Some have urged that the Atlantic Provinces Adjustment Grants be continued and increased until the per capita income of the Atlantic Provinces rises to the national average.

A pledge to promote closer trading relations with more natural geographical markets for the Maritimes, such as New England and the West Indies was included in the resolutions as was a pledge to work for the solution of Atlantic freight rates problems.

The assembled candidates promised to reinstate the Atlantic Development Board in the original concept by providing the board with fully adequate federal assistance.

ENDORSE SUGGESTION

An endorsement of the suggestion of the Association of Atlantic Universities that Atlantic universities share $3,000,000 per year from the federal government in addition to increasing the per capita grant to universities from two to five dollars, and the favoring of an extension of the vocational training formula of 75 per cent federal and 25 per cent provincial contributions to include the capital costs of universities and colleges was also included in a resolution on education.

The candidates endorsed a policy of federal-provincial talks to settle the ownership of offshore mineral rights, promised better access roads to national parks, proposed greater research into the use of coal and pledged encouragement to development of a national power grid which would use hydro, thermal and tidal resources of the Atlantic area.

The final resolution stated "the Atlantic Provinces will have a bright economic future when their great natural and human resources are developed."

Both accidents were investigated by the Borden RCMP detachment.

Fishermen Going Further In Search For Assistance

The provincial department of fisheries will contact the fisheries departments of the federal and New Brunswick governments and the East Prince Fishermen's Association will contact the fishermen in New Brunswick in an attempt to arrange a meeting to discuss the possibility of financial assistance for the fishermen of District Eight.

The request for the grant in deficiency payments is a result of the unusually poor season experienced by the fishermen of District Eight. The district extends from Victoria to North Cape on P.E.I., and from the Nova Scotia-New Brunswick border to slightly north of Richibucto in New Brunswick.

A committee of the EPFA met with Hon. Leo Rossiter, minister of fisheries, and his deputy, Eugene Gorman, yesterday afternoon and the decision to contact the federal and New Brunswick people concerned was made.

Yesterday morning a delegation from Prince County met with the cabinet at its weekly meeting and it was decided that Mr. Rossiter and Mr. Gorman should meet with a committee of the EPFA that afternoon.

TWO SYSTEMS

Two systems of assistance were suggested to the Cabinet. One is on a per-trap basis and the fishermen are asking for approximately two to three dollars per trap if this system is adopted.

The other system of assistance would be based on the five year average per boat of District Eight which is approximately 7,000 lbs. This year's landings would be subtracted from that average and payments of half the average price per pound this season would be paid on the difference.

For example if a fisherman this year landed 2,500 lbs. he would be paid approximately 30 cents per pound on 4,500 lbs. of lobster he didn't catch. He would receive approximately $1,350 government assistance.

Members of the delegation concede there will be difficulty in administering any assistance and they recognize the possibilities that such assistance could be abused.

Meeting with the Cabinet were: Dosithee Poirier, president of the East Prince Fishermen's Assn., from Mt. Carmel; Adelard Gallant, secretary of the association from Cape Egmont; Walter S. Sienk, vice-president from Summerside; Ruben Wall, vice-president from Malpeque; Lawrence Wall from Malpeque; Leo Perry of Skinner's Pond; Ken MacLean, representing the P.E.I. Co-op Union from Central Lot 16; Ulric Poirier of Fishermen's Coop Abram's Village; Ivan Straw, Cape Wolfe; Joseph Caisse, Egmont Bay; Willard Betts, West Pt.; Erwin Sheppard, The Brae; Ralph Miller, Victoria and Urban LeBlanc of the St. Dunstan's University Extension Dept.

Atlantic Conservatives Hammer Out Platform

Progressive Conservative candidates and campaign managers from the four Atlantic Provinces have drafted a 17-point program concerning Atlantic area economic development, to be used as a major part of the campaign in the forthcoming federal election.

The general text of the program was released following a week-end meeting of PC candidates in Moncton. J. Angus MacLean and Heath Macquarrie, candidates in the dual riding of Queens, were among those who hammered out the policies at the meeting. The weekend meeting was the fourth such gathering since the idea was instituted in the 1957 election campaign.

The program ranges from shipbuilding subsidies and short and long range assistance for inshore fishermen to increased university grants and touches virtually every aspect of Atlantic economic development.

The first point of the program promises that a Conservative government will extend the designated area incentive program to the entire Atlantic area. Also promised is immediate work for full scale development of Atlantic provinces ports and leadership to realize the original concept of ARDA which is to create economic opportunity in rural areas dependent on forestry, fishing and agriculture.

Resolution number 14 reads in part "we will develop policies which will stimulate the agricultural economy to meet the consumer needs of the Atlantic area and to encourage our export markets".

AID TO FISHERMEN

Another resolution promises immediate aid to Atlantic fishermen who suffered hardships because of the widespread failure of the inshore fishery this year. It proposed also to implement incentive policies that will ensure fishermen a fair return for their labor and to provide research and technological facilities to aid in the catching and marketing of all species of fish.

The program indicated candidate support of an immediate return to policies regarding

Kinettes Back Pool Project

SUMMERSIDE — The swimming pool project proposed by the Summerside Kinsman Club was unanimously endorsed by the Kinettes Club at their regular meeting.

Many ideas for fund raising projects were suggested by the members as enthusiasm ran high at the thought of sharing in such a beneficial program.

A feature event of the evening was the presentation of a 10-year perfect attendance tab to Mildred Mollison, who has served in every executive position in the club.

Other perfect attendance tabs were awarded to Bernice MacArthur and Elaine MacDonald for five years; Elaine Sharpe for four years; Mary Wedge and Marena Lawless for three years; Elva Simpson for two years; and Marilyn Sherry and Carol Newson for one year.

President Eleanor Harris presented the past president, Elaine Sharpe, with her past president's pin and plaque.

Final plans were made to hold the fall rummage sale at the A.A. rooms on Tuesday evening, Oct. 26.

Cow Killed In Mishap

SUMMERSIDE — Police in Prince County investigated three motor vehicle accidents over the weekend.

Saturday night at approximately 8 o'clock a 1964 model car sustained damage estimated at $1,500 when it went out of control and struck a hydro pole after hitting and killing a cow on the highway.

The candidates endorsed a policy of federal-provincial talks to settle the ownership of offshore mineral rights, promised better access roads to national parks, proposed greater research into the use of coal and pledged encouragement to development of a national power grid which would use hydro, thermal and tidal resources of the Atlantic area.

The final resolution stated "the Atlantic Provinces will have a bright economic future when their great natural and human resources are developed."
