

Says More Savings Should Finance Capital Expansion

By CHISHOLM MacDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer
MONTREAL (CP)—A. T. Lambert, general manager of the Toronto-Dominion bank, said Monday Canada's economy would be on a sounder basis if more savings of Canadians were used to finance capital expansion.

"A large proportion of our capital investment program is financed by the importation of foreign capital," Mr. Lambert said.

He described as "vulnerable" an economy whose trade deficit is financed by capital imports. "And recently," he added, "there has been a sharp increase in Canada's indebtedness abroad."

He met with reporters shortly before the first of a series of meetings which directors of the bank plan to hold from coast-to-coast. The meeting here was the first ever held outside of Toronto.

VISIT MARITIME
In observance of 100 years of banking service, the directors will also visit this week in Quebec City, Fredericton, Saint John, N.B. and Halifax. Beginning Sept. 23, another party will visit the major cities of Western Canada.

The purpose of the tour was outlined as:

1. To secure first hand data in respect to business conditions in various parts of the country.
2. To enable directors to become better acquainted with the bank's network of branches and the area which they serve.
3. To enable the directors to meet the bank's officers in various parts of the country.

A. C. Ashforth, president of the Toronto-Dominion Bank, referred to the amalgamation on a year ago of the Bank of Toronto and The Dominion Bank as having "greatly enlarged resources and enhanced ability to serve the future development of our country."

He hopes that Canadian would increase their savings with expressed by Mr. Lambert. He said the recent increase to 2 1/2 per cent in the rate of interest on savings accounts should encourage thrift.

GIVES PRAISE
He praised Canada's efforts to fight inflation by curbing expansion of credit.

"Some aspects of our monetary policy may be open to question," he said, "but the continued economic growth without inflation is one which everyone should laud."

In a period of "full employment such as we are enjoying, continuation of an easy money policy and rapid credit expansion would be an invitation to a boom and bust cycle."

He said a shortage of credit exists only because of a marked increase in demand. Canadian business concerns may not be able to get all the credit they want but there is no evidence that they are being hampered unduly, he added.

Drawn Back to Newfoundland Paints 19 Canvases In Month

By GERALD FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer
ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Some of the people in the cafeteria gazed curiously at the paintings on the wall but others have come especially to see them. The attention of a casual observer is often caught for a longer moment by the blazing colors and angular lines.

A cafeteria is an unusual place for an art show, and in the middle of it all the painter, a dark, heavy-set man with grey-flecked black hair, watched with amusement. Frederick Steiger, 57-year-old Toronto artist, was back here on a sort of pilgrimage to seek and interpret the beauty of Newfoundland's cliffside fishing villages and St. John's paint landscapes.

SPARKLING PIECES
The 19 paintings he put on show for a week in August were started less than a month earlier, when he began dabbling on canvases with his spatula to translate the Newfoundland he sees into sparkling abstractions.

"It is so rugged, almost primitive," he says. "It seems to hypnotize me."

This year he was considering going to Mexico, another artist's paradise, he says, but the lure of Newfoundland proved too strong. He had been here twice before, once to paint more than 40 portraits of Speakers and prime ministers during Newfoundland's century of responsible government, once to paint landscapes. The portraits hang in the house of assembly.

He is a self-taught artist of national reputation whose exhibits are familiar in Toronto, Vancouver, Montreal and New York, but not in St. John's only cafeteria-style restaurant.

Mr. Steiger is famous in Canada for his 1937 painting "drought," showing a farmer sadly surveying scorched fields, and for a series called "courage" painted in England.

He came to Canada from his native Romania in 1922, first as a commercial artist. Now Mr. Steiger makes his living mainly from commissioned portraits and art instruction.

SUMMER CREATIONS
"I hate to be called a portrait painter," he says, "but that is my bread and butter."

"I do no creative paintings in the winter," he says. Routine painting for a living takes his time and attention. "Original thought must come before creative art." In Newfoundland with the country before him and the sea breeze in his face, he can think.

But he often paints with a flock of children chattering at him. "Before you can paint a place you must know the people," he says.

"You don't look like an artist," somebody told him as a group gathered at his table in the cafeteria. "You should have long hair and a flowing bow tie."

Steiger grinned and took a swipe at his black mop. "I like it long," he confessed, "but I have to get it cut sometimes. Maybe I don't look like an artist—this short though, maybe."

He wore a black sport shirt under a white tweed sports jacket.

"People who try hard to paint like artists don't get time to think."

Long, secretary of the general council of the United Church of Canada, expressed amazement at charges made by the Anglican archbishop of Quebec, who said he had received letters from the United Church asking him "to stay out" of an area selected for the United Church's extension work.

Let's Talk It Over

Chamberlain and his umbrella have become to us symbols of appeasement as Churchill and his cigar are symbols of the never-say-die spirit of the English race. But the more you think of Chamberlain and the terrible dilemma which history thrust him into, the more sympathy you get for this unfortunate man whose vacillating policy probably made our last war more enduring and terrible than it otherwise might have been. It is easy to judge in retrospect, but when you have two alternatives, and one of them seems to be the holocaust of war, decision is not easy. The dilemma of Nasser in the Suez Canal is interestingly similar, and it is interesting to see what Sir Anthony Eden will do if Nasser continues to reject any form of compromise.

Fire Horn Signal Zoning Has Been Advised Against

At the last Summerside Town Council meeting Monday Councilor Jenkins reported that the installation of new fire horns is nearing completion and will soon be in use. Councilor Clark inquired about the change in the plans for the fire horn which originally called for a zoning of the town for fire signal purposes. Councilor Jenkins and Mayor Currie gave the reasons for giving up the zoning plans, which they said had been done on the advice of men familiar with such matters. Both had advised strongly against signal zoning plans because it resulted in greater traffic congestion, blocking traffic and impeding the passage of fire trucks and firemen to the scene of the fire. Signal zoning was being abandoned by many towns, they had been advised.

Councillor Clark reported on the progress being made in completing the street lighting project, and announced that a service man had been done on the advice of men emergency calls. He said a small area containing about ten customers formerly supplied by the Summerside Light Department will be surveyed this week for power line installation.

The electric load carried by the Light Department continues about the same as last year, he said, despite a reduction of about 150 customers formerly supplied by the Summerside Light Department.

Councillor Liddell reported that repairs are presently being made to the roof of the Fire Hall, and that several leaks have appeared on the flat roof in front of the Stadium, and will have to be repaired.

Councillor Cannon said that extension have been completed, and that plans of the proposed Walker project are being considered. In reply to a question from Councilor Clark, he said that a policy had been established which the Water and Sewerage Department will furnish an experienced man to look after the fire hydrants whenever Street Department or others have use of the hydrants.

UNDERGROUND WIRES

Councillor MacCausland read a letter to the council that he had received from Lloyd Phillips (manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia in Porto Rico) in regard to plans of the Island Telephone Company to place communication wire under the street along the business section of Water Street. Mr. Phillips said that in Porto Rico the lines underground are placed under the sidewalk rather than under the street which is of a thicker depth of concrete. He also noted that in Porto Rico the parking meters are placed beside the walls of buildings rather than near the curb.

In a discussion by the Council, in regard to the suggestions in Mr. Phillips' letter, Mr. Brophy suggested that the size and requirements of manholes required by the telephone company would possibly prohibit the use of the underground wire system. In reply to a question by Councilor Cannon, Councilor Clark said that it is the intention of the town to place street lighting wires underground on the south side of Water Street, and that the town is waiting a reply from Northern Electric Co., regarding the possible installation of underground wiring for a future stop-light system in the Water Street area.

HOCKEY PROSPECTS

Councillor Clark raised the matter of an appointment of a manager for Civic Stadium, and suggested the organization of a pre-Christmas hockey league. He said he would like to see ice in the Stadium about the middle of October, and suggested that a hockey program be started about the first of November. Mayor Currie said he

Her first stop — the bank

When Mrs. Wilson planned to go shopping, her husband Tom said: "Meet you at the bank."

It was a natural thing to say, for going to the bank is just a part of everyday life.

In the bank, Mrs. Wilson noticed Miss Ellis the schoolteacher . . . Mr. Cooper the storekeeper . . . and her neighbour's son Bobby, adding to his savings account.

When Tom arrived, he grinned: "Seems like everybody goes to the bank." It's true. Canadians find the chartered banks such a safe and handy place to keep money that practically everybody has a bank account. There are now more than 10 million deposit accounts in the chartered banks—more accounts than there are adults in the country.
