

Rehford Square

Continued from page 3

awarded to Patricia McGregor. Prize for Second Highest Aggregate, awarded to Charlotteville Music, awarded to Norma Gallant.

Prize for Application donated by the Redeptorist Fathers, awarded to Helen Clarkin. Special prize for Effort, donated by a friend, awarded to Mary McLeer.

Grades IV & V.

Prize for Highest Aggregate, donated by the City School Board, awarded to Patricia Leightizer. Prize for Effort donated by Dr. F. C. Dougan, awarded to Mary Connolly.

Prize for Application donated by His Excellency Bishop Boyle, awarded to Barbara Blanchard. Prize for Highest Aggregate, Grade IV, donated by the City School Board, awarded to Elaine Frainger.

Prize for Effort, donated by Rev. James Smith, awarded to Marguerite Cheverle. Prize for Application donated by Rev. P. F. MacDonald, awarded to Linda Paoli.

Grade III

Prize for Highest Aggregate, donated by Rev. A. L. Herrell, awarded to Linda Paoli. Prize for Second Highest Aggregate, donated by the City School Board, awarded to Patricia Larrier.

Prize for Application donated by a friend, awarded to Georgina Reeves. Prize for Effort, donated by Rev. A. L. Herrell, awarded to Brenda Theriault.

Grade II

Prize for Highest Aggregate, donated by the City School Board, awarded to Joan Coker. Prize for Second Highest Aggregate, donated by Mrs. D. E. Gallant in memory of her grandson Ronnie Cudmore, awarded to Cheryl Ann Connors.

Prize for Application, donated by Rev. P. F. MacDonald, awarded to Ann Hawkins. Prize for Highest Aggregate, Grade II, donated by the City School Board, awarded to Frances MacDonald.

Prize for Second Highest Aggregate, donated by Rev. Francis Corcoran, awarded to Karen Walsh. Prize for Effort donated by Rev. Father Herrell, awarded to Diane Hagan.

Prize for Application donated by His Excellency Bishop Boyle, awarded to Janet Deveaux. Prize for Highest Aggregate, Grade I, donated by the City School Board, awarded to Judith Smith.

Prize for the Second Highest Aggregate, donated by Dr. F. C. Dougan, awarded to Eileen MacMillan. Prize for Highest Aggregate, donated by the City School Board, awarded to Barbara Doucette.

Prize for Second Highest Aggregate, donated by the Charlotteville Clinic, awarded to Gloria Anderson. Prize for Application, donated by Redeptorist Fathers, awarded to Patricia Campbell.

Prize for Effort, donated by Rev. Father Herrell, awarded to Helen Noonan. Prizes for Needlework Grade IX, donated by Rev. P. F. MacDonald.

Prizes for Arithmetic donated by Dr. L. I. Duffy, awarded to Anna Dennis and Gloria Cheverle. Prizes for Reading donated by Dr. L. I. Duffy, awarded to Kathleen Smith and Marilyn Garnum.

Prize for Public Speaking in the Senior Group donated by Rev. James Kelly, awarded to Mary Cheverle. Prize for Public Speaking in the Junior Group, donated by Reverend James Smith, awarded to Suzanne Francis.

Prizes for Needlework Grade IX, donated by Rev. P. F. MacDonald. Prizes for Arithmetic donated by Dr. L. I. Duffy, awarded to Anna Dennis and Gloria Cheverle.

Prizes for Reading donated by Dr. L. I. Duffy, awarded to Kathleen Smith and Marilyn Garnum. Prize for Public Speaking in the Senior Group donated by Rev. James Kelly, awarded to Mary Cheverle.

Prize for Public Speaking in the Junior Group, donated by Reverend James Smith, awarded to Suzanne Francis. Prizes for Needlework Grade IX, donated by Rev. P. F. MacDonald.

MacDonald, awarded to Pearl Mahar.

Grade VIII, donated by Liguorian Credit Union, drawn by Patricia Bradley. Grade 7 & 8, donated by Dr. Dougan, drawn by Dorothy Cheverle.

Grade VII, donated by the Charlotteville Clinic, awarded to Benita Binns. Prize for Weaving, in Grade VIII, donated by Rev. Father Kelly, drawn by Bernadette Kelly.

Prize for Crafts, Grade VIII, donated by Dr. L. I. Duffy, drawn by Adera Cannon. Grades VI & VII, donated by the Charlotteville Clinic, awarded to Sandra Cullen.

Grade VI, donated by Dr. F. C. Dougan, awarded to Wilhelmina MacQuaid. Grade V & VI, donated by Dr. F. C. Dougan, awarded to Geraldine McCabe.

Grade V, donated by Reverend Francis Corcoran, drawn by Patricia Murray. Grades IV & V, donated by the Charlotteville Clinic, awarded to Anne Moran.

Grades III & IV, donated by Rev. James Smith, drawn by Helen Somers. Grade III, donated by Dr. L. I. Duffy, awarded to Phyllis Kately.

Grade II, donated by Dr. L. I. Duffy, drawn by Eleanor Gallant. Grades I & II, donated by Dr. L. I. Duffy, drawn by Sandra Doucette.

Grade I, donated by Dr. L. I. Duffy, drawn by Sandra Poulton. Prizes for Household Science, donated by the Liguorian Credit Union, awarded to:—

Grade VIII—Teresa Hennessey. Grades VII & VIII—Merited by Ramona Gallant and Mary Beagan, drawn by Ramona Gallant.

Grade VII—Sheila Doiron. Grade VII—Pearl Stanley. Prizes offered to the Junior and Senior Classes having the highest standing for the year in the Punctuality Contest:

Prize for the Senior Group was donated by Rev. James Kelly, merited by Grade VII, drawn by Lorraine Bulger. Prize for the Junior Group, donated by Rev. James Smith, merited by Grades V and VI, drawn by Sybil Coker.

A special diploma for Proficiency in Penmanship in Grade VII was awarded to Catherine Duffy. A special diploma for Improvement in Penmanship awarded to Mary Lee MacMillan.

Senior Certificates in Penmanship were awarded to the following pupils: Mary Beagan, Joan Arseneault, Paula Noonan, Dorothy Cheverle, Florence Casford, Mildred Chandler, Jean Quinn, Teresa Gallant, Eleanor Doucette, Marcella Foley, Christina Lund, Mary Lee MacMillan, Patricia MacKenzie, Rita Reeves, Marlene MacLeod, Wilma Larier, Beverley Doyle, Sylvia Duffy, Carol Willowby, Ann Doyle, Louise Dryden, Mary Gallant, Letitia Martin, Veronica Shepherd, Marie Morgan, Ruth Cudmore, Rhoda Longaphie, Sheila Doiron, Barbara Cronin, Hilda Power, Ellen Weeks, Phyllis Gallant, Catherine Duffy, Patricia Laurie, Naomi McGuigan, Pearl Stanley.

A special diploma for Proficiency in Grade VI was awarded to each of the following: Helen McCabe and Florence Kelly. Special diplomas for Improvement in Penmanship in Grade VI were awarded to Maureen Bell and Mary Chamberlain.

Junior Certificates were merited by the following pupils: Maureen Bell, Edna Diamond, Gloria Lund, Elizabeth McTague, Joan Pineau, Barbara Duffy, Wilma Weeks, Brenda Cheverle, Lois MacLellan, Clare Lind, Patricia Gaudet, Ann Morgan, Mary Connolly, Mary McAleer, Beverley Flanagan, Muriel Chamberlain, Anne Marie Chamberlain, Ariene Molyneaux, Lillian Peters, Joan Brown, Evelyn Hynes, Eileen Beagan, Geraldine McCabe, Sally Winchester, Norma Kelly, Alice Noonan, Margaret Rose Martin, Elaine Clarkin, Sandra Cullen, Rita Doucette, Helen McCabe, Louise Peters, Marie Davey, Dorothy Rush, Eleanor Beagan, Helen McKenna, Pearl Peters, Patricia Leightizer, Jacqueline MacKinnon, Marjorie MacDonald, Teresa Gallant, Patricia McGregor, Helen Clarkin.

The following pupils were awarded Progress Certificates: Geraldine Campbell, Anne Tierney, Rose Pineau, Shirley Gauthier, Eileen Miller, Claire MacKinnon, Sylvia Sherran, Barbara Blanchard, Catherine Gallant, Rosalie Ferguson, Anne Moran, Elaine Trainor, Susan Doyle, Doraine MacDonald, Paula Gauthier, Dorothy Quinn, Florence Kelly, Dorothy Gallant, Marlene Weatherlie, Caryl James, Joan Doucette, Patricia Murnaghan.

Special Prizes For Music Prizes for Music donated by Rev. Dr. Gillis, awarded to Shirley Duffy. Two Community Concert tickets donated by Doctor J. D. McGuigan awarded to Margaret Beagan and Genevieve McGuigan.

Prize for Music donated by St. Joseph's Sodality and Alumnae, awarded to Paula Noonan. Prize for Music donated by St. Joseph's Sodality and Alumnae, awarded to Mary Smith.

Prize for Music donated by St. Joseph's Sodality and Alumnae, awarded to Helena Dowling. Prize for Effort in Music donated by Rev. A. L. Herrell, awarded to Mary Shannon.

Prize for Music donated by St. Joseph's Sodality, awarded to Anne Murnaghan. at her mother. Johnny said, "It's all right, Kay. Your mother knows all about it." Irene nodded silently.

Murder Is Forgetful

By WILLIAM BOGART

(Continued)

CHAPTER XXIV

Oddly, Nancy England showed no reaction. She merely sat there, immobile, looking straight ahead, eyes glazed.

Johnny said, "Well, Nancy, here it is... You were infatuated with Martin. You've always been." Kay gave a little gasp, looking at her mother. Johnny said, "It's all right, Kay. Your mother knows all about it." Irene nodded silently.

"The little messages you used to slip to Martin," Johnny went on grimly, "were neatly printed on the backs of large stamps. Martin used to collect stamps, and all you had to do was hand him a new one for his collection—with a message written on the back. You gave him one that night he died, didn't you?"

For a brief instant, Nancy's dark eyes stared hard at Johnny Saxon. Then she looked down again. Johnny went on: "Martin was tired of you. But you persisted. You demanded that he meet you that Saturday night at the gun club. Today you discovered that Grandpoppa Smith must have found those messages written on the stamps, and was looking for me in order to tell me. It was an easy thing for you to slip down your room, find him standing near the pool, and push him in. You knew the old fellow couldn't swim."

Nick Walker gasped. "Good God!" His face was rigid. Johnny paused. There was tension in the room. Irene Smith kept watching her sister, a sort of question in her deep, thoughtful eyes. She made no comment.

"All right," said Johnny, "so you even stole the sleeping pills from Karen's room. While I was away speaking to Karen in the hallway outside your room, this afternoon, you were right there behind your locked door. You were listening and so you knew she had them."

Nancy's mouth was a thin, grim line. Johnny suspected that she was clamping her teeth tightly together. But she didn't look up. "Karen told me the pills were missing—later," Johnny said. "Maybe you planned to put them in something Irene might drink—an overdose." He paused. Kay was staring. Moe looked amazed. No one spoke.

"Because," Johnny went on, "Martin had given you the brush-off when you were going to have it out with him that Saturday night at your gun club rendezvous. That's where you used to meet him. That's how Irene here, found out, because she went there afterwards to work on her book. She found something that must have told her the setup."

Johnny rubbed his fingers through his hair. He felt like a news columnist who specializes in keyhole secrets. Irene Smith saw his hesitation, said, "Go on. Finish it."

"Well," said Johnny, "so you, Nancy, met Martin at the club that night before he went out with his wife. There must have been a scene—and in the midst of it Irene, here, walked in on you."

Waving his hand, indicating that he was skipping some of the details, Johnny said, "The next morning Martin is found apparently the victim of a holdup. His wife, trying to drive frantically to get help, cracks up the car. The accident injures her head, and she remembers nothing that happens. So the secret of what occurred that night is locked in her mind! No one would ever know that on that Saturday night at the gun club you had taken an automatic from the gun case and were ready to kill him!"

Johnny's eyes moved across the room, back to Nancy's motionless figure in the chair. Nick Walker was shaking his head slowly. Doctor Clark now stood near Karen. She was gripping his arm. Both were tense.

"Then," Johnny added, "I arrived here. You discovered Kay and I went over to Northport together late yesterday afternoon. You wondered what Kay was up to... what she might have told me..."

Kay interrupted with, "She knew I suspected. I could tell!" For the first time, Nancy England spoke. "Yes, I tried to kill you both!" she snapped. Her words were ice. Her eyes, alive now, flickered with strange lights. "I can show you where the rifle is hidden. You can't miss that one, for it was never kept in the gun case. Martin bought it special once..."

Her cold eyes went across the room to Irene. Nancy's figure moved slightly. "And I'm going to kill her!" Johnny shouted "Moe! Watch her! She has a gun!" (To be concluded)

at her mother. Johnny said, "It's all right, Kay. Your mother knows all about it." Irene nodded silently.

"The little messages you used to slip to Martin," Johnny went on grimly, "were neatly printed on the backs of large stamps. Martin used to collect stamps, and all you had to do was hand him a new one for his collection—with a message written on the back. You gave him one that night he died, didn't you?"

For a brief instant, Nancy's dark eyes stared hard at Johnny Saxon. Then she looked down again. Johnny went on: "Martin was tired of you. But you persisted. You demanded that he meet you that Saturday night at the gun club. Today you discovered that Grandpoppa Smith must have found those messages written on the stamps, and was looking for me in order to tell me. It was an easy thing for you to slip down your room, find him standing near the pool, and push him in. You knew the old fellow couldn't swim."

Nick Walker gasped. "Good God!" His face was rigid. Johnny paused. There was tension in the room. Irene Smith kept watching her sister, a sort of question in her deep, thoughtful eyes. She made no comment.

"All right," said Johnny, "so you even stole the sleeping pills from Karen's room. While I was away speaking to Karen in the hallway outside your room, this afternoon, you were right there behind your locked door. You were listening and so you knew she had them."

Nancy's mouth was a thin, grim line. Johnny suspected that she was clamping her teeth tightly together. But she didn't look up. "Karen told me the pills were missing—later," Johnny said. "Maybe you planned to put them in something Irene might drink—an overdose." He paused. Kay was staring. Moe looked amazed. No one spoke.

"Because," Johnny went on, "Martin had given you the brush-off when you were going to have it out with him that Saturday night at your gun club rendezvous. That's where you used to meet him. That's how Irene here, found out, because she went there afterwards to work on her book. She found something that must have told her the setup."

Johnny rubbed his fingers through his hair. He felt like a news columnist who specializes in keyhole secrets. Irene Smith saw his hesitation, said, "Go on. Finish it."

"Well," said Johnny, "so you, Nancy, met Martin at the club that night before he went out with his wife. There must have been a scene—and in the midst of it Irene, here, walked in on you."

Waving his hand, indicating that he was skipping some of the details, Johnny said, "The next morning Martin is found apparently the victim of a holdup. His wife, trying to drive frantically to get help, cracks up the car. The accident injures her head, and she remembers nothing that happens. So the secret of what occurred that night is locked in her mind! No one would ever know that on that Saturday night at the gun club you had taken an automatic from the gun case and were ready to kill him!"

Johnny's eyes moved across the room, back to Nancy's motionless figure in the chair. Nick Walker was shaking his head slowly. Doctor Clark now stood near Karen. She was gripping his arm. Both were tense.

"Then," Johnny added, "I arrived here. You discovered Kay and I went over to Northport together late yesterday afternoon. You wondered what Kay was up to... what she might have told me..."

Kay interrupted with, "She knew I suspected. I could tell!" For the first time, Nancy England spoke. "Yes, I tried to kill you both!" she snapped. Her words were ice. Her eyes, alive now, flickered with strange lights. "I can show you where the rifle is hidden. You can't miss that one, for it was never kept in the gun case. Martin bought it special once..."

Her cold eyes went across the room to Irene. Nancy's figure moved slightly. "And I'm going to kill her!" Johnny shouted "Moe! Watch her! She has a gun!" (To be concluded)

at her mother. Johnny said, "It's all right, Kay. Your mother knows all about it." Irene nodded silently.

"The little messages you used to slip to Martin," Johnny went on grimly, "were neatly printed on the backs of large stamps. Martin used to collect stamps, and all you had to do was hand him a new one for his collection—with a message written on the back. You gave him one that night he died, didn't you?"

For a brief instant, Nancy's dark eyes stared hard at Johnny Saxon. Then she looked down again. Johnny went on: "Martin was tired of you. But you persisted. You demanded that he meet you that Saturday night at the gun club. Today you discovered that Grandpoppa Smith must have found those messages written on the stamps, and was looking for me in order to tell me. It was an easy thing for you to slip down your room, find him standing near the pool, and push him in. You knew the old fellow couldn't swim."

Nick Walker gasped. "Good God!" His face was rigid. Johnny paused. There was tension in the room. Irene Smith kept watching her sister, a sort of question in her deep, thoughtful eyes. She made no comment.

"All right," said Johnny, "so you even stole the sleeping pills from Karen's room. While I was away speaking to Karen in the hallway outside your room, this afternoon, you were right there behind your locked door. You were listening and so you knew she had them."

Nancy's mouth was a thin, grim line. Johnny suspected that she was clamping her teeth tightly together. But she didn't look up. "Karen told me the pills were missing—later," Johnny said. "Maybe you planned to put them in something Irene might drink—an overdose." He paused. Kay was staring. Moe looked amazed. No one spoke.

"Because," Johnny went on, "Martin had given you the brush-off when you were going to have it out with him that Saturday night at your gun club rendezvous. That's where you used to meet him. That's how Irene here, found out, because she went there afterwards to work on her book. She found something that must have told her the setup."

Johnny rubbed his fingers through his hair. He felt like a news columnist who specializes in keyhole secrets. Irene Smith saw his hesitation, said, "Go on. Finish it."

"Well," said Johnny, "so you, Nancy, met Martin at the club that night before he went out with his wife. There must have been a scene—and in the midst of it Irene, here, walked in on you."

Waving his hand, indicating that he was skipping some of the details, Johnny said, "The next morning Martin is found apparently the victim of a holdup. His wife, trying to drive frantically to get help, cracks up the car. The accident injures her head, and she remembers nothing that happens. So the secret of what occurred that night is locked in her mind! No one would ever know that on that Saturday night at the gun club you had taken an automatic from the gun case and were ready to kill him!"

Johnny's eyes moved across the room, back to Nancy's motionless figure in the chair. Nick Walker was shaking his head slowly. Doctor Clark now stood near Karen. She was gripping his arm. Both were tense.

"Then," Johnny added, "I arrived here. You discovered Kay and I went over to Northport together late yesterday afternoon. You wondered what Kay was up to... what she might have told me..."

Kay interrupted with, "She knew I suspected. I could tell!" For the first time, Nancy England spoke. "Yes, I tried to kill you both!" she snapped. Her words were ice. Her eyes, alive now, flickered with strange lights. "I can show you where the rifle is hidden. You can't miss that one, for it was never kept in the gun case. Martin bought it special once..."

Her cold eyes went across the room to Irene. Nancy's figure moved slightly. "And I'm going to kill her!" Johnny shouted "Moe! Watch her! She has a gun!" (To be concluded)

St. Peter's Hall Music Recital

The closing recital of the senior pupils of Miss Suzanne Brenton held on Friday evening was a very enjoyable occasion. The boys and girls gave delightful interpretations of their carefully selected pieces, several students showing marked talent. Certificates and prizes for McGill examinations were presented at the close of the programme and Miss Brenton was kindly remembered with a lovely gift from the pupils.

Program

- Allegro (Clementi), Janet MacKenzie. Whistling Tune (John Darwin) Clara Sharam. Prelude in A (arr. Chopin), David MacDonald. Landler (Steibelt), Joan Sharam. Prelude in c minor (Chopin), Ann Cerry. Curious Story (Heller), Elizabeth Atkinson. Vespers (Godean), Marjorie Plokar. Valse Miniature (Dunhill), Roma Korrey. Melody in F (arr. Rubenstein), Barbara Johnson. Pianoforte Duet — Spanish Dance (Moskowski), Ann Cerry and Elizabeth Atkinson. Sir Rupert (Schumann), Ina Lowther. Waltz (Schumann), Robert Brady. Peasant Dance (Beethoven), Barbara Ann MacKinnon. Waltz in A flat (Brahms), Douglas Clark. Contra Dance (Beethoven), Greta Hansen. Minuet in G (Beethoven), Helen Chappell. Angels Serenade (Braga), Jane Giddings. Mazurka (Chopin), Doris Clark. Piano Concerto (arr. Tchaikowsky), George Scantlebury.

YOUR HOME CAN BE UP TO 15 Degrees Cooler! DON'T LET SUMMER HEAT GET YOU DOWN. INSULATE NOW with Johns-Manville ROCK WOOL BATTS. M.F. SCHURMAN CO., LTD. Kensington — Summerside — Charlottetown A COMPLETE BUILDING SERVICE.

MONTH END SALE At GREENDAL'S MEN'S GABARDINE SUITS—2 Prs. Pants—$42.50 MEN'S SUITS TO $49.50—$34.50 MEN'S SUITS TO $39.50—$24.50 and $29.50 MEN'S SPORT COATS—Values $29.50—$19.50 All Other MEN'S SUITS, SPORT COATS and TOPCOATS—20% OFF USE OUR LAY-AWAY PLAN AT THESE SPECIAL PRICES — A SMALL DEPOSIT WILL HOLD ANY GARMENT GREENDAL'S Men's Store 144 Great George St.

TIRED FEET Soothe them with MINARD'S LINIMENT 35c. Rub on freely, and soon quick relief, free from. Fast-drying. No strong odor. Large economical container. 15-46.

OUT OUR WAY By J. R. Williams. OW-OH! YOU LEFT TH' WATER FAUCET DRIPPIN' ABOUT AN HOUR—NOW IT'LL START HIM HUNTIN' SUM'N I HAVEN'T DONE AROUND HERE! NEVER, NEVER GIVE HIM A BREAK! WHY DON'T YOU DO YOUR WORK, AND MINE WOULD BE OFF YOUR NECK, TOO! WHY MOTHERS GET GRAY. J.R. Williams.

CANADA'S BIGGEST TIRE BARGAIN! Firestone CHAMPION LESS BIG TRADE - IN ALLOWANCE on your Old Tires. Here's your opportunity to make money on your old tires — trade them in today and get a BIG allowance. Even though your present tires are only partly worn Firestone Dealers will give you FULL allowance for the unused mileage. You'll get safe, new Firestone Tires for your heavy summer driving and be money ahead. Remember, 90% of the trouble occurs in the last 10% of a tire's life... Trade now... see your nearby Firestone Dealer today! Ask about Easy Budget Terms.

CONSTIPATION GONE—FEELS FINE! For several years I suffered from constipation. Then I started eating ALL-BRAN regularly. Now I feel as a fiddle! Henry Richard, 1262 Lafontaine, Montreal. Just one of many unsolicited letters from ALL-BRAN users. You, too, can expect amazing relief from constipation due to lack of dietary bulk. Eat the ounce of tasty KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN daily, drink plenty of water! If not completely satisfied after 10 days, return empty carton to Kellogg's, London, Ontario. Get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

- J. T. DAVIES CHARLOTTETOWN, STEWART MOTORS LTD. CHARLOTTETOWN, TANTON TIRE SERVICE CHARLOTTETOWN, J. M. HARRIS SUMMERSIDE, K. D. HORNE SUMMERSIDE, NORMAN McWILLIAMS BORDEN