

N. Y. Giants Win National League Pennant

Thomson Hits 3-Run Homer In Last Of 9th To Down Dodgers 5-4

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 — (AP) — In an heart-stabbing finish as baseball ever saw, Bobby Thomson slammed a three-run homer into the left-field stands with two mates aboard in the ninth inning to give New York Giants a 5-4 victory over Brooklyn in the third and deciding game of their playoff for the National League pennant at the Polo Grounds today.

The tremendous blow came with one down in the final chapter to electrify a crowd of 34,320 which had been resigned to a Dodger victory only minutes before.

Few madder scenes ever have been seen on the diamond than that put on by manager Leo Durocher's men as the Flying Scott trotted around the sacks behind Clint Hartung and Whitey Lockman after he had powdered the second pitch thrown by Ralph Branca, Dodger reliever.

The great blow climaxed the most spectacular pennant dash in the game and sent a club into the World Series which had been 3-1-2 games out of first place on Aug. 11. Giants supporters will concede nothing to their rivals, the Yankees, after what happened today.

Until Thomson teed off to send the crowd into hysteria, the Giants never had been ahead. They had tied the count at 1-1, briefly toward the end, but had promptly been reduced to despair as the Dodgers rallied for three runs in the top of the eighth and apparently put the decision beyond question.

Going into the ninth, big Don Newcombe had shackled the Giants with four hits. Then Alvin Dark, shortstop and field captain of the new league champions, ripped the husky Negro for a scratch single off Gil Hodges' glove at first.

When Don Mueller followed with a solid shot to left which sent Dark scampering to third, manager Charlie Dressen had a talk with Newcombe, but decided to leave him in. His judgment seemed justified. Monte Irvin, the Giants' most dangerous slugger, lifted a pop foul to Hodges.

That brought up the left-swinging Lockman, and he smashed a hard double off late left-field barricade to bring Dark home and put the tying runs on the sacks. Mueller twisted his left ankle sliding into third and was carried out on a stretcher. He passed Branca as the latter came in to pitch to Thomson.

Thomson had appeared in a fair way toward being the goat of the contest when, after singling in the second inning behind a hit by Lockman, he had gone to second to find Lockman standing there and had been tossed out.

Bobby had something to make up for when he strode up there, he let the first one, a strike, go by. On the next he swung from his boot tops, and from the track of the ball there was never a doubt that the game was over and that the Giants had won their first flag since 1937. The ball disappeared into the stands above the 315-foot mark.

By the time Thomson reached the plate his teammates were waiting for him in a body. The parade to the clubhouse in center field was a triumphal procession.

The stricken Dodgers, who less than two months ago were being hailed as one of the National League's greatest clubs, shuffled across the grass toward their dressing room with the misery of the world on their young shoulders. There was speculation whether Manager Charlie Dressen even would be back next season, though the best information was that he would return.

Larry Jansen, veteran right-hander, worked the final inning against the Dodgers after Maglie had been lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth and received credit for his 22nd triumph of the year.

He retired three batters in order and looked in great form, but Durocher decided after it was over to throw his lefthander, Dave Koslo, at the Bombers tomorrow and give Jansen another day's rest. Mueller's ankle will keep him out of the first game for certain, but he might be ready for the second.

Spine-Tingling Duel

Before the closing innings came around, today's contest had been a spine-tingling duel between Newcombe and Maglie. Both righties were in fine form and had the opposing batters more or less at their mercy.

The Dodgers scored right off the bat. Maglie, who usually has immaculate control, passed both Pee Wee Reese and Duke Snider after one was out, and Jackie Robinson slammed Reese home with a line single to left.

For the next five innings that looked like the biggest run in the world. Maglie retired the next 11 Brooks in order before Billy Cox beat out a bunt for his club's second safety to open the fifth.

Going into the seventh, the Giants had not pushed a runner past second base. Irvin opened that frame with a double off the left wall and slid safely into third ahead of Walker's peg at Lockman laid down a sacrifice bunt. Thomson delivered him with a tremendous fly to Snider in center field to knot the contest.

With the scoring fly and his pay-off shot in the ninth, the big boy produced six of the eight runs scored by the Giants in the three playoff games.

One was out when the flock opened its big eighth with a double to right by Reese. Snider moved the shortstop to third with a similar blow to right, and then, with Robinson at bat, Maglie uncorked a wild pitch into the dirt on which Reese raced home with the tie breaker.

After Maglie had purposely given Robinson a fourth ball, Andy Pafo bounced one down to Thomson at third on which Snider would have been a dead pigeon at the plate, but Bobby let it squirt out of his hands and another run was in. An out later, Cox delivered the third with a blast which went past Bobby's glove and down the left field line.

Fitting it was too that the man guiding the Giants was Leo (The Lip) Durocher, a throwback to the managers in the era of MacGraw and his contemporaries. Few managers for ball players in the modern era have shown more will to win or more ability to lead and drive than has Durocher. Like MacGraw Durocher has been hated by his opponents probably more than any other competitor in the game and like MacGraw few have been any more respected for their ability and knowledge of baseball.

Certainly there was no other man than Durocher that the Dodgers would rather defeat and players like Jackie Robinson, Campanella, Reese and Preacher Roe have stated so.

Durocher showed his quick thinking and talking early in his baseball career. He broke in as a rookie with the New York Yankees and in one of the Yankees first games as a first opposing batter by the name of Bob Fothergill came striding to the plate. Immediately Durocher tore for home plate and wildly confronted the umpire claiming that two men were not allowed to bat at once. That was only the beginning and in the years that followed Leo was engaged in more controversies with umpires than probably any other man.

But during the past season and series Durocher has strangely mellowed. Probably it was the one year suspension he was given by "Happy" Chandler while he was coach of the Dodgers but whatever the cause it was for the better. A climax was probably reached yesterday afternoon when Bob Thomson hit the game winning home, and Leo dropped to his knees in prayerful thanks.

Leo's wife, the former Lorraine Day, may have played a great part in the changing of the man whose profane, cutting remarks were once directed at so many umpires and players. A writer in an American paper recently wrote that she clutched a medal in her hands every time a Giant player came to bat. She must have squeezed the medal awfully hard yesterday when Thomson came to the plate.

Thomson was the sentimental choice for the job of hitting a three run homer and winning the ball game. Tuesday he struck out in the clutch with three men on the basepaths. Yesterday two hard hit balls went by him that were labelled hits but which the radio announcer hinted were errors. But for the time being that will be forgotten and Thomson can look forward to fame and acclaim and nice hike in his pay check next year.

Today a new series starts with Dave Koslo of the Giants facing Alie Reynolds of the Yankees in the annual fall classic. Following the hockey practise down at the Forum last night a group of sports fans were taking time out from talking hockey to pick the winner of the series. One man predicted Alie Reynolds would win two games, another predicted the Giants in four straight while a third predicted that Leo Lamoureux would have a tough job in selecting a hockey team from all the promising material available. The third man's opinion was the only one that met with unanimous agreement.

THE GUARDIAN, CHARLOTTETOWN

OCTOBER 4, 1951

The spirit of John MacGraw, the one time head man of the New York Giants and one of the most colorful characters baseball ever knew must have been hovering close to the Polo Grounds yesterday during the dramatic game between the Giants and Dodgers.

And the climactic ending of the game must have pleased MacGraw for no Giant team during the seventy odd years of existence of the club ever showed more fight, figured in so many dramatic situations or won a pennant in such thrilling fashion as did the 1951 version of Horace Stoneham's and Leo Durocher's Giants.

It was all wiped out with one tremendous blow in the ninth inning by New York's Bobby Thomson, giving the Giants a 5-4 victory.

"It wasn't a bad pitch," said Branca in a low, smothered breath. "It was a high curve ball. I didn't think he hit it too well. It was sinking when it went into the stands."

The big righthander was charged with both defeats in the best-of-three playoff for the National League pennant. He lost 3-1 to Giants Monday.

Branca relieved Newcombe, who had pitched magnificently for eight innings to carry his mates just a breath away from the championship.

Asked if he had wanted to stay in the game, Newcombe said: "The manager is paid to think. He can think better than I can. He makes the decisions. I'll stand by them."

Dressen said "Newcombe was tired."

"They told me also that Branca had a lot of stuff in the bullpen. That's why I called him in."

Dressen picked Yankees to win the World Series.

Dodgers Had Pennant Almost Within Grasp

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 — (AP) — Ralph Branca sat on the steps, eyes wet, his head buried in his arms. Manager Charley Dressen paced the floor like a nervous lion. Big Don Newcombe moved around, silently and aimlessly.

The others sat in their dressing room. None spoke.

These were the men of Brooklyn, wondering what they had done against destiny to make destiny treat them so.

"We are three runs ahead going into the ninth inning," said Jackie Robinson, the Dodgers' brilliant second baseman. "We see ourselves in the World Series. And there—boom—five minutes later we are sitting in the clubhouse."

Once before Dodgers had started counting World Series money amounting to $5,000, maybe $6,500. That was when they were 1-2 games ahead on Aug. 11. Then the Giants' surge colored them and they fought back twice from the brink of elimination to today's final game.

It was all wiped out with one tremendous blow in the ninth

Peakes Team Wins King's County Baseball Title

Peakes won the King's County baseball championship defeating Souris St. Mary's 19-2 at Souris yesterday.

Peakes scored nine runs in the second inning on two hits, aided by eight errors by the Souris team. They scored five in the third, one in the fourth, one in the seventh and three in the eighth. Souris scored one run in the first and one in the fifth.

Douglas pitched the full game for Peakes, giving up two runs, six hits and three walks. He hit one batter and struck out four.

MacPhee started for Souris and was replaced by S. Paquet midway in the second inning. MacPhee gave up nine runs and two hits. Paquet gave up ten runs and eight hits, walked three, hit one and struck out four.

Devine, Smith, Murphy and MacDonald scored three runs each for Peakes. MacDonald hit a three-bagger in the third.

The Peakes team gave Douglas all-right support except for the fifth and seventh innings, when they had seven errors.

Souris fielders split wide open in the second inning and did not recover for the balance of the game. They had a total of 19 errors. Murnaghan scored for Souris in the first and L. Gallant scored in the fifth.

After the game Major J. A. MacDonald, President of the King's County League, presented the Physical Fitness Trophy to Capt. George Smith of the Peakes team, congratulating them on their victory and wishing them the best of luck in the island playoffs. He also congratulated the Souris team for coming out on top in the league schedule.

The umpire was B. Lewis. Charlottetown; base judges, John Bradley and Edmund Lavie.

Lineups: Peakes: Catcher, M. Devine; 1st base, G. Smith; centre field, Murphy; 3rd base, M. Handran; short stop, MacDonald; 2nd base, D. George; right field, A. Handran; left field, Grant; pitcher, Douglas.

J. D. Paquet replaced McIntosh in the third.

The Bombers will be hosts to the Fort Augustus baseball squad Sunday for the Queen's County championship. This will be the best out of three game series.

Inning by New York's Bobby Thomson, giving the Giants a 5-4 victory.

Canadiens Sign Two Rookies

MONTREAL, Oct. 3 — (CP) — Montreal Canadiens today announced the signing of rookies Doug Anderson and Ivan Irwin and ticketed them for farm clubs.

Anderson, a centre who played with Edmonton Senior Flyers last season in the Western Canada League, goes to Victoria of the Pacific Coast League.

Irwin, a defenceman who last year was with Cincinnati of the American Hockey League, returns on loan to that club.

Canadiens also signed three players who will be turned over to Montreal Royals of the Quebec Senior League. They are right-winger Jacques Locas, with Royals last year; and Gerry Plamondon, left wing, and Tod Campeau, centre, both of whom were Canadian property with Cincinnati last season.

The North Sydney line of Laurie Peterson, Charlie Knox and Don Bellringer played as a unit and were impressive. "Bucko" Trainor, Bubby Dowling and Red Favero formed another line while Hub Beaudry, Johnny Morrow and Lal Hennessey were a fourth trio.

Gordie Simpson and Orin Carver teamed up with various centres. Big Phil and Larry Travis teamed up on one defense. Johnny Dulchak and George McLagan another and Bob Gray and "Spy" Ready a third. Hal Gordon and Frankie Roper were in the nets. Morris Lallo missed practise due to a charley horse he received Tuesday.

The "Bucko" Trainor, "Red" Favero, "Bubby" Dowling line accounted for two goals with Favero and Dowling doing the sniping. Marcel Clements and Willie Marshall each scored for the Bonhomme. Marshall and Clements trio. Laurie Peterson and Gordie Simpson were the other forwards who scored.

But Phil Vitale and Bob Gray were not to be outdone by any of the forwards and they too scored. Big Phil showed he has not lost any of the zip in his shot as he blasted a hard one into the twines.

Orin Carver, "Spy" Ready, "Bubby" Dowling and Lal Hennessey played well and compared favorably with the imports. Their play drew many favorable comments.

Danny Horek and Dennis Smith are expected to arrive in the City today. Smith is the player who tried out with the Providence Reds and was to accompany Favero, Beaudry and McLagan here. He is a right winger.

Results Of Previous Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 — (AP) — Results of previous Yankee-Giant World Series.

1921 Giants 5 Yanks 3 (best-of-nine).

1922 Giants 4 Yanks 0 (one tie).

1923 Yanks 4 Giants 2.

1936 Yanks 4 Giants 2.

1937 Yanks 4 Giants 1.

Huge Attendance At Islanders Practise Session

The sporting public last night received their first glimpses of the players trying out for the Islanders hockey club and as the 2,000 odd members shuffled out of the Forum the words on the lips of most were to the effect that no one envied Leo Lamoureux his job in selecting a hockey team from the good material available.

23 eager, pound-shedding hockey players went through their paces and turned in a great show to the delight of the fans. Centreman Laurie Peterson was back after recuperating from a cold and the clever playmaker, along with Willie Marshall and a host of others, more than caught the fancy of the crowd.

Gordie Simpson made his first appearance here and considering the conditions under which he played, the youngster was tops. Gordie just arrived in the City three-quarters of an hour before he went on the ice and without receiving any supper or sleep on Tuesday night. It was also the first time he was on skates this season.

Simpson plays either left or right wing or defense. Forum Manager Bill Brown calls him the "Billy Goodman of Hockey."

Willie Marshall, Conny Bonhomme and Marcel Clements played on one line and their play brought favorable comments. Willie and Bonhomme were dashing around the ice in tireless fashion and many fans commented about quite an improvement in Clements' play.

St. Mary's Coach Levels Blast At Players

MONTREAL, Oct. 3 — (CP) — Coach Wilf Fields of Halifax St. Mary's tonight said he will have to start weeding players out of his practice squads in preparation for an exhibition game Sunday.

Fields said the Maritime Major Hockey League club will play Shawinigan Falls Cataracts of the Quebec senior loop in Shawinigan.

"Between now and the week-end I'll have to start to weed out players," he said. "And from the way today's scrimmage went quite a few of those on the outside are going to be the old timers."

"This was the worst scrimmage I've ever seen; the old pros are just taking it easy and playing around. So I really raised the roof with them."

"We only get the ice once a day for an hour and the first game of the season is only about two weeks off. I want more of them in better shape and really working than there are now."

Fields said the exhibition game will help get some of his men in condition. More intensive training will be done when the club gets back to Halifax.

Beavers Plan Exhibition Game

VALLEYFIELD, Que., Oct. 3 — (CP) — Coach Hector (Toe) Blake of Valleyfield Braves tonight announced the signing of defencemen Bertrand Bourassa and Jacques Deslauriers and centre Paul Larivee. All were veterans of the Quebec Senior Hockey League championship club.

Blake also announced that Braves will play an exhibition game Oct. 9 against Saint John Beavers of the Maritime Major Hockey League.

Little World Series

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 3 — (AP) — Ernie Johnson, the American Association's top-pitcher, set Montreal down with four hits tonight to give Milwaukee a 6-0 victory and a 3-2 edge in the Little World Series.
