British House Debate Sought On Nfld. Boys Refused Entry

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LONDON (CP)—Labor Member Victor Yates has asked for a House of Commons debate on the case of two Newfoundland youths who were refused entry to Britain because th[illegible]

Yates, member of Parliament f[illegible] constituency, made the request [illegible] Home Secretary Henry Brooke [illegible] Michael Penny, 19, and his brother John, 17, of C[illegible]

Brooke said in a written reply t[illegible] Commons last Thursday that the youths were turned back at London Airport April 5 because they had no la[illegible] vouchers. He said they should have no difficulty if they t[illegible] again with the necessary papers.

The youths had been en route to join their grandparents in [illegible] — where they intended to obtain work — and some 600 neighbors of the grandparents signed a protest [illegible] Yates said Brooke was sympathetic but maintained that under the Commonwealth Immigrants Act of 1962 officials had to refuse entry to the youths.

WORK AVAILABLE

Yates declared: "There is no d[illegible] about employment in Birmingham being available for [illegible] the authorities did not use their discretion—which they are permitted to do—to allow them in for a limited period. I regard it, in all the circumstances disclosed, as bureaucracy at its worst."

Yates' request for a debate at the earliest possible time was in a letter to the Speaker of the Commons, Sir Harry Hylton-Foster.

Yates said the youths, whose mother was born in Birmingham, were so anxious to get into the country they offered to join the British Army.

Their grandfather and aunt, he said, were treated as though they were abetting criminals when they met the boys on arrival.

A spokesman at the office of Lionel Chevrier, Canadian high commissioner, said nothing official had been received in connection with the youths and nothing was expected since they would ordinarily apply for work vouchers in Canada.

Later, in an interview after leaving the Commons, Yates [illegible] was "unthinkable" that Canadians should be barred from Britain.

The 1962 act was never intended, he said, to prevent Canadians, particularly those with family ties in Britain, from coming here.

"This was not a case of two unemployed boys simply deciding to get aboard a plane and trusting to luck," Yates said. They had come here with a genuine intention to work and were turned back within hours, because of a technicality and without a proper hearing.

He added that there may be some blame on the part of Canadian officials who should have explained to the boys that all people coming here require either a two-way ticket or, if they intend to stay, a work permit.

Yates said the home secretary mentioned this point and said he was going to look into what steps should be taken to advise people coming here from Canada and other countries about British regulations before they leave home.

Rival Communist Factions Seen Warring In Zanzibar

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — British observers heere see Zanzibar's surprise decision to merge with Tanganyika as a rebuff for the island's pro - Chinese foreign minister, Sheikh Abdul Rahman Mohammed Babu.

During the last three months Babu had emerged as the strongman of the island's revolution.

The decision to merge with Tanganyika was announced while he was out of the country. Some commentators in London speculated he may not be allowed to return.

Recent manoeuvring among spice island's politicians suggests a feud between rival Communist factions may lie behind the merger.

Within weeks of the January revolution, Communist diplomats in East Africa were predicting that such a feud would soon come to the surface.

According to their count, about half the island's 30-man revolutionary council were "nonaligned" African nationalists and the rest Communists. The Communists were divided in allegiance between Moscow and Peking.

FORMER POSTAL CLERK

Babu, a former London post office clerk, heads the Peking faction. He was correspondent on the island for Peking's New China news agency and is a member of the editorial board of Revolution, a Paris-based Communist review supporting the Peking line.

For most of the last month, Babu has been away from Zanzibar, first at the world trade conference in Geneva and then in Indonesia and Pakistan.

Pro-Soviet elements are represented at the top by Vice-President Kassim Hanga, who has studied in Moscow and has a Russian wife.

Hanga had a key role in organizing the merger. He was in Dar es Salaam for talks with Tanganyika's President Julius Nyerere Tuesday and, according to British authorities, presumably settled the details of a plan that had been only a few days in gestation.

Significantly, in the view of diplomats here, Hanga had returned recently from talks with Soviet leaders in Moscow.

Three hundred armed Tanganyikan police are in Zanzibar, available to put down any attempt to oppose the merger by force.

The police were sent there at Zanzibar President Abeid Karume's request soon after the January revolution to stop looting and communal clashes between the Negroes and the island's Arab minority.

Since then Zanzibar leftists have built up a private army known as "The Comrades." Most of them are young Arabs, and their allegiance generally is believed to lie with Babu.

NYERERE THE HEAD

In Dar es Salaam, capital of Tanganyika, the government newspaper The Nationalist reported that the merger agreement makes Nyerere head of the new nation with Karume as first vice-president and Tanganyika's vice - president, Rashid Kawawa, as second vice-president.

The newspaper said the agreement would become operative as soon as it was ratified by the Tanganyika legislative assembly and Zanzibar's revolutionary council, the island's only legislative body.

Tanganyikan ratification is a foregone conclusion. Nyerere's Tanganyika African National Union is the nation's only party.

Ratification in Zanzibar's revolutionary council will be assured if Hanga's pro-Soviet faction is willing—as it seems they are—to throw its support behind President Karume and the nationalists.

The merger will bring together two impoverished nations—Tanganyika, the size of Germany and France together with a population of 10,000,000, and Zanzibar, a pocket state of two islands supporting 300,000 people on cloves and coconuts.

SNIPER HITS PLANE

SAIGON (AP) — Communist sniper fire hit a U.S. Army plane carrying Lt.-Gen. William Westmoreland, deputy commander of U.S. forces in South Viet Nam, near the Laos border Friday. Three other men aboard suffered minor injuries, an American military spokesman said, but Westmoreland was not hit. The incident occurred at a ranger station at Ashau near the borders of Laos and Communist North Viet Nam.

Opening lead — two of diamonds.

Here is a remarkable hand I played at the trials staged last November to select a team to represent the United States in the World Olympiad to be played in New York May 1st to 12th.

The ridiculous six club contract reached was entirely my fault. But it was just as well that it happened because I made the slam as a result of one of the most extraordinary end situations ever seen.

I was shot with luck on the hand. To begin with, West led a diamond instead of a heart. This still didn't give me much chance for twelve tricks, but I could see no better play than to finesse and hope for the best. When the jack held, I cashed the ace, discarding a heart, and ruffed a diamond.

After a club to the ace I ruffed another diamond, establishing the queen, and then cashed two trumps ending in dummy. This was now the position:

North
♠ Q 8
♥ 10 6 3
♦ Q

West
♠ 5 4 3
♥ A 8 5

East
♠ J 10 7 2
♥ K Q

South
♠ A K 9 6
♥ J 9

When I cashed the diamond, East had to discard a heart, and when I then played the queen and another spade, East put on the ten to prevent me from winning with the nine.

I took the ten with the ace and led the jack of hearts, and the defense was now all washed up. Actually, East won with the king and led a spade from the J-7 to my K-9 and I finessed. But if West had taken the jack of hearts to prevent his partner from being endplayed, he would have had to return a heart from the 8-5 into dummy's 10-6!

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
