HANDSHAKES.
PADEREWSKI HAS A POWERFUL GRIP.
Corbett's Grip is Kid-Gloved-Bishop Potter Shakes Hands Benevolently—Train Shakes Hands Only With Himself.
There is more character in handshakes than in palms. The possession of a "glad hand" is supposed to be the greatest gift of a politician, and it is a well-known fact that public men have frequently worked their way to success by their signal abilities in the extension of the "glad hand."
Handshaking has been a mania and an affliction to the great ones of the land for many generations. Whereas the South Sea Islanders rub noses as a method of salutation, of honor, esteem and distinguished consideration, the civilized man avotes to shaking hands with his Caucasian nose into a primeval South African pug, and compromises by shaking hands. But handshaking has yet to become a fad, and it is a sign of the times that there have risen experts in the occult science of chirologists who can read a man's character in his handshakes.
The chirologist and sensitive finger-prints, say the psychologists, who claim to be able to put themselves on a par with the occultists, who pretend to read the future in the lines of the palm, that they wish to influence by the holding of hands.
The great and eccentric George Dantes has never shaken hands with any of his citizens. He explained to an audience once that he did not wish to become "charged" with the "magnetism" of all sorts of conditions, which he said were the magnetic microbes of other people he shook hands exclusively with himself.
The most notable handshaker of the present day is the American, who is the man of musical finger-prints. He has, long, slender, white hands, with taper fingers that in attention. They are carefully manicured, and his hands are as soft, as velvet.
Those hands played thousands of dollars into the pocket of this man of music on his last visit to America, and they are successfully repeating the operation.
Those soft, white hands, which can whisper across the keys in minor cadences and wood the strings of a mandolin with Chopin nocturne, which can play the most subtle and delicate gossamer of sound on the treble of a grand piano, and which can hold the musical pulse of New York, and the pulse of London, and the pulse of the world, are the hands of a man who is a double-edged sword. He is a man of exquisite emotion to the eyes of strong men.
A Sunday World reporter has had the mingled pleasure of shaking hands with Paderewski. The ceremony was performed after one of Paderewski's most brilliant recitals. A coterie of musicians were gathered about the piano, and they were all looking at Paderewski. In the height of the inspiring moment Paderewski lifted his right elbow at an angle of forty-five degrees and extended his hand. He seized the reporter's hand from above in a quick, nervous grasp, like the shutting of a rat-trap. Then he turned on the pressure while he said a few words, and then he remarked with an unmoved countenance and in very credible English.
The soft slender fingers were wrought steel and cast iron. He seized the reporter's hand from above in a quick, nervous grasp, like the shutting of a rat-trap. Then he turned on the pressure while he said a few words, and then he remarked with an unmoved countenance and in very credible English.

Weak, Tired, Nervous
Women, who seem to be all worn out, will find in purified blood, made rich and healthy by Hood's Sarsaparilla, permanent relief and strength. The following is from a well known nurse:
"I have suffered for years with female complaints and kidney troubles and I have had a great deal of medical advice during that time, but have received little or no benefit. A friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began to use it, together with Hood's Pills. I have realized more benefit from these medicines than from anything else I have ever taken. From my personal experience I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be a most complete blood purifier. Write to Chas. Hood, 71 Cumberland St., Toronto, Ontario."
