Memoriam.

Lines suggested on the death of Mary A. Murphy, who died at New Glasgow April 1st, 1888.

Sad news again is whispered round,

Which we are shocked to hear,

The messenger of death has come

To her we held most dear.

Now tears are falling thick and fast,

That cannot cease to fall;

As those with whom she used to dwell,

Can never her recall.

When gazing on her form of death,

How natural did it seem,

A smile was impressed on the face,

As of a pleasant dream.

Her youthful days are at an end,

Her morning life is run,

In sorrow we shall mourn for three,

"Oh, God thy will be done."

Death's dark valley she has crossed,

With brave and fearless tread,

As often to her friends she said,

"I wish that I were dead."

The face lit up with hope of youth,

The eye with joy so bright,

We never shall behold again,

The're absent from our sight.

We gather round the festive board,

With sad and solemn air,

When we behold the vacancy,

For Mary is not there.

And now adieu, adieu, dear Mary,

'Tis hard from you to part,

But your name shall long be cherished,

In many an aching heart.

A glorious victory thou hast won,

Of which heaven can sing,

"Oh, grave where is thy victory,

Oh, death where is thy sting."

Rustico, May 17th, 1888.

L. McDonald, Esq., M. P., on account of Christopher McDonald, Esq., Antigonish, Nova Scotia; and 31 fat cattle and 12 tons of hay, shipped by D. W. McLeod, and E. H. McMillan, of New London.
