Opinions of the Press on Kissing.

[From an English paper "tres bon."]

From an old reporter's scrap book we copy the subjoined notes, which are entitled "Opinions of the Press on Kissing." They relate to the text which tells us that "Jacob kissed Rachel," and lifted up his voice and wept :

If Rachel was a pretty girl and kept her face clean we can't see what Jacob had to cry about.—Daily Telegraph.

How do you know but that she slapped his face for him?—Ladies' Treasury.

The cause of Jacob's weeping was the refusal of Rachel to allow him to kiss her again.—Nonconformist.

It is our opinion that Jacob wept because he had not kissed Rachel before, and wept for the time lost.—City Press.

The fellow wept because the girl did not kiss him.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Jacob wept because Rachel told him to do it again and he was afraid to.—Methodist Recorder.

Jacob cried because she threatened to tell her mother.—Sunday Gazette.

Jacob wept because there was only one Rachel to kiss.—Clerkenwell News.

He wept for joy because it tasted so good—Jewish Chronicle.

We think Jacob cried because Rachel was eating onions.—British Standard.

A mistake. Not his eyes, but his mouth watered.—Ladies' Chronicle.

Our opinion is that Jacob wept because he found it was not half what it was cracked up to be.—New Zealand Examiner.

Jacob thought it was a fast color; and wept to find the paint come off.—Fine Art Gazette.

He was a fool; he did not know what was good for him.—Englishman's Adviser.

Jacob thought she might have a big brother.—Sporting Chronicle.

Because there was no time for another.—Express.

When Jacob lifted up his voice and wept, he found he could not get it as high as he expected.—Musical Notes.

Weeping is not unfrequently caused by extreme pleasure, joy, happiness; it might have been so in Jacob's case.—Hardwick's Science Gossip.

SCROFULA AND SALT RHEUM.

Dear Mr. Eagar.

I have much pleasure in giving you a record of the effect produced by the use of your PHOSPHOLEINE. The following cases have come under my particular attention while visiting the sick and poor: A case of Hereditary Scrofula.—The patient had tried most of the blood purifying remedies and Sarsaparillas in use, but for the past 19 years obtained no relief. After taking three bottles of your PHOSPHOLEINE his flesh became smooth and healthy, and he is now completely cured. A case of severe cough in the last stages of Consumption: The cough was eased, and the patient regained flesh and strength. This case is past curing, and the patient was pronounced so by physicians; but had she obtained of your medicine sooner, would no doubt have been cured. A case in which patient had given up the use of alcohol: The craving was cured, and the patient was regaining health and strength. A case of loss of flesh, great weakness, and indisposition for exertion of any kind, has been restored to health and strength by using your PHOSPHOLEINE. I have also recommended it to many who have been suffering from Dyspepsia, loss of strength and flesh, and in every case it has effected a cure. I have derived much benefit from the use of it myself. I remain yours, &c.,
