A CORRESPONDENT writes: Of the many houses consumed by the late fire, one was facing on Fitzroy Street, which, in the year 1839, served as an armory and place of drill for the only volunteer militia corps at that time on the Island. This corps were designated the Light Bobs, and commanded by the late Captain Lobbin. Of those who swelled the ranks of that corps, there are living near the city but five, viz.: Edward B. Love, John Scott, James B. Polard, Edward Needham and Charles Squires. In March, 1847, a very serious riot at an election in the district of Belfast, Queen's County having occurred, and all the regular troops of the garrison of Charlottetown being ordered off to quell it; Capt. Lobbin was ordered to occupy and take charge of H. M. stores and garrison during the absence of the regulars. The duty having been well attended to, His Excellency, the commander-in-chief, highly complimented Capt. Lobbin and his Company for their loyal services. On the return of the soldiers to town the volunteers returned to their homes. A few years after this event the Light Bobs were disbanded. In the year 1859 another body of volunteers was organized, from which sprang our present militia force.

THE QUEBEC FIRE!

LOSS. $150,000

QUEBEC, July 7. An midnight fire broke out in the Cavalry Stables, on the northeast corner of the Citadel, and all the horses, to the number of about twenty-six, were either burned or suffocated. The fire from this point spread to the western portion of the frontage and speedily made its way towards the main entrance, destroying in its course ammunition wagons, and "The Great Field Forge," built for such campaigns as that of the Northwest, stores, etc. The fire made its way to the main entrance, but was checked there and did little damage. Many timid persons left the town while the bombs were exploding, thinking the magazine had been reached. The Governor-General and officers quarters, artillery stables and Provincial armory which contained 25,000 stands of arms were uninjured. The loss is estimated at $150,000. No insurance.

The fire started in the cavalry stables and the stable piquet is said to have been asleep at the time. An investigation has been ordered.

Sir A. P. Caron was present and gave valuable assistance.

Telegram from Dr. Edghill.

HALIFAX, July 7.

When the Synod was called to order in the afternoon. The first business was to read the cable that had been received from Dr. Edghill, which was as follows:—

SCHILLER, To Rev. Dr. Gilpin: Deeply moved by Synod's confidence. Greatly perplexed. Could Synod give week for final answer; if not must with heartfelt gratitude and thankfulness decline. Am in Germany, hence delay. Not able to take advice. Elect another if waiting is inconvenient, for I am uncertain. (signed) EDGHILL.

A Difficulty Settled.

OTTAWA, July 7.

The Comptroller of the Mounted Police has received a telegram stating that trouble with Indians at Kootenay, District, B. C., has been settled. This, it is expected, will obviate the necessity of the despatch of 50 mounted police, now stationed at Golden, B. C., waiting orders from headquarters. The Indians, it appears, have agreed to deliver up to the authorities the prisoners rescued from jail some time ago.

Weather Bulletin.

TORONTO, July 8—10 a.m.

Moderate to fresh west and northwest winds, fair weather, stationary or higher temperature.

On Wednesday last the Emerald Branch of the Benevolent Irish Society gave a demonstration and tea at County Line which was highly creditable to the energy and zeal of the members. At least two thousand people enjoyed themselves on the occasion. Spacious refreshment booths, dancing saloons and other amusements were well patronized and the best of good humor prevailed. The day was one of the finest of the season, gentle breezes blew and a smile of satisfaction beamed on every countenance, old and young. The orderly, well dressed body of people who met there can well afford to call it a red letter day in their lives. The beloved parish priest was on the grounds, and entered heartily into the spirit of enjoyment. To the managers, one and all, the people give every praise. It was creditable to all alike, managers and visitors, and Emerald Branch may be reasonably proud of the laurels fresh and green, it has so creditably won.

The Fire Investigation.

A SPECIAL MEETING of the Fire Department to make some enquiries into the late blaze and transact other business was held in the City Council Chamber last evening. Almost all the wardens and a number of officers were in attendance. Chief Engineer Large presided and the Stipendiary Magistrate assisted in the examination. After the Chief Engineer had related the story of his being alarmed some short time previous to the ringing of the fire alarm, and his failure to connect with the central office by telephone, the examination of witnesses were proceeded with. The first called was—

W. B. MORROW, night operator in central telephone office. He said: He was first rung up on the night of the conflagration by Mrs. W. D. McKay, who wanted to know where the fire was. He did not notice what o'clock it was at the time, but had since spoken to Mrs. McKay on the subject and she had told him it was somewhere before three. About this time the fire bell rang. He did not think it necessary to call up the engine houses or the police station as he thought they would hear the fire bell; for the same reason he did not call up the fire wardens. The Chief Engineer's bell rang and he answered it, but could get no reply. He then went out to see where the fire was, and was absent but a few minutes. After he returned he rang up Mr. Urquhart, but no one else.

CHARLES CAMERON, police sergeant, said: Shortly before three o'clock on the morning of the fire a man came to the station, kicked the door and shouted "fire." I ran out after him. I ran down to Morris' corner, a short distance from the station, and then ran back to ring the bell. Officer Bradley was with me when I rang the bell. I rang it first from the lower flat, then went to the upper flat and rang it again. I was in the station when the door was kicked. The reason I was in the station was because I had been on duty almost continuously since the jubilee, and was thoroughly used up from overwork. My feet were blistered and my limbs so sore that it was painful to either rest or work. There was only myself and Officer Bradley on duty. Officer Taylor had been sick since Sunday, and we had to do his duty in addition to our own. (The police register was here produced.) It shows the time spent in and out of the station on Tuesday night and Wednesday morning as follows: From 7 to 9 out; 9 to 10 in; 10 to 2 out; 2 to 3 in; 3 to 9 out. I will not swear that this entry is correct. I will not swear positively as to the time I came into the station that night, but it would probably be between half-past twelve and one o'clock. Our duties were so hard that they would wear any person out. Officer Bradley was with me in the station. I do not know that the station door was locked, but rather think it was.

PETER BRADLEY, policeman, testified: The station door was locked when we were alarmed. We were out from ten until a few minutes to one o'clock. The clock struck three when I was crossing the Square, after leaving Cameron ringing the fire bell. Officer Taylor had been sick since Sunday. Our duties had been very severe of late, and I felt tired and worn out that night. This concluded the evidence. The majority of those present appeared to be of the opinion that the policemen were much overworked of late, but that this was no excuse for the city being left unprotected, nor for the police registry being falsified.

The Magistrate closely examined the policemen as to the entries in the register, and the time they were actually out on duty, and said that he would look into the matter of the neglect of police duties.

The fire engines were next discussed. Silby and her good work was highly commended; Rollo was condemned for her poor work some of those present comparing her with the watering cart.

Mr. A. D. White, engineer of Rollo, was dismissed from his position.

After some further discussion the meeting adjourned.

Bishop Edghill.

The Halifax Herald gives the following short biographical sketch of Dr. Edghill, Bishop (elect) of Nova Scotia:—

"The Rev. J. C. Edghill, D. D., was born January 2nd, 1835. He was ordained to the ministry in his 24th year. His first charge was at St. Mark's, Whitechapel. Thence he was appointed to a chaplaincy in the army and in 1879 was stationed in Halifax, where he won the highest respect of the people and enjoyed the love of the troops. After serving on other garrisons, he was promoted chaplain-general of the British forces (salary $10,000) and received from the Archbishop of Canterbury the degree of D. D. Dr. Edghill was also recently appointed chaplain of the Tower. Bishop-elect Edghill is a thick set man of ordinary height, with clean shaven face. He has a family of one son and daughter. Speaking of the new bishop last night, an enthusiastic personal acquaintance said:—'He is a complete Christian gentleman—a representative English churchman of the genuine Anglican school, one who accepts in its fullness the wonderful teaching of the 1,500 and more years of existence which the English church has passed through, and one who will use every effort to make his mother church the joy of all the earth.' There is very little doubt about Dr. Edghill's acceptance of the bishopric."
