Wanted.

A hat for the head of a fountain,
A glove for the hand of fate,
A shoe for the foot of a mountain,
A link from the chain of debate.

A spoke from the wheel of fortune,
A chip from the "pole" of the South,
A drink from the fountain of knowledge,
A word from the river's mouth.

A drink from the cup of sorrow,
A look from the face of the storm,
A stroke from the arm of justice,
A ring from the finger of scorn.

A knock at the door of repentance,
A throb from the ocean's heart,
A glance from the eye of a needle,
And from Cupid's bow a dart.

—Brooklyn Life.

Literary Notes.

Harper's Magazine for January presents to its readers an unrivalled variety of attractions It opens with a charming short story, "De Littl' Modder," by William McLennan, written in the quaintly picturesque dialect of the Canadian habitant, and appropriately illustrated by C S. Reinhart. William Dean Howells contributes an attractive and amusing farce, "A Letter of Introduction," which is accompanied by four attractive pictures drawn by W. T. Smedley. "Personal Recollections of Nathaniel Hawthorne" is the subject of an intensely interesting article by Horatio Bridge, who was Mr. Hawthorne's college classmate and life-long intimate friend. An entertaining story, "A Fourth-class Appointment," fully illustrated by C. D. Gibson, is contributed by Margaret Deland, author of "John Ward, Preacher." In a valuable article entitled "Canada's El Dorado," Julian Ralph gives a comprehensive description of the territory of British Columbia, its present condition and resources and its future possibilities. This article is accompanied by a number of characteristic pictures drawn by Frederick Remington. Following it is a charming poem by Arlo Bates, "The Sorrow of Rohab," beautifully illustrated by J. R Weguelin, Walter S. Drysdale contributes a graphic and impartial narrative of "Aaron Burr's Conspiracy and Trial," with which is given a full-page portrait of Burr from the painting in possession of the Century Club, New York. The plans, promises and prospects of "Our Exposition at Chicago," as they appear after a personal visit to the grounds, are clearly set forth and described in another article by Julian Ralph. Wilhelm Singer contributes an entertaining paper on "Popular Life in the Austro-Hungarian Capitals," the interest of which is enhanced by sixteen illustrations drawn by Myrbach. The "Neo-Christian Movement in France" is discussed in a thoughtful article by the Vicomte Eugene Melchior de Vogue. Walter Besant adds another chapter to his admirable series of London papers, in a remarkably interesting account of the "London of Charles the Second," which is accompanied by numerous appropriate illustrations. The Editorial Departments are conducted, as usual, by George William Curtis, William Dean Howells, and Charles Dudley Warner, and each fully maintains its well-known standard of excellence.

to have voluntarily written as follows:

WEYMOUTH, N. S.

Dear Sir,—I have used your PHOSPHOLEINE in many cases for which it is recommended, and am well pleased with the way in which it acts. In a case of the most obstinate Chronic Bronchitis (the disease had baffled the usual treatment in such cases) your PHOSPHOLEINE acted like a charm, and I ascribe the recovery entirely to the use of it. From my experience of it I feel justified in saying that it is an important remedial agent in all cases of Wasting Diseases, and I can heartily recommend it to the notice of the profession and public as a remedy of real merit.
