

Local and Other Items.

THE MAILS.—Crossing both ways at the Capes to-day. Mails due in the city by regular western train this afternoon.

THERMOMETER READINGS.—On Saturday night the thermometer stood at zero; on Sunday at noon 40 above; last night 24 above and 30 above at noon to-day.

ARCHBISHOP LAUD.—Don't forget the paper on "Archbishop Laud," to be read before the St. Paul's Church Association to-night, by A. R. Warburton, Esq. Admission free.

SUPREME COURT.—The case of Clow vs. Morris, an action on account, is engaging the attention of the Court to-day. Davies for plaintiff; Reddin and Stewart for defendant.

VICTORIA DIVISION.—P. G. W. P. Creighton, of Quebec, will be present at Victoria Division this evening. A full and punctual attendance is requested. All Sons of Temperance welcome.

DISGRACING THE CLOTH.—The Albert Maple Leaf says: It is rumored that a minister in one of our parishes has been brought before the church tribunal to answer to a charge of immoral conduct.

TELEPHONIC.—The Bell telephones in Nova Scotia have been transferred to the N. S. company. There are 400 instruments in Halifax, 55 in Truro, 36 in Windsor and about 100 in other towns and villages. The system is being extended to Amherst.

THE ICEBOAT SERVICE.—The Government iceboats between Capes Tormentine and Trav-crow, from Thursday of last week to Wednesday of this week, carried 41 passengers to, and 39 from the Island. One of the passengers from the Island on Wednesday of last week was a lady.

W. C. T. U.—There will be meetings held daily this week, from 4 to 5 o'clock, in the basement parlour of the Y. M. C. A., under the auspices of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. The several clergymen of the city have kindly consented to be present, so it is hoped that there may be a large attendance. Feb 6-1w

THE TRAINS.—On Saturday the trains were delayed considerably by the hard snow on the track. The eastern train was about an hour and three-quarters late; and the western about three-and-a-half hours. The snow plough of the eastern train left the track several times. Yesterday trains were out clearing the track, and to-day all trains are on time.

A TYPOGRAPHICAL ERROR.—Everybody has heard of errors of the types and seen more or less of them; but only those that have escaped correction are seen by the public. The Chatham World boasts of a typo who translated Junior Lord of the Admiralty into "Junior Lord of the Almighty," with reprint copy at that. Every proof-reader could give a few samples of that sort.

POLICE STATISTICS.—Marshal Thibideau's record book shows 15 arrests in January this year, against 11 arrests in January last year, and 17 arrests in January, 1886. The collection in January this year were $54.50, against $25 in January last year and $30.50 in January, 1886. These statistics do not include arrests in connection with the enforcement of the Scott Act.—Moncton Times.

DOCTOR ANDERSON.—Commenting on the distinction conferred upon Professor Anderson by McGill University, the Montreal Gazette says:—"Principal Anderson, who received the degree of LL. D. from McGill University, at Wednesday's meeting, has held the principality of Prince of Wales College, Charlottetown, P. E. I., for the last twenty-two years, and has been head and heart of the educational system of that province. His graduates number many thousands, and they look on this recognition as being worthy of McGill."

A SUCCESSFUL ISLANDER.—In a recent issue of the Boston Daily Globe we notice that at a meeting of the Bookbinders' Union, William T. Dougan, bookbinder, son of Mr. William Dougan, of this city, was elected a delegate to the convention of the International Typographical Union of North America. Mr. Dougan was for a long time employed in the bookbinding of Mr. G. H. Hazard, in this city, and later with Mr. W. A. Brennan at Summerside; but about five years ago he went to Boston, where he obtained a lucrative situation. His friends in this Province will be pleased to hear of his success, and of the esteem in which he is held by his fellow-workmen.

PUBLIC MEETING.—A public meeting is to be held in Best's River Road Schoolhouse (North) on Wednesday, 8th February, at one o'clock, P. M. to which representatives of the Dominion and Local Parliaments have been invited. The object of the meeting is to take into consideration certain harbor improvements at Naufrage. As the meeting is one in which a large number of persons are directly interested, we hope to hear of it being well attended, and the question of utilizing Naufrage Pond in connection with shipping facilities, so much needed by the farmers residing along the north-side, fully discussed.

PERSONAL.—H. L. Macdonald, M. P. P., Cardigan, is at the Osborne.

Mr. Musgrave, of Morrison & Musgrave, Halifax, is on the Island in the interests of the firms they represent.

Mr. John T. Abbott started, on Monday afternoon, for the United States of Columbia, South America, where he goes to represent the interests of the Columbia Mining Company of New York. He will sail from New York for Aspinwall, on Wednesday. Quite a delegation of prominent citizens were at the depot to see Mr. Abbott off, and to tender him their best wishes for his future prosperity and happiness. Rarely has the departure of a citizen from our city been the occasion of such universal expressions of regret. Mr. Abbott is a man whom the people of Keene are very sorry to lose a fellow citizen, and although a young man who has been among us but a comparatively short time, he will be missed not only as a private citizen and a prominent lawyer, but as a man whose voice and influence were always found on the side of improvement, progress and sound policy in public affairs. Mr. Abbott was accompanied as far as New York by his partner, Mr. Horsey, and wife, and also by Mr. C. Faulkner who is on his way to Washington.—New Hampshire Sentinel.

[The name of the gentleman above referred to is not unfamiliar to the people of Charlottetown, and many of our citizens have had the pleasure of his personal acquaintance. During the long vexed discussion on the question of our waterworks (which happily has, at last, been satisfactorily settled) Mr. Abbott rendered eminent service, in affording our citizens the benefit of his experience and the wisdom of his counsel. We wish him a successful career in his new sphere of usefulness.]

THE MILLMAN TRIAL.

Bringing in the Verdict.

The Prisoner Declared Guilty.

HE SWOONS IN THE DOCK.

On Saturday evening about 7.30 it was rumored that the jury had agreed to a verdict. This news was a surprise to everybody, as it was supposed that they would not agree for a much longer time, while some hazarded the opinion that they would not agree at all.

When THE EXAMINER'S reporter got to the Courtroom, there were but few persons there, for the news of the agreement had not become generally known. But people soon came quickly and eagerly in. Of the counsel engaged, Mr. Hodgson was the first to arrive. He at once took his seat at the little desk from which he had, for the last eleven days, fought so earnest and brilliant a fight for his client. The Attorney-General arrived next. The Clerk of the Crown was in his place next with his papers before him. By this time the Courtroom was nearly filled and the usual rush up the stair-case announced the arrival of the prisoner.

HE LOOKED FLUSHED AND FEVERISH, and seemed to suffer from a cold. Then came the jury looking none the worse for their long confinement and almost immediately afterwards Mr. Justice Hensley took his seat. Amid a death-like silence the Clerk of the Crown arose, and addressing the jury said, "Gentlemen of the Jury, answer to your names." He then read a list of their names from a paper he had in his hand.

The scene which the Court House then presented was one not soon to be forgotten. Nearly every one except those within the bar stood. The Judge had his note book before him, his head resting on one hand, a pen in the other. The Attorney-General leaned earnestly forward. Mr. Hodgson sat pale and impassive; nothing could be gathered from his face as to what he thought, or hoped, or feared. And the prisoner—one can fancy what his feelings were. At first all eyes were directed to the jury; thence to the prisoner. Those who looked at the prisoner could, however, see but little, for his form was hardly discernible in the deep shade in which he sat in the dock. At last, what seemed a long reading ended, and the Clerk of the Crown asked what was their verdict. The foreman in a low, but distinct voice, replied: "GUILTY."

at the same time handing in a paper which proved to contain a recommendation to mercy. For a second or two the prisoner, who held his white pocket handkerchief to his face from the time he entered the dock, seemed dazed, then he fell as if he had been struck by a thunderbolt, and seemingly lifeless he remained, half sitting, half leaning against the side of the dock. The Courtroom was quickly cleared, and the unfortunate young man was laid on a seat, and there he lay for fifteen or twenty minutes. Mr. Hodgson sat by him with his hand on his pulse, and water was applied to his forehead and lips. In about half an hour he was carried down stairs and driven rapidly to the jail, from the gloomy portals of which he will emerge once more to receive his sentence; and then, never again—unless his sentence is commuted—until he has been strangled on the gibbet, when his dead body will be carried out for burial in the little country churchyard where his fathers sleep.

A TERRIBLE BLOW. The news of the finding of the jury was a terrible blow to his father and mother and sister, who are stopping at the Osborne House. But over that sad scene we draw a veil—it is one that even the omniscient eye of the press has no right to penetrate. The sorrow and suffering of these worthy people is too sacred to be commented on in the columns of a newspaper. They have the sympathy of the community in their sorrow and distress, and sure we are that there is not one who does not pray that God will grant them strength to bear the heavy affliction laid upon them, rendered doubly hard to bear as coming through their eldest boy—the boy they both loved so well.

FALSE REPORTS CORRECTED. All day yesterday and this forenoon, the most alarming reports were current concerning the condition of Millman. One story, afloat yesterday, was to the effect that, during Saturday night, he had burst a blood-vessel and was slowly bleeding to death. Last night and this morning the report was in everybody's mouth that he was dead. In order to get at the bottom of these stories, THE EXAMINER'S reporter called at the jail to-day and interviewed Mr. Harvie on the subject. From him the reporter learned that Millman, beyond suffering from a cold and feeling somewhat gloomy over the verdict, was in his usual health. Yesterday he ate but little. In the afternoon he was visited by Rev. J. Simpson, Rev. T. B. Reagh, and Mr. E. J. Hodgson. They remained half an hour—leaving about five o'clock. After their departure the prisoner seemed greatly relieved. This forenoon his father, mother and sister (Mrs. Nelson Evans), Rev. Mr. Reagh and Mr. E. J. Hodgson, called to see him. The meeting between Millman and his parents and sister was very affecting—all weeping bitterly. The visitors remained about three-quarters of an hour.

A DESERVED TRIBUTE. The following address from the jury in the Millman trial, and which was presented this morning, speaks for itself:— To His Honor Judge Hensley and James Curtis, High Sheriff of Queen's County: We, the jury empanelled on the case of the Queen vs. William Millman, indicted for the murder of Mary Tuplin, after having been confined within the precincts of the Court-house for twelve days, feel that it would be most ungrateful on our part to separate without giving to Your Honor and all the officers of the Court an expression of our deep thankfulness for the care and many attentions paid to us, without which it would have been doubtful that we all could have held out under the deep and terrible responsibilities imposed upon us. For self and fellows, ALEXANDER MCKENZIE, Foreman.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER. A Treaty of Alliance.

VIENNA, Feb. 5. The Fremdenblatt says the publication of a Treaty of Alliance between Austria and Germany will produce everywhere the conviction that our policy has a pacific and conservative tendency, which will always be maintained, and will decisively show that the policy of Austria and Germany, and the grouping of the powers is of high and unrestricted importance, and that the duration of the treaty is absolutely secured. It now forms, and must form in the future, the exclusive basis of our policy. Nobody can but now fairly understand that Austria and Germany will endeavor above all to clear up the situation, refute baseless accusations, and tranquilize the public mind.

A Terrible Affair.

DUBLIN, Feb. 5. At the conclusion of a performance at Lowrey's Music Hall, last night, Mlle. Senide, one of the performers, placed her head in a lion's mouth for the purpose of having her photograph taken in that position. A sudden flash of light caused the beast to close his jaws, and he retired growling to a corner of his cage, dragging his helpless victim with him. Then he shook the girl violently, tearing her breast with his claws. The attendants at once sprang toward the cage and attacked the lion with iron, and finally succeeded in beating him off. Mlle. Senide was removed and medical aid summoned. Her neck, shoulders, breast and one arm was terribly torn, but she is still alive.

Down an Embankment.

ST. JOHN, Feb. 5. As the down train from Presque Isle, on the New Brunswick Railway, was rounding Tobique Point on Saturday morning, at a fifteen mile an hour rate, a wheel of one of the passenger coaches broke and the car was thrown off the track, rolling down an embankment 75 feet high. There were six passengers in the car, five of whom sustained slight injuries.

Revolvers vs. Sword.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 5. Two Frenchmen quarreled with a German officer in the Casino yesterday. The officer drew his sword and the Frenchmen drew revolvers and fired, wounding the German, after which they escaped over the frontier.

More Fortifications.

OTTAWA, Feb. 5. The Government papers here admit that a large sum of money is to be expended upon British Columbia fortifications, but say that the expense will be borne jointly by the Dominion and Imperial governments.

The Austro-German Treaty.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 5. The newspapers here discuss the Austro-German treaty tranquilly. Most of them aver that Russia is equally desirous of peace and wishes to attack nobody.

Despatches from William O'Brien, now on the continent, show that he is greatly improved in health, and will be present in the House of Commons on the re-assembling of Parliament on the 9th inst.

Newspaper men in Germany have to be very careful about punctuation. The Hofer Tageblatt, a short time ago said a decoration had been conferred upon Count von Holstein. By an oversight an exclamation point, instead of a period, appeared at the end of the sentence, and for this the authorities seized the whole issue and instituted a suit against the editor for atrocious libel.

DIED.

At his father's residence, Park Corner, of gastric fever, John Edwin, son of the Hon. Wm. Campbell, late Commissioner of Public Works, aged 21 years.

Departed this life at Cumberland Hill, Dundas, P. E. I., on Dec. 23rd, 1887, Annie Gillis, the beloved wife of John M. Johnston, aged 63 years, leaving a sorrowing husband and two daughters to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate mother. She died trusting in Jesus. She was truthful in all her ways, and her motto was, "Buy the truth and sell it not." Deceased was a native of Sunderland, Eng., and came to this Island in the fall of 1853, on board the barque Sir Alexander, in company with Mr. and Mrs. Stark.
