THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JANUARY 25, 1879.

THE WEEK.

In this city, the Supreme Court has been the only object of interest during the week. Indeed, as an old gentleman remarked this forenoon, "if it were not for the Supreme Court there would be little to put in the DAILY EXAMINER." The North River series of trials—apart from the murder case—lends an unwonted importance to the sitting. They afford curious and interesting—though not pleasing—material for the commentator upon passing events. But the cases have not yet all been disposed of, and we forbear, lest it should be said that the EXAMINER prejudiced any of those implicated. "Let justice be done without prejudice."

The Argus of Tuesday last hopes that "THE EXAMINER does not speak with authority" on the subject of the Fishery Award. Our perturbed contemporary may rest assured that we have the same authority for the expressions of THE EXAMINER about the proper disposal of the Island's share of the Fishery Award, that we have for its expressions upon any other topic—the authority of RIGHT as interpreted by COMMON SENSE. If the opinions of the EXAMINER be not in accordance with these, they should fall to the ground. Now, we think the money will be legitimately, properly and wisely expended in affording additional facilities and accommodation for our fishermen. The Dominion Government has the charge and care of the fisheries. Therefore, if the money be so expended, it must be expended by the Dominion Government, under the supervision of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries. It was by means of the Dominion Government that the award was obtained. Therefore, the Dominion Government is entitled to the advantage of expending it. This is our contention. But the Argus says let the money be funded; and let the Provincial Government annually draw the interest. This is a more reasonable proposition than that of the Patriot, which is simply ridiculous, and we should be extremely happy if, by some such political sleight of hand, the Province could rightfully obtain "Better Terms" to the extent of a million or two of dollars. But remembering that that good man and great financier, the Hon. David Laird, declared the terms he obtained would enable the Province to do without additional taxation for twenty years; remembering that Better Terms to the extent of twenty-five thousand dollars a year were obtained by Messrs. Pope, Haviland and Howland; and knowing that, after all, the present Provincial Government have imposed direct taxation to the amount of $35,000 a year,—we think the people of this Province will pause ere they ask that our share of the Fishery Award be diverted from the beneficial purposes to which it should be legitimately applied and handed over to the Local Government. The Local Government have proved unfaithful to the charge they have received. Therefore, says the Argus, give them charge of the interest accruing from a million or a million and a half dollars more! But, says the Argus, "let the money be funded." Certainly. Let the money be funded in permanent improvements to the harbors on the North Side—to Casumpec, to Malpeque, to New London, to Rustico. Let it be funded in branch lines of railway to facilitate the transmission of fish and other produce to market, and it will be funded in a way that will yield interest in a tangible form to the particular localities named, to the whole Province, and to the country at large.

How the people of the Upper Provinces will regard the suggestion of the Patriot, may be inferred by the following paragraph, which we clip from the Ottawa Herald, a Grit journal:—
"This is a pretty cool proposition to make, but we cannot wonder at anything in the way of sectionalism under our present faggotty system of Government. After the Dominion Treasury has borne the expense of the litigation attending the Halifax Commission, and after the exceedingly generous manner in which the Central Government has subsidized the Atlantic Provinces, the petty selfishness of this announcement of the Islanders' intention to play the 'grab' game is anything but creditable. That they will get their fair share of expenditure in public works, and that the value of their fisheries will be taken into account in the construction of public works is always certain, but to come down with the absolute demand for the biggest half of the $5,500,000 is too greedy altogether, and is sure to meet with disappointment."

Turootte vs. Turncoat.

At the last general election in the Province of Quebec, Mr. Turootte was the Conservative candidate for Three Rivers. The Liberal party were so weak in that constituency that no attempt was made to put a candidate in the field. Rumors that Mr. Turootte would support the Liberals were circulated, and at last came to the ears of Mr. Turootte himself. Knowing that the constituency was strongly Conservative, he at once wrote a note to the papers, publicly denying that he had any leanings towards the opposite party, and he emphatically declared his allegiance to the Conservative Party. On the strength of this public declaration he was elected without Opposition. But the result of the elections gave Mr. Turootte the casting vote, and he put himself in the market to be knocked down to the highest bidder. The Liberal Premier (Mr. Joly) offered him the Speakership, and Mr. Turootte at once accepted, deserted his Party, deceived his constituency, and the Government of Quebec depend for support upon his casting vote in the House of Assembly of that Province. This is the man whom the Patriot commends in the highest terms. It is a labor of love with our contemporary to praise political treachery. Do we not see the only Grit Government now in existence holding office against the well understood wishes of the people. The existence of the Ontario Legislature is prolonged by a legal quibble, unsupported either by equity or justice. The Quebec Legislature is held by the Grits by keeping one of the constituencies open against all rules of decency and justice; and in Prince Edward Island the same Party retain power in direct opposition to the wishes of the people. After offering to compromise with their opponents, after all manner of scheming and deception, raising false issues and false alarms, the Rump Government of Prince Edward Island refuse to give up the Government. The conduct of the Ontario Parliament is improper, and perhaps illegal; that of the Quebec legislative majority is deceptive, and apparently treacherous; but that of Davies, Stewart & Co. is mercenary and dishonorable in the extreme.

Casumpec Harbor.

THE Pioneer says: "The first and most important question to be considered is the improvement of our harbor. This has certainly been agitated over and over again by petition, by our representatives and by the press; but we are by no means disposed to give up because our former entreaties and prayers have been disregarded. Our claim is good, and it is little short of a disgrace to the Dominion Government not to have the public work in question attended to on principles of common humanity, altogether apart from local requirements. Every effort by petition and agitation strengthens the hands of our representatives when the question comes up for discussion; and the writer, for one, does not intend to let the matter rest, even if our petitions could be counted by the dozen and every one had been without effect. The work has to be attended to, sure, and the more persistently we set forth our claims, the sooner it will be taken in hand. * * * Taking all circumstances into consideration, it is no wonder that the people of this district should feel (as they do) that even handed justice has not been dealt out to them with respect to the improvement of their harbor. We therefore trust that a meeting will, without delay, be called to discuss the subject, and that a petition will be got up ready to be put into the hands of our Dominion representatives."

The Fees of Fishery Counsel.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Mail says the final settlement of fees of counsel in the fisheries case was, by the late Government, postponed till after the payment of the award. It was stated at the time that the gentlemen who were retained received one thousand dollars per month for services, besides a handsome retaining fee. It is not unlikely that some of these gentlemen will press for a further payment of their services, a demand which will be met with judicial calmness and cool criticism. Public opinion might be satisfied that justice had been done at one thousand dollars per month to the legal gentlemen, some of whom did nothing and said less, and one of whom had to be prevented from speaking. But this latter gentleman was put upon the bench as a reward for his indiscretions.

Caleb Cushing, it is said, could read sixteen hours a day for a month and never forget an important fact obtained in that time. While Attorney General he would have his meals brought to him and laid on his writing desk. His custom often was to eat the entire meal without looking at it or resting from his work.

SUPREME COURT.

JAN. 24, 1879.

In the case of the Queen at the prosecution of W. A. Weeks es. John Cavanaugh and Patrick Lamb, the Jury returned a verdict of "Guilty" against both.

CUTTING AND MAIMING HORSES.

The case of the Queen at the prosecution of John Sellar es. Abraham Ripson, indicted for cutting and maiming horses.

The prisoner at the bar stands charged with having, on the 10th day of August last, unlawfully cut and wounded a horse, a mare, and a gelding, the property of Mr. John Sellar. This gentleman has had his horses cut and maimed several times—one in question being the last—was now before the Court. It appears that Mr. Sellar's had four horses on his pasture at North River, in August last. On the evening of Saturday, the 10th, his farmer—Mr. Yeo—left these horses in the pasture in good order. On Sunday morning, at 11 o'clock, he found that the tails and manes of three of the horses had been shaved during the night. One of the horses being wild and vicious escaped; and it is supposed that the miscreants, whoever they were, could not catch him. The tail of one of the horses was badly cut. On Sunday, morning the hair which had been shaved off the tails was found at a fence in the pasture where the horses had been evidently backed against, to keep them from kicking. The prisoner at the bar was loitering in the vicinity of the North River at that time. He has lately been incarcerated in jail for a larceny, and while in his cell on the 17th of November, he confessed as follows to John McNevin and Frederick Davy, who were also incarcerated in the same cell:—"Myself, George Dockendorff, Wm. Dockendorff and Charles Dockendorff went to Mr. Sellar's field one night last summer with two pairs of reins; we tied them together, surrounded the horses and caught three of them. There was one we could not catch; I suppose it was a young one. One of us put on a bridle and backed the horses up against the fence. We then pulled their tails between the longers and shaved them."

The Dockendorffs were put on the stand by the counsel for the defence. They swore positively that the confession, as far as they are concerned, is entirely false; that on the night the deed was committed William slept in his own house in Lot 43; George slept in the same house also, and Charles slept at his father's house with his brother James. They also swore that they did not hear anything of the "cutting or shaving" the evening after (Sunday).

Mr. Shaw addressed the jury for the defence, and the Attorney General for the prosecution.

The jury, after an hour's deliberation, returned a verdict of "Guilty."

JAN. 25.

THE CHIEF JUSTICE and Mr. Justice Hensley presiding.

The Queen at the prosecution of John Sellar es. Charles Dockendorff. Indictment for shaving horses' tails. For the prosecution, the Attorney General and C. Palmer, Q. C.; for the traverser, Mr. Shaw.

MR. PALMER said that on the night of the 12th July, 1871, five horses belonging to the traverser were shaved, cut and maimed. So-a time afterwards the traverser told John Moreside that he was one of those who committed the shameful offence. Mr. Sellar testified to the particular circumstances of the case, and Moreside testified that Charles Dockendorff told him one Sunday evening, when they were out driving, that he was one of those who shaved the horses' tails, but people wouldn't believe it because he was a member of the church. Verdict "Guilty."

The story told by Paul Ostrich to the authorities at Castle Garden, New York, was calculated to excite the deepest sympathy. He was sixty-six years of age, and lived in Hungary. The agents of a steam-boat line found him and persuaded him to go to the United States, where money was very plentiful, and where it could be had by merely visiting the place. He brought with him $500. When he landed he discovered his error. But he went out to Washington Territory, hired a piece of land, and began to farm it. He lost all his crop owing to the scarcity of rain, and on the 10th of September last he returned to San Francisco without means. The German Society then paid his way to Omaha, and gave him a letter to the railroad officials east of Omaha, to which they paid no attention. Then the old man started on his long walk of 1430 miles to New York, where he arrived on Christmas eve, his journey from Omaha having taken sixty-nine days. The German Society had given him eight dollars, and with this he paid for his provisions, pork and bread, which composed his daily food. Occasionally he picked up a few apples. Once, when he had some in his bag, he was robbed, but when the thieves found he had nothing but apples, they let him sleep in doors. On two nights only did he sleep in doors, when Germans gave him a supper, bed and breakfast. A doctor in New York, to whom he told his story, kindly invited him to his house, dressed his blistered feet and made him comfortable. He sought out the German Counsel, and the Castle Garden authorities, and the probability is that the steamboat line will be compelled to carry him back to Germany, as required by law when, a man over sixty years of age is brought into the country by one of them, and fails to find employment.

A counterfeit Dominion of Canada one dollar bill was taken in a counting room in London, Ont., the other day, and detected by the teller of the Bank of Commerce, who declares it to be one of the most dangerous forgeries he has ever seen. The printing is blacker than it should be; the shading under the words "Dominion of Canada" is imperfect and scratched looking; the lathe work on the ends of the border and on the back is poor, and the number of the bill, which is printed in red, is in smaller type than in the genuine one.

Correspondence.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the statements or opinions of our correspondents.

To the Editor of the Daily Examiner.

SIR,—Allow me a short space in your paper for the purpose of contradicting a report now in circulation damaging to my reputation as a citizen in this place. To this effect: that I should have stolen a sleigh robe from John Clark, of Tryon. Such reports is false. But there is a party in this place that has nothing much to do but writing notes. This is the party that is most interested in this matter. But they had better search around themselves, and they would be apt to find more theft there than they would about the Breadalbane Carriage Builder.

I would further warn the scribblers of the Breadalbane Notes and others, who are circulating untruths, to govern themselves accordingly, otherwise the lash of the law will be brought into execution to chastise the malicious and untruthful.

The Lock-out in the Supreme Court.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—During the past few days the doors of the Supreme Court have been guarded by persons clothed in a little brief authority, to prevent the public from gaining admittance; and, on enquiring the reason of this, you will be told that the Judge ordered it to be so.

Now, Mr. Editor, I do not question the right of the learned Chief Justice to issue any order he may deem requisite, and command it to be carried into effect—although there are many who do—and among those many are men of the legal profession. But I do think that it is really too bad that all should be excluded on account of the noisy conduct of the few.

Yours, etc., A. J. P.

"THE ENAMORADO" A DRAMA IN V. ACTS, —BY— HUNTER DUVAR

THE above interesting book is for sale at all the Bookstores on the Island.

Col. Duvar is happy in having selected for the theme of his drama, one of the most romantic incidents of a romantic and soldierly time. The scene is laid in Spain, amid all the accessories of grave and gay, love and chivalry, poetry and song, with room for the display of many types of character,—knights and ladies, priests and soldiers, courtiers and peasants, cooks and clowns. Many lyrics in the author's best style are interspersed in the dialogue, which is, in general, quaint and sparkling.

Price: Paper cover, 50 cents; in cloth, 75 cents.
