56 Injured During Riot In Jap House Of Representatives; 200 Police Called

TOKYO. (Reuters)—A riot broke out in the Japanese House of Representatives early today. During a 20-minute pitched battle with police an estimated 56 persons were injured, most seriously. Two hundred policemen were rushed into the Diet chamber after fighting among legislators got completely out of hand.

The trouble started at midnight after Liberal party followers of Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida sought to extend the House debate on a controversial bill to centralize Japan's police.

When the House chairman tried to take his chair to hear motions on a two-day extension of the debate, socialists leaped into his seat to hold up parliamentary action.

Liberals and House guards quickly formed wedges and charged the usurpers.

The House then flared into hand-to-hand fighting as savage as any in the country's violent parliamentary history.

Women Join In

Even women legislators joined in, and one woman—her blouse ripped off—ran from the chamber screaming hysterically.

Liberals and socialists grabbed inkwells, pens—anything at hand—and hurled them at each other.

Others climbed in combat, kicking and punching each other.

Women legislators, as chairman Yasujiro Tsutsumi elbowed his way through the bloody chamber to call in police—for the first time in Japanese history.

The 200 police had been ordered to leave their pistols and clubs outside, and they got the worst of a vicious 20-minute battle with the legislators.

When tempers finally quieted down, police estimated the casualties as follows:

Twenty-four policemen and 50 house guards injured.

Two politicians injured—one with a concussion.

Yoshida originally planned to leave today on a global tour, but as bruised and blood-stained legislators staggered home in the early morning hours, no one could predict when the premier is likely to depart.

Plebiscite Votes Being Counted

The counting of ballots in the Potato Marketing Board plebiscite was being yesterday morning in the Court House building by Sheriff Beaton, returning officer, and when counting was discontinued at 5 p. m., the vote stood 1802 in favour of the Board, 1004 against. Half the ballots received to date were contained in the total of the above figures.

Ballot counting will be resumed today at 9:30 and will continue until all the votes have been recorded.

Ballots continue to come in by every mail and will be counted if received before the backlog of ballots on hand is caught up with, Sheriff Beaton stated.

The voting has been called by the Provincial Marketing Board in an endeavour to settle the contentious question of whether the potato growers wanted the Board to continue functioning.

Community Planning Problems Discussed At Ass'n Meeting

"Cities and towns should have much to say about what is done in areas just across an artificial boundary to make certain nothing happens to their citizens because of what might occur outside," was the brief expressed last night by Mr. J.T. McVittie, Director of Public Affairs at Dalhousie University, in addressing the annual meeting of the Provincial Planning Association of Canada.

Army of Termites Invades Paris Area

PARIS. (Reuters)—An army of termites from western France has invaded two Paris districts. No damage has been reported yet but authorities fear that if the termites are not halted now, most of the city's buildings may be endangered in 20 years. The termites are of the "saintonge" variety, most formidable in Europe.

Britain Ousts 8 Chiefs In Buganda

KAMPALA, Uganda (Reuters) — Britain ousted eight tribal chiefs in Buganda province Thursday in a drive to subdue rising anti-British feeling in the east African protectorate of Uganda.

LONDON, (CP)—Roman Catholic church officials made arrangements Thursday for the return to Canada of the body of Most Rev. James Boyle, Bishop of Charlottetown, who died in St. John and Elizabeth hospital here after an illness of several days.

The body of the 68-year-old cleric is expected to be put aboard a plane shortly although the exact time was not made known. Aboard the plane will be Monsignor Patrick McMahon of Charlottetown who had flown to London to be with the Bishop during his illness.

The Bishop died suddenly Thursday after two operations. Only days before his death his condition was reported to have improved and hopes were held that he would eventually recover.

Funeral services will be held in Charlottetown. Both officiating at the Basilica and Rt. Rev. G. J. McLellan, Vicar General at Summerside last night were awaiting details from Msgr. McMahon.

The late Bishop Boyle was born in Afton, in Antigonish County, N. S., August 9, 1885, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boyle. He came here as Bishop of Charlottetown in 1944 from his post as parish priest at Holy Redeemer Church, Whitney Pier, N.S.

Known personally throughout the Province and esteemed by all classes for his outstanding qualities of mind and heart, His Excellency was a welcome visitor at countless functions, both official and private, and was particularly active in promoting social and educational improvements.

He was consecrated Bishop of Charlottetown in an impressive ceremony held in St. Dunstan's Basilica on June 6, 1944, with the Apostolic Delegate, Most Rev. Ildebrand Antoniutti, conducting the consecration. He was assisted by Most Rev. James Morrison, Archbishop of Antigonish, and Most Rev. P. A. Bray, Bishop of Saint John, N. B.

The sermon that day was preached by Most Rev. John Hugh MacDonald, Archbishop of Edmonton, who was the first made Bishop of Charlottetown and laity from all parts of Canada.

During Bishop Boyle's leadership of the diocese there was a tremendous surge of building as he took a keen personal interest in all needed work. He first made a real beginning in getting the Western Hospital, Alberton, started.

Have No Plans To Mark D-Day's 10th Anniversary

OTTAWA, (CP)—The government has no plans to commemorate Sunday the 10th anniversary of D-Day, the start of the Allied invasion of Normandy during the Second World War.

Mr. Hees asked Mr. Lapointe, a wartime lieutenant-colonel, what financial assistance the government is giving to 150 veterans who will visit Normandy this week-end.

Mr. Lapointe said the government does not give assistance to veterans who visit scenes of Second World War battles in which they fought.

Between 9,000 and 10,000 Canadians took part in the Normandy invasion, he said and it would be totally impossible to assist them in visiting that northern part of France.

No Progress In Armistice Talks

GENEVA. (Reuters)—Harsh words echoed in the Palais des Nations Thursday as the Viet Namese and Vietnamese rebel delegation disagreed on how a cease-fire in Indo-China should be supervised.

Conference sources said "no results whatsoever" were achieved in the second day of talks on who should supervise an armistice.

17-Year-Old Girl Tells How Mother Chased, Stabbed At Millbank, N. B.

MILLBANK, N. B. (CP)—A nightmarish tale of how 30-year-old Mrs. Archibald Russell and her 22-year-old son were followed 60 feet across a lawn Thursday morning shortly after midnight and brutally stabbed within a few feet of their car was unfolded here Thursday night by a daughter, Marie, 17.

The Lower Newcastle woman, mother of 11 children, died before reaching Miramichi hospital, Newcastle. Her son, Floyd, is recovering in hospital from two deep chest wounds, dangerously close to his heart.

Police are holding 50-year-old Aylmer Glidden, father of five children and brother of Mrs. Russell, in custody at the hospital where he is under treatment for head and chest injuries, allegedly received before the midnight stabbings.

Glidden, father of five children, is a brother of Mrs. Russell. Marie Russell, 17, said her mother had interrupted preparations for her niece's wedding, which took place at Chatham Thursday, to go to her brother's home after another son, William, 16, returned from there to report there was trouble at the house.

Mrs. Russell drove with William to Millbank, and she entered the house and came out with Floyd. The attack, said the girl, took place as they neared the car, in which William was still sitting.

William drove his mother and brother to the Newcastle hospital, but she died en route.

Police are reported to be holding a pocket knife found near the scene.

Mrs. Russell is survived by her husband and 11 children, including two sets of twins, ranging from six to 22 years.

An inquest is scheduled for sometime next week.

ST. LAURENT EXPECTS SPIES ACTIVE

OTTAWA (CP)—The government assumes that espionage or intelligence agents of foreign powers are trying to get secret information in Canada.

Prime Minister St. Laurent made that statement in the Commons Thursday as he rejected a Progressive Conservative demand for information on the government's security screening of federal employees.

The demand was made by David Fulton (PC—Kamloops), who said the screening system is open to the abuse of McCarthyism.

Mr. Fulton, speaking during study of justice department estimates, said civil servants coming under security checks have no opportunity to clear themselves of suspicion. The government had accepted the principle of guilt by association.

"If there is McCarthyism here, you can see where it lies," he said. His reference was to a statement March 3 by Trade Minister Howe that the government abhorred McCarthyism. Mr. Howe at the time was rejecting earlier demands by Mr. Fulton for information about the number of civil servants transferred or dismissed as security risks.

ONLY FEW JOBS AFFECTED

Mr. St. Laurent said there have been only a few cases in the civil service where jobs were affected by the security screening. There had been "quite a number" enrolled in the armed services without being screened and who were later released.

The government had decided against an appeal system within the security screen. Every effort had been made to be fair and no member could point to a case where there had been unfairness.

The government had the final responsibility for guarding against security leaks and there could be no question of exonerating a civil servant when a cabinet minister had serious and honest doubts about his reliability.

"We have got to assume that there are efforts made by foreign powers to obtain through their espionage or intelligence services information that we think they should not have," he said.

Mr. St. Laurent did not elaborate on his statement, but said that no one can say whether the government's security system is effective.

Mr. St. Laurent said there are files on all employees in confidential positions and the government had to appraise anything derogatory about character, susceptibility to blackmail or social contacts. It did not involve only loyalty, but also solidity of character and discretion — the amount of confidence the government was prepared to place in an individual. That could not be determined by a trial.

There were no figures on the number who had not been assigned to confidential posts, or who had been transferred from those posts, because of doubts of their reliability.

He said there is an interdepartmental committee to which ministers and deputy ministers sometimes go for advice about certain cases. The committee also dealt with the government's counter-intelligence work.

1,100 NURSES SCHEDULED TO ATTEND CONVENTION AT BANFF NEXT WEEK

MONTREAL. (CP)—More than 1,100 nurses are headed for Banff, Alta., from all parts of Canada to attend the 27th biennial convention of the Canadian Nurses Association.

Pearl Stiver, general secretary of the CNA, said Thursday the meetings June 7-11 will be the largest women's convention to be held this year in Canada.

"Despite the fact that this will be a record attendance, the public need have no fear of a shortage of nurses during the next couple of weeks," said Miss Stiver.

"Many of the nurses attending are doing so in their regular vacation periods. Other delegates have left work with the knowledge that their associates have things well in hand."

SPECIAL TRAINS

The delegates represent about one of every 45 Canadian nurses. They boarded special trains Thursday in Montreal, Toronto, and Ottawa, and later in Vancouver and other large centres.

One nurse, Mrs. Haidee T. Pearce, is travelling from Entry Island in the Gulf of the St. Lawrence. There is no doctor on the island, which has a population of 200, and Mrs. Pearce is the only nurse.

Another nurse, Verona Day, is flying from Whitehorse, Yukon Territory to attend the meetings. Health Minister Martin will address the delegates on the opening day of the convention. Later, they will discuss psychiatric nursing, social service, co-ordination of services and other subjects.

NEED NURSES

Miss Stiver recently declared in an interview that Canada needs more nurses. In lighter vein, Dr. J. Preston Robb discussed this problem Wednesday night in an address to the graduating class of the Montreal general hospital's nursing school.

Dr. Robb blamed cupid for the nursing shortage. Young graduates were getting married instead of pursuing their career.

His cure was to dress them in dowdy, loose black garments, topped by queer Italian haircuts. Then they would not so readily catch the eye of the innocent interne.
