

MR. AND MRS. PAUL MacPHEE

Patricia M. Bosley Becomes The Bride Of Paul MacPhee

Holy Trinity Church in North Vancouver, B. C. was the setting for a recent wedding when Patricia Marie Bosley was united in marriage to Paul Joseph MacPhee. Patricia is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael B. Bosley of Port Alberni, B. C. and Paul, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Joseph MacPhee, Sr. of Souris, P. E. I.

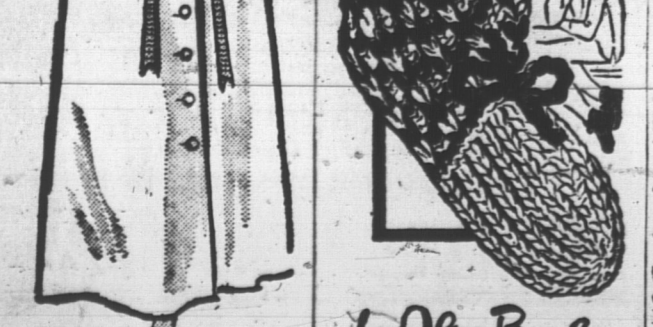

The bride was gowned in traditional white, fashioned of brocade, with a cathedral train and double bell sleeves. Her ballerina veil of illusion was held in place by a pillbox headpiece and she carried a bouquet of Spider mums centered with rosebuds in bronze, gold and cream tones.

The altar was flanked by tall tapers and standards of bronze cream and gold mums, blending with the wood panelling of the church.

Robert Linegar of Vancouver, attended the groom as best man and Tony Hart and Scott Malcolm, also of Vancouver, ushered the guests to their seats.

A reception was held at Can-yon Gardens, N. Vancouver, where Ted Cameron acted as emcee and also proposed the toast to the bride.

Following a motor trip to Southern California, the young couple will make their home in Vancouver.

MacDonald-Publicover Vows Solemnized In Toronto, Ont.

Wedding vows were exchanged in Mimico Presbyterian Church on Saturday, Nov. 27th, in Toronto, when Bonnie Anne Publicover, second eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Publicover, Dublin Shore, N.S., was united in marriage to Kenneth William MacDonald, second eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson MacDonald of Johnston's River, P.E.I.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length gown of white brocade, with wedding ring head-dress, which held her shoulder

Rose Valley UCW Hold Auction Sale At Meeting

Rose Valley UCW met at the home of Mrs. George Dixon recently with seven members answering roll call for the December meeting. The hostess was the devotional leader. Scripture reading opened the meeting, followed by prayer and hymns. Each member took part in the service with a scripture verse, meditation and prayer, with the "Nativity" as theme. The worship service closed with prayer by Mrs. Margaret Nicholson.

Mrs. Gordon MacKenzie, president, then conducted the business period when the secretary, Mrs. Frank Kahout, gave the minutes and the visitation committee reported.

"Missionary apron" was opened as well as the "birthday box" and "holiday box" in the absence of the treasurer, Mrs. Robert Graham. The financial report for the year was read by Mrs. Frank Kahout. It was found that the year's allocation had been met.

An auction sale of articles donated by members followed, and after a few minutes of briar bidding, everything was sold and proceeds added to the funds.

All officers were re-elected for the coming year. The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Kahout, when she will be devotional leader, Mrs. Gordon MacKenzie will present the chapter from the study book and Mrs. Nicholson will have Missionary prayer. At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostesses.

FAIRVIEW WI

The festive season added to the atmosphere of the December meeting of the Fairview WI held at the home of Mrs. L. C. McIsaac with the singing of "Jingle Bells" and a nice elfy decorated Christmas tree surrounded by gifts for exchange between members.

Mrs. Thomas Murphy, president, opened the meeting and roll call was answered by eight members and one visitor. Election of officers for the ensuing year was held with all officers being re-elected: president, Mrs. Thomas Murphy; vice-president, Mrs. Delmar Currie and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Brent Currie. Mrs. Murphy read the correspondence which included a letter concerning the Tweedsmuir competition. Mrs. Currie gave the financial report and it was decided to purchase treats for school children, shut-ins and a mental health patient.

A social hour followed the meeting and refreshments were served by the hostess with Mrs. Frederick Stretch assisting. Meetings for the winter months will be held at the home of Mrs. McIsaac. Mrs. Allison McMillan, who was the first national president, was in attendance and voiced appreciation to Mrs. McIsaac for having the coming meetings at her home.

RIVERDALE AND CHURCHILL WI

Mrs. Enley MacFadyen and Mrs. Nelson Virtue were joint hostesses to the members of the Riverdale and Churchill WI meeting held in December. Roll call was answered by eight members and two visitors, and an exchange of Christmas gifts.

Following routine opening and business, an interesting reading of Scottish was read by Mrs. Donald Currie and Mrs. Olive MacLeod, and correspondence was read and dealt with.

One layette for the UCW was donated by the members and it was agreed to make up one more. It was also decided to take money out of the funds to buy one dozen diapers to be used in the layettes.

It was agreed to give treats to school children at Christmas and also to shut-ins in the district.

Mrs. Waldron MacKinnon gave a humorous reading and drawing of secret pals for '66 then took place. A contest put on by Mrs. Garfield MacFadyen was won by Mrs. Orvin Corney. A Christmas hymn "It Came Upon A Midnight Clear" was sung and refreshments were served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Donald Currie.

SUMMERFIELD UCW
Mrs. Cedric Seaman was hostess to Summerfield United Church Women for their annual meeting held recently. The worship service was conducted by Mrs. Elmer Stewart with the theme "Christmas", and roll

PRELUDE TO SPRING

Two designs in British wool from the Harella of London 1966 spring-summer collection are illustrated here. Left, the "cute suit", fly-front fastening with breast pockets, low-slung slotted belt, spotted handkerchief - in a wide range of colors. Right, for the girl who works or the girl who plays, an all-wool suit in striking navy-white stripes. A crisp white topie and red carnation highlight the outfit.

Homemade Bon-Bons In Enticing Assortment

Four business girls we know have a Christmas candy-making get-together every year, each preparing her own specialty. The next evening they package and wrap the sweets for gifts.

The candies and glazed fruits we have culmed yesterday and today may be easily prepared to make an unusual assortment, to be packaged one of the following or mixed.

Preferred Sizes:
Buy pound or half-pound boxes, preferably gold colored, as less package-decorating will then be needed. Cut white cardboard to fit so the candy can be packed in layers. Provide paper bon-bon cup for ease in packing. Always put 2 or 3 glamorous looking candies in the top layer (professionally called "eye-pieces").

For a more lasting gift, pack candies in a small jar, vase, a tall glass, a gleaming copper utensil, or an attractive basket. Children love to receive candies packed in an "automobile" or other inexpensive toys from a variety store.

Yesterday we reciped chocolate nut clusters, fruit centered chocolates and caramels. Today we feature pralines and frosty glazed fruits—altogether an unusual and enticing easy-to assortment.

PRALINES
FROM THE DEEP SOUTH
2 c. sugar
1/2 c. sulphured molasses
1/2 c. water
2 tsp. butter or margarine
1 c. roasted peanuts, pecan meats or coconut
(shredded or flaked)
Combine first 4 ingredients in a 2-qt. saucepan. Cook without stirring. To make syrup, over a medium heat until 1/2 tsp. when dropped in cold water forms a soft ball (236 degrees by a candy thermometer).
Cool to 200 degrees F. (about 5 min. if placed in a pan of cold water.) Stir in peanuts, pecans or coconut.
Rub 1 tsp. of syrup against side of pan until it is light in color and begins to grain. Quickly stir this throughout the mixture.
Drop from a tsp. onto a cookie sheet covered with heavy waxed paper or aluminum foil. Let stand 2 to 3 hrs., or until firm. Makes 2 doz. (3") pralines.

MARY HAWORTH

Ex-Boy Friend Talks About Girl's Mistakes

Dear Mary Haworth: I am a girl, 17, the perfect example of a fool and a sucker. Too late I found out I had dated the wrong boy.

Tom drank too much, was vulgar and was always speaking ill of other people. I thought I could change him, but he only changed me. I became pregnant. Only he and a few friends knew. Then I had a miscarriage, which I never told him about, as I had broken off with him already, realizing I had been keeping wrong company. Actually, he never was sure that I was pregnant.

I am dating a former boy friend now, a fellow who really likes me for myself and treats me wonderfully. I am going straight because I don't want to be "that kind of girl."

Tom hasn't changed. He talks about me sometimes, in a degrading way. He doesn't care who hears it. I've told my boy friend about it, and he understands, thank God. It really hurts, because I tried so hard to help Tom, never hurting him. Now his remarks are killing me.

In these articles I can say or do, to get him to stop talking about me. What I did was a shameful, I know; but now I want to do right. Please advise me, for I don't know how to cope with the situation. Thank you.—G.Y.

Dear G.Y.: The gospel truth, the "good news" is that in the economy of Creation, God planned from the beginning, so to say, to have sacramental restorative aid available for poor ignorant sinners who foolishly injure themselves in mind, body, spirit and relationships, and, in so doing, become hapless targets for maliciously evil influences adrift in the world.

The sacramental helps to which I refer, familiarly known to all friends of God in the human scene, are: Confession, confession and remission of sins, in that order, as cited in Scriptures (1 John 1: 9): "If we confess our sins, God is faithful and just to forgive our sins and cleanse us from all unrighteousness."

You don't mention having religious moorings or a church affiliation. In any case, whether you do or don't God's provision as noted above are open to you. And I hope for your sake that you will present yourself to a good priest or clergyman, as a contrite candidate urgently needing or pastoral help in healing your wounds and closing-out your mistakes with Tom.

The amazing fact is that this sacrament of penance and absolution actually does usher in here-and-now "newness of life" for the penitent. It isn't just a figure of speech; or a symbolic credit item inscribed on the Ledger of Life, to be weighed in the ultimate balance-sheet after death.

Results are tangible and pervasive. Harmful associations melt away, until even the memory is forgotten. Maliciously motivated or enviously hateful former cronies somehow lose the power, or the opportunity, or perhaps even the impulse or incentive to harm the person as in the past, with lauding behavior or cruel thwarting or scurrilous disparagement.

So it is this course of self-protective action that I advise you to take, with respect to Tom.

It is futile to try to prevail upon him to change his spots, or have mercy upon your embarrassment. Your deliverance from the evil that he embodies has to be worked out on your side of the fence, independent of him, with God your fortress and advocate.—M.H.

Newlyweds Honored By Residents

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gillis and family, Norboro, was the scene of a happy occasion when their son Donald and his bride were honoured by the residents of the district.

A welcome was extended to Mrs. Gillis, the former Betty Gallant of Summerside, and a gift was presented to the newlyweds. Albert Murphy was master of ceremonies and an address was read by Allison Murphy while Wayne Sharpe made the presentation.

Refreshments were served by the women of the district, and dancing was enjoyed for the remainder of the evening. Music was furnished by Ivan Day and Mrs. Ivan Bowness.
