is there for this interference? If the privileges of Self-government granted to the colonies be of any value, it must surely include free legislation in matters of conscience. It is idle, therefore, to suppose, that we shall be obstructed in the management of our secular affairs, still more so, that we should be interfered with upon so sensitive a matter as religion.

It would appear from that sound and independent periodical, "The Church Witness," that all the North American Colonial Bishops are in favour of Mr. Gladstone's Bill, and that they have recommended it to the favourable notice of the Home Government, and this, strange to say without any fair or direct appeal to the views and wishes of the lay members of their respective Dieceses.

By an apparently preconcerted movement, several of these Bishops have recently arrived in England, to confer with the convocation, and that they may also aid the Bishop of Sydney, who is now in London, in securing the accomplishment of Mr. Gladstone's schemes. To what their plottings, (secret to us,) may eventually lead, unless they receive a timely check from the colonists themselves, it is not difficult to foresee, backed as they will be, by men of the highest official importance.

From the minutes agreed upon by the Bishops at Montreal, it is highly probable, that the Popish doctrine of baptismal regeneration will become one test of orthodoxy in the Colonies, as it now is in the English Dioceses of Exeter and Ripon, and little, if any hope will remain to us of effecting those improvements which are generally admitted to be so necessary to the progress of the Church.

An ominous silence for the most part pervades the diocese with regard to this important measure, and where notice has hitherto been taken of it, it is assumed that all is right, that no feeling of opposition exists towards it; that the bill is harmless, and may prove useful. But let us not forget, that should it pass the Imperial Legislature, it will influence all the acts and proceedings of Colonial Churchmen, whether they approve the Bill or not.

New Brunswick has indeed made a spirited and successful stand against the projected scheme, two parishes only, Carleton and St. Andrew's, giving it their approval, in the former place at a meeting of but twelve individuals, and at the latter by a majority of one!! Why should we not at once then follow the excellent example of our sister Colony? Indeed no time is to be lost, and let no infirmity of purpose characterize our proceedings; unless we at once rise to meet the present emergency, our freedom and independence will be wrested from us, and that without a struggle. Our silence will be construed into acquiescence, and though the blame may fall heavily elsewhere, still we shall have to thank our own supine indifference, that the bill ever became the law of the land.

These few observations, may, I hope draw attention to the critical situation in which we are placed, and induce others more competent than myself to come forward, with heart and hand, to free the Church from the tractarian toils which now, unhappily, beset it.

Yours, &c.

EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF LOSS OF HEALTH, DISORDERED STOMACH, INDIGESTION AND DETERMINATION OF BLOOD TO THE HEAD.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. John Lloyd, of Erw wen, near Harlech, Merionethshire.

To Professor Holloway,

Sir,—I avail myself of the first opportunity of informing you, that, for a very long period, I was afflicted with a dangerous giddiness and frequent swimmings in the head, attended by loss of appetite, disordered stomach, and generally impaired health. Every means had failed to give me any permanent relief, and at length it became so alarming, that I was really afraid of going about without an attendant. In this melancholy condition, I waited personally upon Mr. Hughes, Chemist, Harlech, for the purpose of consulting him as to what I had better do; he kindly recommended your Pills, I tried them without delay, and after taking them for a short time I am happy to bear testimony to their wonderful efficacy. I am now restored to perfect health, and enabled to resume my usual duties. You are at liberty to publish this letter in any way you may think proper

Extract of a Letter from S. Gowen, Chemist, of Clifton, Near Bristol, dated July 14th, 1852.

To Professor Holloway.

Dear Sir—I am requested by a Lady named Thomas, just arrived from the West Indies, to acquaint you, that, for a period of eight years herself and family suffered from continual bad health, arising from disorders of the Liver and Stomach, Indigestion, loss of Appetite, violent Head-aches, pains in the side weakness and general debility, for which she consulted the most eminent men in the colony, but without any beneficial result; at last, she had recourse to your invaluable Pills, which in a very short time effected so great a change for the better, that she continued them, and the whole family were restored to health and strength. Further she desires me to say, that she has witnessed their extraordinary virtues in those complaints incidental to children, particularly in cases of Measles and Scarlatina, having effected positive cures of these diseases with no other remedy.

(Signed) S. GOWEN.

A DANGEROUS LIVER COMPLAINT AND SPASMS IN THE STOMACH EFFECTUALLY CURED.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Bostock, Druggist, of Ashton under Lyne, dated July 31, 1852.

To Professor Holloway.

Dear Sir—I have much pleasure in handing to you a testimonial of the efficacy of your Medicines A person in this neighbourhood, with whom I am well acquainted, was affected for a long time with violent spasmodic pains in the stomach and liver, arising from frequent colds, smells of paint, and the effects of a stooping position, which he was obliged to assume in his business. The spasms were of an alarming character, and frequently left him in a weak and debilitated condition. At length he heard of the salutary effects of your invaluable Pills, and was induced to give them a trial. The first dose gave him considerable relief, and by following them up in accordance with your directions, they have acted so wonderfully in cleansing the liver and stomach, and strengthening the digestive organs, that he has been restored to the enjoyment of good health.

I remain, dear Sir, yours faithfully,
(Signed) WILLIAM BOSTOCK.
