FEBRUARY 17, 1897.

MR. MCKINNON'S MISTAKE.

The following draft of the resolution to which Mr. D. A. McKinnon, M. L. A., took exception at the meeting held in Murray Bay a short time ago, has been forwarded to THE EXAMINER accompanied by a request that it be published verbatim et liberam.

Whereas the Government of Canada has contributed much larger sums of money to wards railway construction in Canada than was contemplated and authorized when the Province of P. E. Island entered the Union in 1873; and whereas P. E. I. did not have received any fair share of such large expenditure by the Government of Canada;

And whereas, the question of railway extension in P. E. Island was brought to the notice of the Dominion Government in 1895 and 1896, by representatives in the House of Commons and Senate of Canada from this Province, by a resolution of the Local Legislature of the Province, by memorials and petitions from the people and by resolutions passed at meetings held at different sections of the Province;

And whereas, the Dominion Government in response to those reasonable appeals from the people concerted to introduce into the House of Commons in 1896, a resolution providing for the construction of Branch Railways in P. E. Island, and thereafter committed itself to the railway extension then demanded;

Whereas, the Hon. L. H. Davies, now a member of the Dominion Cabinet holding the portfolio of Minister of Marine and Fisheries, has pledged himself to proceed with the construction of the Belfast and Murray Harbor Railway if his party came into power; and that such pledges were given by the Hon. L. H. Davies at meetings held in different parts of P. E. Island in the election campaign of June, 1896.

Therefore Resolved, that for the proper development of the resources of this Province, as well as for maintaining the pledged faith of Canada, it is imperatively necessary that immediate action be taken by the Government and Parliament of Canada at the coming session for the construction of the Belfast and Murray Harbor Railway, and that this meeting, and we feel convinced the people of the Island generally, will look with dismay, suspicion and distrust on any further delay in its construction.

Further, that the harmony and good will which should exist between this and other sections of the Dominion will be sensibly weakened if the Government and Parliament of Canada will proceed further with Railway expenditures in other parts of Canada, without first making provision for doing justice in this matter to P. E.
Island.

It must be apparent to everyone who may read this draft resolution that Mr.
McKinnon laboured under a mistaken idea when he contended that his preamble was offensive to the Hon. L. H. Davies.
The only part of the resolution that might be construed as offensive to Mr. Davies is that in which it is intimated that the meeting "will look with dismay, suspicion and distrust on any further delay in its construction." Mr. Davies might possibly be offended by the imputation that it was at all possible for him not to fulfill his pledge to set about the construction of the railways without delay.
But as the evident intention of the resolution was to strengthen his hands when advocating the construction of the railway in Council and before Parliament he would rather, we believe, be inclined to overlook that distant and unintentional reflection upon his good faith.

Without reference to the positive and definite statements of our correspondent "One who was present," it must be considered that Mr. McKinnon's objection to the Murray River meeting cannot be justified by his plea that the draft resolution was offensive to Mr. Davies.

A POSITIVE INJURY.

The attempt of the Patriot to boom the great and good man of the West River are sometimes a little funny. A day or two ago the smart fishermen of this Province were called on to express their gratitude to Mr. Farquharson for securing, by means of a telegram to Mr. Davies, the boon to them of an extension of the fishing season from the 14th of February to the 1st of March. The value of this boon can be estimated by the fact that the Stanley, if not now, and will not be able to carry away smelts until they are spoiled. The facts about the extension do not show that Mr. Farquharson is very powerful at Ottawa, or that Mr. Davies has acted in the matter in the interests of the Prince Edward Island. Here is what the Ottawa correspondent of the Montreal Gazette says on the 12th inst.:

"The season for smelt fishing in the Maritime Province, which closes on the 14th February, has been extended to and including the first of March."

This extension, instead of being a boon, is a positive injury to the smelt fishermen of P. E. Island. The North Shore New Brunswick fishermen, who, on account of the early freezing of their rivers, commeenced operations from one to two weeks earlier than the I. and N. are allowed to fish for two weeks after our connection with the market is cut off. The effect of this order is to reduce the price of our fish now on the way to market and cause loss to our fishermen.

GREECE AND TURKEY.
That Greece, if free to act, would make short work of the Turks in Crete is evident from the martial spirit her people are displaying and the result of the first encounter. At this distance it seems strange that the Great Powers of Christendom should interfere in the quarrel between Greece and Turkey. Greek Christians have lately been massacred by the Unspeakable Turk, who deserves all the punishment that Greece can administer. The present combination against Greece is explainable only upon the hypothesis that Turkey, with all her abominations, must be protected and maintained in order that the great Christian Powers may live in peace with each other. The situation is not credible to the great Christian Powers.
But it is impossible not to admire the pluck of the Greeks.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Montreal Star: Europe is afraid that, if Turkey falls upon Greece, "the fat will be in the fire."

Now that Mr. Edison has found a crystal that is much more effective than tungsten of calcium for use in the fluo-roscope, he will be able to discover all the secrets of a maiden's heart!

All of Ogilvie's elevators in Manitoba and the N. W. West are to be closed at once. Mr. Ogilvie explains that this action is necessary because of uncertainty regarding the duties on wheat and flour.

The Grand Trunk Railway reports its net receipts for the past half year to have been $216,100,—even though the Chicago and Grand Trunk part of system shows a deficiency of $27,600, and the Detroit and Grand Haven part a deficiency of $24,900.

One shipment from Roseland last week, as tabulated by the Miner, were 1,293 tons. From Jan. 1 to Feb. 7, inclusive, the shipments were 6,055 tons.
The average value of Roseland ore is $35 per ton, or about $180,000 so far this year.

Montreal Star: Mr. Davie's Washington interview has made his reciprocity mission quite popular with some of the U. S. papers. The idea of shutting Great Britain out of the trade of the continent appeals directly to the patriotic instincts of our Yankee neighbors.

As an echo of the recent contest in South Brant, the following queries from the Brantford Courier are of interest and should be answered: "How was it that the man charged, with impregnation was allowed to hide in the Reform rooms?" How was it that he was driven round by a well known reformer? How was it that he was bailed out by two Reformers?
What about the impersonator, and where is he now?"

Prof. Leigh B. Gregor, B. A., Ph. D., of McGill University, delivered a lecture before the Numismatic and Antiquarian Society of Montreal a few evenings ago on "French Canadian Literature," which is reported by the Gazette to have been "fascinating." The Gazette remarks that many of the listeners could not be convinced that Prof. Gregor was English, his French pronunciation was so pure and correct. Prof. Gregor's estimation Mr.
Froehlich stands at the very top of French-Canadian literature.

St. John Sun: It is reported that the men in the Prince Edward Island workshops had their hours of labor and their pay reduced twenty per cent. At last accounts Commissioners Wilson, Atkinson, Ross and their colleagues in Prince Edward Island and Quebec were drawing their usual pay. This is true generosity.
A reduction of say twenty per cent in the allowance of say twenty to twenty-five dollars a day to special Commissioner Wilson or Atkinson would mean a ruinous loss to him of four or five dollars a day.
The working man only loses twenty or thirty cents, so why should he complain?

The piteous appeal of Sir Richard and Hon. Mr. Davies to the Washington politicians is not approved by the more independent of the Liberal newspapers. For instance the Hamilton Times remarks: "Is the British Chancellor to expect that when he wants more revenue, or finds that he has been collecting too much, never worry about what France, Germany or the United States is doing. No more should the Canadian Finance Minister (an attention to Dingley and McKinley. How the imposition of next taxes, or the remission of old ones, will affect Canadians ought to be a big enough question for him."

WHAT'S WANTED!

SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT and Hon. Mr.
Davies to Uncle Sam:—

There is no more reason for a tariff between Canada and the United States than between New York and Pennsylvania? Vide Toronto Globe.

In other words, as N. W. York is to Pennsylvania, so ought Canada to be know, from such an undoubted authority as the Globe, what these Liberals really want.

A REPLY TO MR. MCKINNON.
DEAR SIR,—I notice in your issue of the 12th inst. a letter over the signature of Mr. D. A. McKinnon, M. L. A., in which he states that he is strongly opposed to the Railway resolution, proposed at the Murray River meeting because "in its preamble was woven a network in partisan language," which he (Mr. McK.) deemed offensive to Hon. L. H. Davies. Now, surely, Mr.
McKinnon cannot so soon have forgotten what actually occurred at that meeting, especially as he was one of the principal actors. If Mr. McKinnon only opposed the resolution because of its partisan character and its offensiveness to Mr. Davies, why did he object to the introduction of a resolution at all? Why did Mr. McKinnon ask the chairman to interfere in order to have the resolution not read? And why did Mr. McKinnon, when the chairman did not choose to interfere, attempt to prevent Mr. McKinnon from moving, from even having a word said? Further, why did Mr. McKinnon contend so strongly and stubbornly that the meeting was not called for passing such a resolution? He cannot but recollect that Senator Prowse read him the question calling for a vote, and even that that would not satisfy Mr. McKinnon. He (Mr. McK.) buttoned his coat and said he would take three hours to talk on the railway, and before that he would have to be in Georgetown.

Can Mr. McKinnon forget saying that the Hon. L. H. Davies was all powerful at Ottawa, and did not want the aid of a resolution or anything else? Why, then, if Mr. McKinnon was not opposed per se to passing a resolution—did he act in an unaccountable manner? The fact is that Mr. McKinnon thought he was surrounded by a sufficient number of ardent supporters who would do his bidding. He was mistaken. Dr. Barnes, Mr. Senebaugh and others—his (Mr.
McK.) own friends—old him plain that a resolution would certainly be passed.

Then, and only then, did Mr. McKinnon begin to be critical. Then it was he found out that the preamble was partisan, and offensive to Mr. Davies. There is no doubt but that Mr. McKinnon wanted to go out of the meeting boasting that he carried everything before him at Murray River.
But at any rate he has found out that the people of Murray River are sound on the Railway question, and not to be easily led aside.

But Mr. McKinnon says: "Senator Prowse, and Alexander Martin, M. P., after warmly supporting McPhee's and Prowse's (offensive) resolution, publicly asked the mover and seconder to withdraw it." Can Mr. McKinnon say that McPhee and Prowse did withdraw it? Well, well, Mr. McKinnon's peculiar eloquence must have struck terror into the hearts of Senator Prowse, etc. It must certainly be pleasing to the vanity of Mr.
McK. to think so. The fact was that when Senator Prowse, etc., clearly said that Mr. McKinnon was bound on opposition, they took the ground completely from under his feet by proposing that Mr. McKinnon himself say a resolution. As Mr. McKinnon did not seem anxious to write one, Mr. Senebaugh and Dr. Barnes drafted one which was accepted.

Those present may recollect that Mr. Martin strongly insisted on the mover suggesting to have the memorial mentioned in the resolution forwarded to the Dominion Government.

Mr. McKinnon may mislead the general reader, but he certainly cannot mislead any who were at the meeting. The object of the resolution was to thwart the passage of a resolution, and before Mr. McKinnon can deny that, he will require to give an honest reply to questions I have in this letter asked him. There is no doubt but that Mr. McKinnon made a sad mistake.
In the place of trying to put the blame on others, it would be much better for him to acknowledge it in a manly way. What was there in the first resolution so offensive to Hon. L. H. Davies? Mr. McKinnon is the champion to defend Hon.
L. H. Davies, against Senator Prowse, Alexander Martin M. P., and Mr. McPhee and A. P. Prowse Esq., who, Mr. Mc-Kinnon says wanted to pass a resolution implicating Mr. Davies in an offensive way. It would be a serious charge to make. Neither Senator Prowse nor any one else wished to offend Mr. Davies.
The preamble to the resolution recited that the late government was committed to the railway by consenting to introduce a resolution for its building in the House of Commons in 1896. It also recited that the Hon. L. H. Davies was committed and pledged to the railway. Would that be implicating Mr. Davies in an offensive way? Mr. McKinnon must certainly think his great leader is made of tissue paper. There can be no impropriety in referring, in a public document, to pledges publicly made. Why should either Mr.
Davies or Mr. McKinnon be so very sensitive in reference to their railway or other pledges. A good honest pledge or promise, honestly carried out, no honest man need be ashamed of. It is only when pledges are broken and fulfilled that they are offensive. Then those who made them desire them out of sight and buried. Mr.
Davies' railway promises are all right yet.
Should he fulfil them, they need not be offensive to him. But Mr. McKinnon, sooner or later, find out that it is not enough to forget promises, or bury them, or leave them out of resolutions. He may want them buried out of sight, but what will the people say,—will they consent?
"Aye there the rub."

TELEGRAPHIC.

SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER

GREECE ATTACKS TURKEY.

Decided Victory in Crete.

OPPOSITION OF THE POWERS.

Admiration of the Italians.

Athen's, Feb. 17.

The first definite news of the Greek victory in Crete was received last evening, and the wildest enthusiasm followed the receipts of the intelligence. The Greeks, it is said, attacked and captured Fort Aghia, taking 400 Mus-um prisoners.
Among the number were 100 Turkish troops, the remainder of the prisoners being Moslems who had taken refuge in the fort.

Greece Threatened.

London, Feb. 17.

The Daily Mail says that the powers have sent a collective note to Greece, stating that unless the Grecian forces are withdrawn from Crete within forty-eight hours, the ports will be blockaded and hostilities begun against Greece.

Italy Pleased.

Rome, Feb. 17.

The bold action of Greece in attempting to solve the Cretan question with the sword has excited popular admiration everywhere in Italy.

DUMMY IRVING ON THE WARPATH.

Assault on Messrs. Gill and Crosby.

Cape Traverse, Feb. 17.

Last night, on the arrival of the mail special, the outlaw, George Irving, made an attack on the postal clerk, Mr. Gill, who, however, succeeded in getting out of his reach. He then assaulted Ed Crosby, station master, in his own office and in the discharge of his duties. Irving was partly under the influence of liquor, and it is generally conceded that he had an accomplice.
Superintendent McDonald has been notified to send the proper authorities here to-night to arrest this man.

The Mandament.

Montreal, Feb. 17.

On Sunday week the long-delayed collective mandament will be read from all the Catholic pulpits condensing the Lanier-Greenway School settlement.
There will also be attached a brief or Ecclesiastical letter from the Pope enjoining the faithful to hearken unto the voice of their natural pastors, the bishops of the church.

Fatal Railway Accident.

Moncton, Feb. 17.

Another fatality occurred at Palmer's Pond curve, on the Intercolonial Railway, yesterday, at the very spot where the Canadian Pacific express recently ran off the track. William Dixon, a deaf mute, walking on the track, was run over and killed.

Fire in Toronto.
