THE CATHOLIC TEA PARTY AT SUMMERSIDE.

This Tea Party was held on Wednesday last It was, as it deserved to be, a complete success. A spacious and very tasteful arbor had been erected for the comfort of the tea drinkers, and various kinds of recreation were provided for all who should chose to join in them. The day was fine, and people flocked in from all parts of the country for the double purpose of enjoying themselves and of helping on a good cause. We should think that considerably over a thousand people sat down to tea. We were told that more than two hundred tickets were taken at one table alone, and as there were eleven tables, we are quite safe in estimating the number who partook of the good things provided for them, at fifteen hundred at least. We have been present at a good many Tea Parties where those who attended them appeared to feel tolerably comfortable, but we can honestly say that we were never at a gathering of the kind where there was so great an amount of real hearty enjoyment as we witnessed at Summerside on Wednesday last. Everyone enjoyed himself or herself according to his or her peculiar taste. Those who possessed plenty of muscle and a superabundance of vigor were engaged in active sports, pitching quoits, throwing the hammer, &c., those who liked a little healthy harmless excitement could swing as fast and as high as it pleased them; those who felt inclined to trip the light fantastic toe had in the new building erected on the grounds, an ample opportunity of doing so to their heart's content, while those interesting couples who found the highest subunary bliss in each other's society—and we discovered not a few of these—might whisper their soft nothings to each other among the hundreds of gay promenaders without attracting the slightest observation, or they might cosily place themselves on the "——— seats beneath the shade,

For talking age and whispering lovers made."

and there be as happy as love, youth, and innocence could make them. The old folks, too seemed quite pleased with what they saw and heard. They appeared to sympathize heartily in the amusements of the young people, and spent the day very pleasantly in chatting with old friends and acquaintances. We need hardly say that the tea was an excellent one, and that the ladies who attended the tables were good humored and attentive. An immense cake of seven stories on the table of Miss McKearnen, attracted universal attention. Its snowy whiteness, its great size, and its very tasteful ornamentation made it an object of universal attention. We may as well say here that this mammoth cake was raffled for, and was won by M. Clark, Esq., of Cascumpec. This gentleman, with characteristic generosity, caused it to be sold for the benefit of the object of the Tea. It was purchased by Mr. Richaud, of Tignish.

We don't like to say how much money we have heard that this cake realized, but the sum was considerable. We have been informed that thirty pounds was made by the sale of the cake alone. Most of those who attended the Tea came in for a treat which they did not reckon upon. The Princess, as most of our readers know, had, on Wednesday evening, on board, the world renowned celebrities, Tom Thumb and lady, Commodore Nutt and Miss Minnie Warren. No one expected to see them in Summerside. Those who were on the wharf when the Princess arrived were surprised to see the small great people on the deck in full view. Word was quickly carried through the town that they were to be seen, and the wharf was soon crowded with eager spectators. As the Princess was delayed some time, and as the little ladies and gentlemen very good naturedly remained on deck during her whole stay, the curiosity of the sight seers was fully satisfied. The enjoyment, as far as we could judge from appearances, was mutual. Tom Thumb and the Commodore seemed vastly diverted at seeing the motly crowd that thronged to get a peep at them and their lady fellow-travellers, and the crowd were exceedingly pleased to have the opportunity of seeing persons of whom they had heard so much, and of whom they never expected to catch a glimpse. There never was a clearer case of virtue rewarded. Many of those who churlishly remained at home, who could very well afford both the time and the money to attend the Summerside Tea Meeting, are well punished for their stinginess; while those who made a little sacrifice, in order to help on a good cause, are well pleased to find that they were rewarded, not only by the pleasure which they expected, but by a greater and a rarer one which they never anticipated. The behaviour of the people during the day was admirable. There was a little noise in the town about nightfall, but this was the work of some two or three individuals, who ought to have been very speedily shown that the peace of the community could not be disturbed, or the safety of the inhabitants endangered, with impunity. The want of some effective means of checking an incipient row, is very much felt in Summerside. A few drunken rowdies, who are lost to all sense of shame, and upon whom advice and warning are thrown away, by their noisy brawling and reckless driving, bring undeserved reproach upon the whole community. If every well intentioned, quietly disposed citizen would but consider that regard for his own reputation demanded that he should promptly assist in preventing any approach to unruly conduct by any one on occasions such as we are writing about, and, if quarrelsome, drunken characters were made to feel that speedy punishment would certainly follow the least disturbance of the peace, a step would soon be put to the disgraceful conduct which we are compelled to witness at nearly every occasion of public festivity. It is certainly hard that a thousand well behaved people should be forced to bear the reproach of the outrages committed by some half dozen rowdies, whom they hate and despise. We repeat that nothing could be more peaceable and more becoming than the manner in which the vast majority of those who were at Summerside on Wednesday last conducted themselves; yet, because three or four blackguards got drunk and made a noise—good people are shocked, tea meetings are brought into disrepute, and the young folks are to be denied an innocent, a healthful, and even a necessary means of recreation.

The sum realized, after all expenses are paid, will, we understand, amount to nearly £150. The success of the Tea is, in great part, owing to the indefatigable exertions of the Very Rev. James McDonald. The whole arrangements were made under his personal superintendance He was everywhere and he forgot nothing. From what we saw of the Rev gentleman, we are confident that no task is too difficult for his energy and perseverence. We feel ourselves safe in predicting that in a very short time, the building, of which the foudation is already laid, will soon be erected, and that the school, so much needed by the children of Summerside, will before many months, be in successful operation.

Same day, and before the same, Stephen Hoopor, of Lot 48, was convicted and fined in the sum of Ten Shillings, with costs, for an assault on William Weatherbe, Lot 48.

Staples' New Pens.—Mr. B. F. Staples has recently invented another description of pen which we take great pleasure in recommending to the public. It is a plain circular pointed pen with a smoothly-rounded point. It is made entirely of steel, and unlike most pens, it is very durable, and will stand any amount of hard usuage, without materially damaging it. Mr. Staples is indefatigable in his exertions to supply the facilities to ensure a thorough system of penmanship among our people, and we trust that his excellent copy books, which are authorized by the Council of Public Instruction, and this good pen will be extensively used throughout the Province.

Bostonite. This is the name given to a new material manufactured by Messrs. Perry & Co. of London, into Tablets, Slates, Memorandum Books, Diaries, &c., and is an excellent cheap substitute for Ivory in the above named articles, as writing with a lead or colored pencil is easily erased with moisture. Messrs P. & Co. are also manufacturers and patentees of an almost endless variety of useful articles in the Stationery and Fancy Goods line. A very nice assortment of their Goods is on sale at Mrs. Bremner's Book and Stationery Store in Prince Street.
