Contest Still Open

I have received an official request to hold open the "Ugliest Man on Campus" contest for another week. The leader, Bob Palmer (affectionately known as Bar-head to the football coaching staff) maintains a slim lead over second place Dave MacRae, 6 votes to 5. We expect a dramatic turn of events in the voting by next week. A large slanderous rabble from Memorial Hall plan to stuff the ballot box in favor of an, as yet unnamed, unfortunate wretch from their midst. Regretably, I received my first vote last week. I am not happy. In any case there exists plenty of opportunity for anyone to overtake the leaders. Absolute final results next week. After the dust has settled, and some hideous horrible, hulk scrambles into first place in the Ugliest contest, a new contest will begin. The opening of the "Campus Drunk" contest starts next week.

Prepare now the names of your favorite bleary-eyed boozier, alcoholic arch-rival, or falling down friend.

Every Saturday night, the Social Committee presents a Discotheque at the Barn. Preliminary information reports that it will fail miserably. I think it's an interesting idea and I hope it works. This is for you people who complain that there aren't enough events on campus during the weekends. It may work if the Residence people lead the way. As Disco Tex says, "Boogie Woogie Woogie, Right On, Love is Here, Baby."

We've heard many vile incriminating rumours around campus these days many of them without an ounce of truth. I deem it my responsibility to dispell these fabrications.

There is no truth to the rumor that Mike Hennessey once broke his leg when he fell off his shoes.

There is no truth to the rumor that Loco Gallant has been awarded a Rhodes Scholarship for next year. He could not accept it because he'll still be at UPEI next year.

There is no truth to the rumor that Marion Morrison is really a disguise used by Mickey Place to gain entrance to the girls' residence. No truth at all.

There is no truth to the rumor that Jim Charuk of Mt. Allison is a woman.

I hope there is no truth to the rumor that several people mentioned in previous Streetwalker articles are seeking to do bodily harm to the writer of said article. But there may be truth to the rumors that infra-red cameras were used by the Photo Club members to snap incriminating pictures of couples in the throes of passion. So keep your doors locked.

As this goes to print, Maintenance is on strike and have picket lines at each entrance to campus.

By the time this issue hits the streets, Jose Feliciano's concert will be a thing of the past. In the USA, Jose became the first person to really change the National Anthem. He sang his own version during the world series in a fiery flamenco style with a thick Spanish accent and very quick tempo. It was good for at least a thousand letters saying, "Don't you ever sing like that again, you Spick bastard" from Veterans Committee sympathizers. He must have figured they wouldn't kick the shit out of him because he was blind. Great song though.

Late Mail

Dear Streetwalker:

With reference to your request for votes on the ugliest man on campus, I feel I have found a candidate who has thus far gone unnoticed. I wish to submit 3 million votes for a Jon Paul MacIntyre. It is my belief, which is also the belief of a number of my associates, that he has got to be the ugliest fellow around. I mean, you've got to admit, he is ugly.

- PS: Others that should not go without recognition are:
- Kip Puia-2,999,999 votes
  - John Gallinger-2 million
  - Derek Key-2.5 million
  - Chris Brennan-1 sympathy vote
  - Ron Baker-10 complimentaries
  - Herm MacNeil-5 congratulatory vote
  - Joyce Burnett-2 feminist votes.
  - Prof. Earl Wonnacott - 3π votes (yum, yum, yum)

And just to make sure Jon Paul wins give him 3 million more votes.

Saying goodbye hoping all your consequences are happy ones.
