Leader Of Symphony Said Rarity Of Rarities

John Fenwick, who leads the Halifax Symphony Orchestra in a Confederation Centre Theatre concert tonight, is that rarity of rarities, a Canadian born and trained symphony conductor.

In fact, the youthful maestro is the only Canadian conductor of a major Canadian symphonic organization.

John Fenwick's natural inclination has been the podium and baton ever since his first experience at the age of five with a kindergarten rhythm band. At 15 he formed his own teenage chamber group, and since then his career has catapulted him to the top in Canadian musical circles.

The 'Made In Canada' imprint is noticeable even in his formal musical training, for unlike many classical musicians from this country his training took place within the borders of the country.

MR. FENWICK

He studied under Boyd Nael, Oskar Morawetz, Weldon Kilburn and others, before spending some time with the famous Leonard Bernstein.

CAPTAIN

did not work, that fire hoses lay unused on the deck and that only four lifeboats got into the water.

The captain defended the international regulations under which the Yarmouth Castle, which flew the Panamanian flag, sailed. He said they were as stringent as U.S. maritime laws.

And while his regulations did not require a fire drill during the short excursion to Miami to Nassau in the Bahamas, Voutsinas said passengers had been told what to do in an emergency during the one-day voyage.

"We tell everyone, the room stewards and all others, to tell the passengers exactly what to do in case of fire—and so they do," the captain said.

The passengers, Voutsinas said, "were very good."

"Some of them, you know, were hollering and shouting," he said, "but they were not hysterical."

"There was no panic on that ship. Even though the fire was so fast, so panic."

CAUSE STILL UNKNOWN

Voutsinas was unable to shed any light on the cause of the mysterious fire which began in the forward section of the ship and swept from bow to stern before it sank in 1,700 feet of water.

"We have not determined where or how the fire started," said a lawyer for Yarmouth Cruise Lines, Inc., general agent for the ship.

Voutsinas said he was asleep in his cabin, directly below the bridge, when he was informed of the fire by a watch officer. He said he heard the general fire alarm as he dashed for the bridge about 1:15 a.m.

After reaching the bridge, Voutsinas said, he ordered the radioman to send an SOS, but the man could not reach the nearby radio room because of flames, heat and smoke.

Voutsinas said the signal to abandon ship was sounded by an officer who broke a window of the bridge, reached into the burning compartment and rang six short and one long blasts on the ship's whistle.

Georgetown Police Resign, RCMP Service Applied For

GEORGETOWN — The Georgetown Town Council met in regular meeting in the council chambers on Monday night, as the regular meeting held on Nov. 8 met and adjourned without conducting any business.

Monday night's meeting was a highlighted by the resignation of Police Constable Allison Grover, who resignation is effective at midnight on Nov. 26. Constable Grover who was appointed to his present position in June of this year, has obtained a position as chief of police in the Town of Mulgrave, N.S. Assistant Police Constable Dennis Clory also submitted his resignation effective the same date.

Under a new agreement between the dominion and provincial governments, the town of Georgetown may submit an application for a contract to obtain the services of a Royal Canadian Mounted Police Officer to police the town, after April 1, 1966.

The Council is proceeding to make the necessary application for such a contract. In the interim no definite decision was arrived at by the council as to policing the town for the next four months.

The other highlight of the meeting was the council's acceptance of Douglas Bros. and Jones Inc., quotations for the purchase price and installation of 24 valves and valve boxes to be installed in the Atlantic Development Board water line now being laid to Gulf Garden Foods Ltd. Thirteen of those valves would be placed on the line at the west end of the east and west streets and at the north end of the north and south streets, for connecting when the town eventually goes ahead with the installation of a municipal water system.

The other 11 valves will be placed to service water hydrants for eventual fire fighting purposes.

The total cost will be approximately $7,000, which will be financed by a debenture or a government guaranteed loan.

BIG SAVING

By installing those valves at the present time, during the laying of the industrial water line, the saving would be very considerable; as if this had to be done at some future date, it would necessitate the digging up of the areas at the street ends; draining the water line and this work if done after the line is in operation, could quite conceivably have to be done on weekends, therefore resulting in additional costs. For those reasons the council felt that it would be wise to proceed now with the work, so that the necessary hook-up facilities would be in place at such time as a municipal system is proceeded with.

The police committee showed that the sum of $233 had been turned into the town in fines during the month of October. One application for welfare assistance was considered and the welfare committee was authorized to finalize the case, as if it was a deserving one.

DUMP DISCUSSED

Considerable consideration and discussion took place regarding the town dump, long a vital contention of many councils. The sanitation committee was authorized to proceed to purchase a gate and fencing materials to fence the area. Price quotations have already been received for this material.

The street and sidewalk committee reported that 60 loads of gravel had recently been placed on a number of town streets. Work is proceeding satisfactorily with the cutting of the trees on Gordon Street. The committee was authorized to fill in an old well on George Street, that is a danger to children. It was reported that a large number of electric light bulbs on street light poles were broken on Halowe'n night and that this vandalism is continuing.

The Clerk has posted a notice asking for the citizens cooperation in apprehending the offenders and a reward is being offered for information in this regard.

Bills amounting to $1,384.49 were certified as paid and bills amounting to $616.40 were ordered paid.

The police were authorized and instructed to put into effect the by-law regarding pellet guns, as they are being carried about the town by a considerable number of youths and their use is resulting in damage to windows and there is the danger of personal injury involved.

LIST PUBLISHED

The tax defaulters list will be published in four places in the town during November and the clerk reported on issues turned into the lawyer for collection.

Application was made under the winter works program for the carrying out of certain work, such as cutting bushes on certain streets and work on the town dump.

It was decided that the question of whether to call tenders for the season's operation of the rink or to have the town hire a caretaker and operate the rink, as was done some years ago, would be left over to the December meeting for decision.

The fire department committee reported that the fire fighting equipment had been recently checked and that it was in good working order. A list of those residents outside the town now paying for fire protection was read and it is hoped that more residents in the immediate area will avail themselves of this opportunity to provide themselves with fire protection.

Mayor Howard S. MacLean presided and councillors Lavers, Currie, MacLean, Johnson and MacDonald were present.
