P. E. I. Department of Agriculture

The Eighth Annual Conference of the Prince Edward Island Agricultural Council is being held in Charlottetown on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of this week. These meetings are of prime importance to the agricultural workers in this Province as it is the one time of year when workers in the field of agriculture get together and hear a resume of what has been accomplished within the different departments and divisions during the preceding year.

The second day of the meetings is taken up with the presentation of Department and Division Reports, and this includes the Experimental Farm Service, Science Service, Marketing Service, and the Prince Edward Island Department of Agriculture.

The second day is given over to Committee Reports and Recommendations. These are discussed fully by the members of the Council, and the Recommendations are either approved or turned back to the Committee for further revision.

Wednesday morning is reserved for Committee Meetings if it is necessary that Recommendations be changed, and in the afternoon the appointment of officers and other business is transacted.

The social part of the gathering is not neglected as on Monday evening the members and their wives or sweethearts enjoyed a delicious turkey dinner served by the ladies of the Central Royalty Women's Institute, and this was followed by an illustrated talk by Col. W. E. Johnstone on his recent European trip. The remainder of the evening was spent in cards, crokinole, and dancing.

At the conclusion of the Conference the Recommendations from each committee will be carefully scrutinized by the members of the Executive, and will be presented to the proper authorities for consideration.

STORING FERTILIZER

Practically any weather-proof building makes a suitable fertilizer storage provided it is not excessively damp. Moisture is the main villain in the storage problem and can cause hardening or "setting-up" as well as damage to the bags. However, moisture as well as other storage hazards, can be successfully controlled by following the simple rules of safe fertilizer storage.

RULES FOR SAFE STORAGE

1. Moisture is the main problem. Store dry, well ventilated buildings. Keep windows and doors closed during damp weather, open when dry.
2. Never pile wet or damaged bags with sound ones.
3. Bags must not rest on bare ground, concrete or metal. Pile on skids at least four inches off floor.
4. Do not pile more than seven bags high.
5. Do not pile against walls of building.
6. Leave space between piles for circulation of air.

Use of a layer of straw on top of piles prevents moisture in air from settling on bags.

WAYS TO AVOID BURNS

Women and children take first place as sufferers from burns, statistics on home accidents have shown for years. But housewives could reduce this unfortunate record by taking simple safety measures in their kitchens.

To protect young children, who often must be in the kitchen while their mothers work there, fence off a play space away from the stove. Buy a high chair should stand at a safe distance also — far enough away so that its young occupant can't reach hot utensils on the stove top and also far enough away so that the chair can't tip over against the stove. Keep matches in a box of the range or on a shelf out of reach of children.

Hot fat that splatters or tips is often the cause of serious burns. Never lift a kettle of hot fat. It pays to wait until the fat cools to remove it. When placing anything to cook in hot fat, do it with care — if possible, with tongs.

When cooking, be sure pan handles are turned away from the edge of the stove so pans won't be knocked off accidentally. Use pans with flat bottom that stand steady on the stove and be sure handles are securely fastened so they won't loosen or turn when the hot pan is lifted. When removing the cover from a pan or kettle, raise the far side first so the steam will come out away from you. Have a place prepared to set a hot pan before taking it off the stove.

Pot holders deserve consideration for safety, too. Have plenty of them, and use them in convenient reach of the stove. Use them dry to avoid a steam burn on the hands. Round holders may be safer and more convenient than the usual square shape because they fit the hand and have no corners to scorch on the stove or touch the flame. Tongs with firm grasp are good to use in lifting jars, ears of corn, potatoes or anything else from hot water.

Any fabric or paper in the kitchen should be kept far enough from the stove or any heating unit so that it can't ignite from contact with a hot window curtain. This holds for window shades, towels or clothes drying on racks or lines, and also for paper calendars on walls, recipe clippings or collections of paper bags. Finally, if you have a propane gas range, remember to open the oven door before turning on the gas and lighting the oven.

Many burns result just from carelessness or forgetfulness. So it pays to review even the familiar safety rules.

BOARDERS IN FLOCK

The poultry should be carefully watched and systematically culled throughout the year. Some birds lay well for a time and then fall by the wayside. If the general health and appearance of the flock is good, those birds which do not stand up are better removed. They are not likely to make a comeback.

As the season goes on watch for the birds loafing on the job, also, the persistently broody hens. It is easy to pick out the birds not laying.

When the heavy winter and spring laying is over, the flock should be heavily culled. All birds should be handled. Remove all birds that are very thin and those which have an abnormal accumulation of hard abdominal fat. It is advisable to renew the flock annually for most profitable gains.

POULTRY ENTERITIS

An inflammation of the intestines that is not attributable to any particular germ, is frequently found in chickens and turkeys. It occurs in birds from three weeks of age until the time they are fully grown. Affected birds have a sagged appearance, loss of appetite and diarrhoea. Usually the only abnormality found on a post-mortem examination is a severe inflammation of the intestines, with slimy contents. Among the suggested causes of this condition are chilling, heat prostration, sudden change of feed, and faulty feeding methods. The death rate after a period of weeks is sometimes high, but the greater loss results from failure of some birds to recover completely and to make proper gains. Sound, rational poultry husbandry, including an adequate diet and an ample supply of clean, fresh water appears to aid in preventing this condition. Sudden changes of diet should be avoided, and if the commercial ration is adequate, it should not be supplemented with other materials containing protein — such as milk, fish meal and meat scraps. No treatment should be given until it is definitely established that the birds are not affected with some disease or parasitic infestation.

At the conclusion of the Conference the Recommendations from each committee will be carefully scrutinized by the members of the Executive, and will be presented to the proper authorities for consideration.

FEED FLAVORS IN MILK AND CREAM

Certain feeds, when fed to the cows from one half to five hours before milking, cause a definite feed flavor in the milk. The flavor is usually more pronounced in the cream and butter than in the milk. Flavoring substances of the milk. Flavoring substances of the milk are carried by the blood to the udder and are then imparted to the milk.

The substances may gain entrance to the blood in several ways. One is by passage through the digestive tract to the blood. Another is by inhalation, thus passing through the lungs to the blood. Tests show that the flavor of the milk was seriously affected when the following feeds were fed one hour before milking: corn, alfalfa, sweet clover, peas or vetches, turnips or turnip tops, potatoes and carrots. Practically no flavor was imparted by green corn, green oats and peas.

When the feeds that cause a pronounced flavor, are fed in not too large a quantity immediately after milking, the milk at the succeeding milking not have a pronounced feed flavor.

Strange But True

By F. E. MacArthur

Most fishes die almost as soon as they are taken out of the water. But the smooth Blenny can live on dry land for twenty-four hours at least. Why? Because its gills are made in such a way that they remain damp for a long while after it has been taken from the water. Another interesting thing about the smooth blenny is its great variety in color. It may be partly green and partly yellow, partly olive and partly black. But one can always tell this fish by the ring of bright crimson which circles its eyes.

But the most amazing thing about this strange creature is that it can move one of its eyes without moving the other. Nearly all fishes are slippery, but the spotted gunnelli is the most slippery of the finny tribe because its whole body is covered with a thick buttery fat which makes it hard to hold on to. It is sometimes called the butter-fish.

The spotted Goby, a curious little creature, makes a rather unique nest in which to lay its eggs. The tiny nest usually is made in an empty cockle-shell, by scooping out the sand so as to form a middle chamber. The walls of this shell are reinforced by a kind of lime which sets and becomes as hard as cement. Its next move is to make a tunnel into the center of the chamber so that it can leave or enter at will.

This curious nest is wrought entirely by the male fish, and when the task has been completed, the thick liquid which enters the chamber and lays her eggs. During the period of incubation — about nine days — the male stands on guard outside the shell home to prevent predators from entering the place and eating the precious eggs. But once the baby gobies break out of their cell the daddy fish swims away leaving his youngsters to their fate.

However they are not as defenseless as they at first appear to be. They are armed with sharp little teeth and you must handle them carefully if you want to keep a whole skin.

HILL DOING FINE

TORONTO (CP) — Major Lloyd Hill, who travelled down the Niagara river rapids in a barrel last year, was reported in satisfactory condition in hospital here Monday. He suffered a broken shoulder in a fall on an icy Niagara Falls street in December and was brought here for observation.

VIRTUE REWARDED

TORONTO (CP) — Michael Walker, 11, refused a $5 reward for returning a lost wallet Monday because, he said, "I'm a Cub." Later, however, he took the money as a gift. Michael found the wallet outside a grocery store and returned it to Mrs. Alfred Giebel less than an hour after she lost it. The wallet contained $28.

OTTAWA, (CP)—The amount of money Canadians owe for the things they buy on credit has reached an all-time high.

The Bank of Canada estimates the outstanding consumer credit bill rose to a record $1,885,000,000 at Sept. 30 last, an increase of $19,000,000 from the previous quarter and a jump of more than $100,000,000 from the previous year.

However, the rate of expansion in the money owing to shops, finance companies and banks appears to be decreasing. The increase of $19,000,000 in the June-September quarter compares with the rise of $85,000,000 in the three months of March-June 1954 and the increase of $53,000,000 in June-September 1953.

Major cause of expansion in the credit bill was the sharp increase in cash personal loans—the money Canadians borrow from banks, loan companies, licensed money lenders and credit unions to pay for various commodities and services.

ONE-HALF OF CREDIT

This item rising in the quarter by $20,000,000 to a high of $637,000,000, accounted for about one-half the entire outstanding credit. During the 15 months ended last Sept. 30, cash personal loans rose by $90,000,000.

The rise in personal loans compared with the increase of $7,000,000 in the quarter in instalment credit and the drop of $8,000,000 in charge accounts.

Outstanding instalment credit increased to $794,000,000 at Sept. 30, up from $789,000,000 at June 30, but down from the $797,000,000 at Sept. 30, 1953, and the peak of $799,000,000 at Dec. 31, 1953.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

On Friday evening, November 26th, 1954 a very pleasant social evening was spent when a hundred friends of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Gillis gathered at their spacious home at 183 Aspinwall Ave., Brookline, Mass., to tender them a surprise party on the occasion of their fifteenth wedding anniversary.

Archie and Arlene although taken completely by surprise were as usual the gracious host and hostess. Mr. Malcolm Murray master of ceremonies called on Mr. Alex Beaton and Mrs. Allan MacQuarrie "Best Folks" of fifteen years ago to read an address and present the popular couple with a substantial sum of money.

The "bride" was then presented with an old-fashioned bouquet by her little niece Miss Janet Lambie. Archie in his usual jovial manner thanked their many friends on behalf of Arlene and himself for their thoughtfulness and generosity. The remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent in dancing, the music being supplied by Mr. Alcide Au Gou, Hughie Young, Malcolm Gilla, Joseph Beaton and Miss M. MacEachern.

A delicious lunch was served, high lighted by a beautiful three tier wedding cake made by Mrs. Allan MacQuarrie, after which everyone departed for home wishing Archie and Arlene many more years of happy wedded life.

BRACKLEY W. I.

The regular monthly meeting of the Brackley W. I. was held Wed. Jan. 13th at the home of Mrs. Merrill Miller. The meeting opened with singing the Ode and repeating the creed in unison. There were 14 members and one visitor present. Minutes of last meeting read and approved; correspondence read and discussed.

It was decided to send $2.00 membership fee to the Musical Festival Association. Letter from Mrs. Lucas thanking Institute for pin received was read by Miss Marion Younker. The Red Cross convener gave out sewing and knitting. Mrs. Willard Prowse reported having card party. Reports of committees were heard.

New committees are: school, Miss McGinn; sick, Mrs. Willard Prowse and Mrs. Hedley Stewart; prog, Mrs. Prowse and Mrs. Blatch; hostess, Mrs. Charles Mellett.

Roll call, exchange of home made Valentines. Mrs. Leslie Prowse moved meeting adjourned. An interesting contest put on by Mrs. Pierce was won by Miss Marion Younker and Mrs. Jackson.

Lunch was served by hostess and committee.

The January meeting was held at the home of Miss Eleanor Younker, president, Mrs. L. Molyneux, presiding. The meeting opened by repeating the Collect. Roll call was responded to by 19 members. There were three visitors present, one new member was welcomed. Minutes of previous meeting were read and approved. Business matters were discussed at this time.

The school committee reported that several articles had been purchased for the two schools. Bills were paid in connection with same. The sick committee remembered the shut-ins at Christmas, and several cards were sent to members and residents of district. The sick committee was paid for their purchases.

Correspondence was read, and several thank you cards were received. Next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Norris Kitson, when the roll call will be answered and her committee.

At this time the very difficult task of judging the "Roll Call Hats" took place. Many comic variety, and others that would do credit to New York Stylists. "The Rose Border in Nesting Time", worn by Evelyn Younker was very unusual, as was the interesting hat pin displayed by Hilda Molyneux. This pin should be worn with a purse in the form of an "Insecticide" to bring out its hidden beauty. The following are the results of the judging: 1st—Mrs. Robert Vickerson, ("Polly's Accomplishment"); 2nd—Mrs. James Vickerson, (Warren Grove Pansy); 3rd—Mrs. Harry Scott, (Sunbonnet in Disguise); 4th—Mrs. George Yeo, (Palm Beach Expecting Edna).

The meeting adjourned at this time when a social time followed. Lunch being served by the hostess and her committee.
