EAT THEM GENTLY—Oysters are said to be so sensitive that they cannot stand even a slight shock. Their nervousness is so great that a thunderclap has been known to kill a whole boatload of them. During the war the fishermen claimed that wharves ever forts were located along the coast claims and oysters died by the thousands. —New York Tribune.

HIS HEALTH IMPROVED—The St. John Sun says Rev. L. G. Macneil, who has returned from P. E. Island in greatly improved health, will go over the bay to spend two weeks in Maitland and vicinity, his former charge in that part of Nova Scotia. He has not fully recovered from the serious nervous trouble that enforced rest from work, but is steadily improving, and anticipates great benefit from the next two weeks in pleasant Maitland.

THE GOVERNMENT CONDEMNED—At Tuesday's session of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance, at Toronto, a resolution was introduced and referred to a special committee condemning the government for permitting one province to overrule the rest of the provinces of Canada, which gave such tremendous majorities for prohibition, and calling upon all friends of prohibition in every constituency to endeavor to secure the defeat of any candidate refusing to work for prohibition.

A SENSATIONAL SPEECH—A man named Cochran was hanged in a town in Missouri last week for murder. On the gallows he made a speech, confessed the crime, and said his sins were forgiven. He had committed the murder through the too free indulgence in whiskey. Just before the trap was sprung he gave a great warning to the whiskey drinkers around him, by stepping back to centre of the scaffold, taking hold of the noose dangling from crossbeam, raising it aloft, and dramatically saying: "Whenever you turn up a glass of whiskey, look in the bottom and you will see the shadow of this rope."
