UK Is Tops In Building New Ships

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain is in first place among shipbuilding nations at the end of the year, on the basis of figures released Tuesday, although tonnage under construction here was down by 215,000 tons from the first quarter.

The United States was in seventh place, behind Japan, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands and Sweden. U.S. yards were working on 648,806 tons, a decrease of 97,967 tons from the first part of the year. Tonnage on order in Japanese and West German yards was down, according to Lloyd's Register of Shipbuilding.

British yards were working on 933,745 tons of orders, Japan had 1,169,764 tons, a drop of 10,78 tons and West Germany had 90,454 tons, a decline of 71,561 tons.

There was a considerable variation among shipbuilding countries, the register said, reflecting the unsettled state of the industry generally.

About 32 per cent of total tonnage under construction — 300 ships totalling 5,076,893 tons — were oil tankers.

Quebec Seen As Roadblock

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker today was noted as saying Quebec would be a major roadblock in establishment of a federal-provincial highways commission.

R. J. Hastings of Vancouver, president of the Canadian Automobile Association, said in an interview the association submitted a 16-page brief to the federal cabinet last week asking for establishment of a commission which would carry out long-range highway planning on a continuing national basis.

"The prime minister told us that he was in complete sympathy with our proposal, that he considered it a necessary step," he said. "But he also made it unmistakably clear that he considered Quebec would prove a major roadblock."

IT WAS just another stop in what must be the most rigorous personal tour ever thrust upon any human being, and the Queen shows the results of the strain in this picture at Whitehorse airport. The picture, which shows Her Majesty grimly unsmiling, was taken prior to her enforced rest attributed to an "upset stomach".

Train Derailment Kills 2, Injures 30

HAMILTON (CP) — A CNR passenger train bound from Chicago to Toronto was derailed Tuesday about 11 miles east of here. Two women were killed and up to 30 persons injured, at least one critically.

The CNR identified one of the dead as Mrs. Gertrude Doran, 73, of North Bay, Ont. She died after admission to St. Joseph's Hospital in Hamilton.

The second woman, not identified but believed to be about 60, was taken to a funeral home in Oakville. She was struck by a broken rail which pierced the car, trapping Mrs. Doran in the adjoining seat and inflicting fatal internal injuries.

The railway was still seeking to identify the second woman, who was taken to a funeral home in Oakville. She was about 60.

In St. Joseph's Hospital with critical injuries was Mrs. Mary Dewlak of Sarnia, Ont.

None of the other injured persons were immediately identified.

GLAMOROUS WOMEN' Furs Are Modelled In 85-Degree Heat

By STEWART MACLEOD Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — In blistering 85-degree temperatures, four chic models wrapped themselves in furs Tuesday and showed how Hardy Amies wants women to dress next winter.

The girls, walking with starched smiles under the hot glow of television lights, gave 112 women and four perspiring men a glimpse of the dressmaker's desire for a return to furs, dark colors and clean, clear lines.

Amies says: "It's time women looked fabulous and glamorous again after the lean years."

First of all, he puts the waist back exactly where nature intended. And, as he says himself, there is "more shaping, especially in front."

With these innovations, he dresses his models in dark overcoats of black and brown. Most collars are trimmed with furs, some with velvet. There is a definite tendency toward wider, sloping shoulders.

Many overcoats have matching suits or dresses that featured 3/4-length sleeves, low collars, and loose but shapely waists.

Skirts, described as shortish, are about an inch below the knees.

Practically every hat worn with the 72 creations are pillbox styles. Some sprout feathers, some have bows, others are trimmed with fur, and a few swamped in furs—Davy Crockett style.

Cocktail dresses remain predominantly black with low backs. These are well fitted with bows—some actually hiding the shoulder. Several have exceptionally low fronts—well below the models' sultan line.

For evening dresses, greens, blacks and browns win most favor with Amies. There is no definite trend in styles in this department and the creator said "anything goes."

Mayor Currie said the council still plan to maintain the pay-as-you-go policy as they have done the past three years. He said last year the town had a capital reduction of about $50,000 and expressed the hope that a small capital reduction can be effected this year.

In regard to the tax rate of $29 Mayor Currie said he felt confident that this rate could be maintained next year, pointing out that the costs of renovating an extra 22 classrooms, $13,000 for desks and equipment and other costs will, next year, go to $4.00 per thousand.

His Worship stated that expenditure figures have been carefully prepared by each committee in conjunction with the town manager and town clerk and have been pared down in every department as much as possible. He stated "we have allowed a very small margin—a surplus of $275.10, which means every department will have to keep within its budget figures and to make savings wherever possible, because they're always unexpected expenses arising." He said he believed they could keep within the estimates with everyone's cooperation.

Queen Resumes Schedule After Rest In Edmonton

Defaulting Tories Asked To Resign

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The Progressive Conservative Association of Newfoundland Tuesday asked two members of the newly formed Newfoundland Party to resign from the legislature.

James Higgins and A. M. Duffy resigned from the Progressive Conservative party to protest the federal government's Newfoundland Grants Act. Monday they announced formation of the new party with themselves as the first two elected members. Mr. Higgins was named House leader at a party organizational meeting Tuesday.

The PC association said the executive feels the men resigned from the Conservative party because of "misguided patriotism" and had become "unwitting instruments in the incessant battle waged in recent months by the Smallwood government against the federal government."

NOT INFLUENCED

In a replying statement Mr. Duffy said it was impossible that he was influenced by Premier Smallwood's "propaganda."

He said he had resigned from the party March 25th, after Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced that special payments to Newfoundland would end in 1962 instead of continuing indefinitely.

RESIGNATION

A grandson of a Prince Edward Island Father of Confederation, Major William H. Pope, has resigned his commission in the Canadian Army because he does not agree with the defence policy. Major Pope is the son of Lieutenant-General Maurice Pope and a great grandson of William Henry Pope who participated in the Confederation conferences for the Island. Major Pope will become executive assistant to Hazen Argue, CCF house leader in the Commons. Pope's idea is that Canada's Army role should be confined to detection of attacking bombers and missiles. He was slated to be second in command of the Royal Canadian Regiment.

Surgical Complacency Blamed On Antibiotics

By DAVID OANCIA Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDINBURGH, Scotland (CP) — A Calgary doctor Tuesday told the joint meeting of the British and Canadian Medical Associations that antibiotic "wonder" drugs are responsible for a dangerous "surgical complacency" in the medical field.

Dr. J. S. Gardner of Belcher hospital said there had been a prevalent notion that the drugs might eventually eliminate all infections.

"The fact of the matter is that wonder drugs too often are responsible for rapid emergence of resistant pathogens. Prophylactic use of antibiotics and their therapeutic use should be carefully controlled."

CHANGING ATTITUDE

Dr. Robert Jones of Halifax said a changing public attitude is probably the most significant trend in the treatment of mental illness.

This changing trend is lessening the disgrace associated with mental illness and people are more willing to seek treatment at an early date, he said.

Jones reviewed 18 years of experience as a psychiatrist in Nova Scotia.

RED PRICE IS REJECTED Western Allies Threaten To Break Off Conference

GENEVA (AP) — The Western foreign ministers threatened Tuesday for the second successive day to walk out of the Big Four talks unless Russia quickly reduces its terms for an all-German committee on reunification.

The head-of-clash left the Big Four conference in a state of almost unrelieved gloom and crisis.

U. S. British, French and Soviet delegation spokesmen all agreed that no progress had been made and that a breaking-point could come next week.

But some gleams of hope remained. Ever-cautious U. S. and British officials expressed the view that Gromyko, on orders of Premier Nikita Khrushchev, may yet cut his price for a Berlin deal.

Fire Burns 2 Children

ASHLAND, Me. (AP) — The bodies of two children were found Tuesday night in the ruins of a woods camp where a raging forest fire is believed to have started in northern Aroostook County.

Officials said the children were badly burned and could not be identified immediately.

The bodies were found in a woods camp owned by Romeo Martin. Most of the area inhabitants spoke only French so wardens were unable to find out how the fire started or how the children were trapped.

Paintings Exhibition Is Termed Appalling

TORONTO (CP) — Four artists Tuesday criticized a current exhibition of paintings at the Toronto Art Gallery as "disgraceful and appalling."

In a letter published in The Star, Archibald Barnes, Allan Barr, Kenneth Forbes, and George Broomfield ask:

"How much longer can the directors of the Toronto Art Gallery flout the public in this way...? Is it not time for some courageous individual to clean out this Augean stable? Is the Toronto Art Gallery being publicly supported for the benefit of incompetence, fashionmongers and novelty-seekers?"

The four add that to call the room described as "contemporary Canadian painting" representative of Canadian artists is "nothing short of travesty."

GALLERY REPLY

An art gallery official said in an interview that Mr. Forbes "thinks abstract art is useless." "Tastes are different," she added. "Frankly, these people just don't move with the times. They have their own opinions."

The paintings in the exhibition all abstract works, include Elfr Tree at Horton Landing, by Ales Colville, Sackville, N.B.; Coups Pier Coups, by Jean Paul Rio pelle, now living in Paris; Flo raison Massive, by Borduas, 6 St. Hilaire East, Que.; Squally Weather, by B. C. Binning, Vancouver; Prairie Dimension, by Roloff Bony, who now lives in New York; in Down the Head by William Ronald, now in New York.
