Allied Air Force

The Red build-up area, believed holding at least 10,000 Chinese, with 406 tons of bombs. Hundreds of navy planes from four carriers also concentrated mass attacks on the front in one of the biggest navy strikes of the war.

American advisers to the Rok troops said they believed the Chinese were building up their "Kum-sung" defenses for an inevitable attack, either through a counter-attack, or through preparing a new offensive of their own.

In a special statement Sunday, 8th Army headquarters discussed the 100,000-man Chinese offensive of last week, making these points: 1. At least two South Korean divisions on the eastern flank did not show the steadiness that had been expected of them.

2. Some Rok troops on the eastern flank retreated too far too quickly. Weakness in command forced the relief of the division commander in mid-battle. Under a new commander "this unit has recovered during the last two days."

3. The Rok Capitol division, which defended a vital approach to Kumhuwa, fought well but was almost torn to pieces. 4. The Rok's, although this was their best effort to date, have a long way to go before they are a truly steady and dependable army.

Polio Epidemic In Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP)—Poliomyelitis in Manitoba has reached epidemic proportions, Dr. M. Bowman, Manitoba director of preventive medical services, said Saturday. There were 72 cases reported in the week ended Friday, bringing the total since Jan. 1 to 165, with five deaths. However, 29 of these are attributed to last year's epidemic.

Russian Charge Termed Nonsense

BONN, Germany (AP)—A U. S. high commission spokesman Sunday characterized as "nonsense" Russia's charge that American planes have been dropping leaflets on the Soviet military air fields in East Germany. The Soviet accusation was made by Russian high commissioner Vladimir Semenov in a note to U. S. High Commissioner James B. Conant.

Business Tax Discussed At City Council Meeting

A business tax, rather than an occupancy tax, will be introduced in the form of a by-law at the next regular meeting of the City Council, it was announced by Mr. Edwin C. Johnstone, chairman of the Finance Committee, at a special meeting of the Council held recently.

It was pointed out by Councillor P. J. Storey that in common with urban communities all across Canada this city is increasing at all times and next year there will be a great increase in the costs of education. He said that the increases must be budgeted for even though requirements were met inadequately.

His brief read to the Council stated: "It is true that the services rendered by this corporation are shared almost equally with the many people living in the border areas, by both Federal and Provincial, both of Federal and Provincial composition, and by many people within this city who do not share equitably the financial burdens."

Councillor Storey also pointed out that the City did not get into this financial predicament in just the past two or three years. He said it was a result of "under-assessment and collection of revenue over the past quarter century or more."

Remedies Suggested To remedy the situation Mr. Storey mentioned several ways in which the City could obtain more money. He also pointed out the disadvantages connected with some of them. His suggestions, which were discussed in the Council without final action being taken, were:

- (a) Increase the present tax rate to 10 per cent.
(b) Increase the assessment on personal property.
(c) Increase the motor vehicle tax.
(d) Increase and enlarge the Poll Tax.
(e) Institute a Business and Occupancy Tax.
(f) Institute an Educational Tax.
(g) Seek and obtain greater compensation in lieu of taxes from the C.N.R.
(h) Seek and obtain greater compensation in the form of grant in lieu of taxes from the Federal and Provincial Governments.

Provincial Governments. (i) Seek and obtain a better agreement with the Provincial and Federal Government in lieu of the income tax field which though not in the true sense vacated, only because this City did not use income as a basis for its tax, but even though we now need to do so, we cannot.

(j) Seek and obtain from the Provincial Government assistance on streets which are extension of the province's main highways. Objections Noted.

(a) To increase the present tax rate would place an extremely heavy burden on a relatively small proportion of the citizens—and could easily have a very adverse effect upon this City in that such increase may drive industry and building outside the City limits.

(b) The present personal property tax is a very poor one—and thrown out by most communities and replaced years ago by the fairer income tax. However, if this tax must be retained then the assessments must be greatly increased.

(c) A Business and Occupancy tax is essential to this community in order to bring the burden of taxes to rest more evenly on the business and professional portion of the population.

One office in this City pays in taxes $35.00 while its counter part in Halifax, for slightly larger office, and where an appropriate tax is in effect pays about $645.00.

(d) Notwithstanding the anticipated greatly increased expenditures for education, the costs for maintenance and capital works will increase—the programme of sidewalks, street lighting, etc., must go forward.

The costs of education cannot, therefore, be financed by savings in other departments, because to save now would mean heavier expenditures later on. A review of the past justifies this conclusion.

It is, therefore, necessary to consider an Education Tax to meet the anticipated increased expenditures for education.

(e) The other avenues suggested are more or less self explanatory and need no further comment.

Identify Remains Of One American Hunter By Bernard Dufresne Canadian Press Staff Writer GASPÉ, Que. (CP)—Police stood week-end guard in the mountainous Gaspé wilds amid mounting speculation that murder figured in the case of three vanished American hunters.

The guard was necessary to keep people away from the area where the remains of one of the men—bits of bone, clothing and personal effects—were found. At an inquest, opened for identification purposes only and adjourned indefinitely, the remains were identified as those of Eugene Lindsey, 45, of Holidayburg, Pa., one of the missing men.

The identification was made by Ira Clear, father of Fred Clear, another of the missing men, who recognized bits of the clothing and personal articles. No sign of his 20-year-old son nor Lindsey's 17-year-old son Richard have been found.

Shortly after the remains were brought out, District Coroner Dr. Lionel Rioux said expert study of the remains will aim to determine if Lindsey was decapitated. Preliminary inspection of the death scene, termed one of "in-describable disarray" indicated the recovered bones were parts of all three men.

War-Dead Honored At Historic Church

The lives sacrificed in two world wars were again honored by the large congregation gathered about the two monuments at New London on July 12. Sunny skies smiled on the stones and on the historic Geddies Memorial Church in their beautiful surroundings overlooking the sand hills and blue waters of New London Bay.

Departed loved ones were personally remembered by floral offerings placed beneath the names. The address was delivered by Rev. S. H. Haslam, B.D., minister of the Margate United Church, who told of a family of nine boys whose parents could only raise them in meagre fashion. He described them as having "little education, not very religious or sensitive to community activities," yet seven of the nine volunteered to fight for their country. One was killed two days after arriving on active service. The others, who had always kept to themselves, suddenly became alive to their responsibilities as well as their privileges. One of the boys is now an elder in the community church, and the church and community welfare now depends much on that family.

Here, much the same thing has taken place, and the speaker went on to say, "This is the occasion on which we remember that what we have not been given, but has been bought by those whose names are on those stones. If we have neglected our duty not only to our fellow men but to our God as well, we have betrayed them. Some are still with us, none went for his own pleasure. God grant we do not betray them!"

Rev. D. A. Campbell, New London Presbyterian Minister conducted the service, and the Scripture lesson was read by Rev. V. Eric Ingraham, of the Church of England, who also led in prayer.

New London United Church choir, with Mrs. Louis MacLeod at the organ led in the singing of the hymns, "God is Our Refuge and Our Strength," "O God of Bethel," "O Vallant Hearts," and the National Anthem and gave a beautiful rendition of the memorial anthem, "Near and Dear."

The reading of the names by the ministers and the two minutes silence was followed by the words, "They shall not grow old as we that are left grow old. At the going down of the sun we shall remember Them," by Mr. Campbell.

The offering was received by the following veterans: Messrs. Oliver Cole, Waldo Duggan, James Brown, Kenneth MacKay, Joseph Harding and LAC. Archie Campbell.

The service was heard in all parts of the grounds through the public address system operated by Mr. Stuart Smith of West Royalty.

The committee in charge of the well arranged service are Mr. Allison MacLeod, chairman, Mr. Hillard Meek, secretary, and Mr. Ernest Dunning.

French Troops Push Offensive In Indo-China

By Larry Allen TIEN YEN, Viet Nam, (AP)—French union troops, in a new offensive action, stabbed deep into the backyard of the Communist-led Vietnam Sunday. They seized control of a 60-mile stretch of highway and linked up with paratroopers on their way out of the wrecked enemy base of Lang Son.

Thousands of infantry, landed by paratroopers dropped in key towns and villages, drove northward over national highway No. 4 against light, scattered resistance. These French forces joined up with paratroopers from Lang Son at the village of Na Ba, 42 miles northwest of Tien Yen, after the paratroopers had covered 18 miles on foot.

The Vietnam, who long have been reported to have strong forces in northwestern Indo-China around Tien Yen, made virtually no attempt to halt French seizure of the highway which lies just south of the border of China's Kwangsi Province.

The French wiped out a score of bridges between Tien Yen and Lang Son, smashed enemy telephone lines, and seized a munitions depot. The seizure of this long stretch of highway cut off the Vietnam from getting supplies from Lang Son, which French paratroopers knocked out in a daring raid Friday.

AMHERST, N. S. (CP)—George Drew charged Saturday that federal government "snappers" are persecuting some income tax payers by making "impossible demands" for tax accountings going back 15 years and more.

The Progressive Conservative leader made the charge at Cambridge, N. S., on the last day of his week-long campaign through the Maritimes.

He ended his Atlantic coast tour with a speech at Amherst Saturday night in which he said the government "flatly refused" for 3-1/2 years to take action to hold Canada's export markets in Britain and the sterling area.

Mr. Drew said tax investigators are "hounding the small taxpayers and going back 15 or 20 years demanding records they can't possibly produce."

"Our party objects to this persecution. We object to these government snappers." The investigators demanded that farmers keep the kind of books that

Well Known City Resident Passes

The death of Mrs. P. H. Trainor, Friday, July 17th at the Sacred Heart Home, Charlottetown, has taken one of the oldest and most respected residents of the community.

During her life time most of which was spent in Charlottetown she did many works of charity in a quiet unassuming manner. Her husband, P. H. Trainor, a prominent painter and decorating contractor of this city predeceased her some years ago.

She leaves to mourn the following nephews and nieces, Rev. George E. Hanlon, S.J., Boston, Mass., John, Edward, Frank Hanlon of Boston, Mass., Thomas Hanlon, Cincinnati, Ohio, Mother Ursula of New York, Marion Stanislaus, Sister of Charity, in Boston, Mrs. Mary Walsh and Mrs. Ella LeSage, Boston, also a step son, J. Austin Trainor, C.D.A., Charlottetown and a step daughter, Mrs. Marion O'Connor of Medford, Mass.

The funeral services are being held this morning at 9 o'clock at the church of the Most Holy Redeemer. Her nephew, Rev. George E. Hanlon, S.J., will celebrate the Solemn High funeral Mass.

Big Circus In Ch'town Today

The first truck of the King Bros. and Christiani circus rolled down the ferry ramp at Borden yesterday morning at 8:00 o'clock. It was perhaps one of the most important, the cook house.

Eighty-five large trailer trucks which comprise the circus train were moving into town as late as ten o'clock last night. Their ten thousand dollar office trailer was broken down between here and Borden with $100,000 in it.

One of the first circuses to adopt this method of transportation, Mr. King states that it is not a cheaper method of moving from place to place but said that by having their own transportation system, they are always on time, whereas they sometimes experienced delays through train connections. Another advantage is the fact that they can move across country and reach centres not served by the railroad with which they have contracted.

The King Bros. and Christiani circus winters in Macon, Georgia. They have been playing in Canada since June 1st and have had tremendous crowds at all the performances.

Two great circus owners of the past and present, Mr. Martin Downes and Mr. Al G. Barnes were Canadians and in this circus one of the star performers is a Canadian, Miss Barbara Fairchild, a bare back rider whose home is in London, Ont. Miss Fairchild will lead the mammoth street parade which will travel Fitzroy Street and through the business section of the city at 11:30 a.m. today.

Trace Mysterious Phone Calls To New York

MONTREAL, (CP)—Provincial police said Saturday they have traced to a public booth in New York City two mysterious telephone calls received by a Shawinigan Falls mother the day her son's body was recovered from the St. Maurice river.

Mrs. Richard Vandal of Shawinigan Falls, about 100 miles northeast of Montreal, reported to police she had received the calls July 10, the day the body of her 23-year-old son, Jean Louis, was recovered.

The son disappeared July 5 after he walked out in the middle of a Sunday mass saying to friends "I'm sorry but I must go." A coroner's inquest into the case ended with a verdict of "suicide while of unsound mind."

Mrs. Vandal said her son's wallet was found on the beach, but his money and personal pictures were missing. His ring and watch also were missing.

Police, stating that they were baffled by the telephone calls, said an autopsy on Vandal's body disclosed no signs of violence.

Cripps' Daughter Weds Negro Law Student

LONDON (AP)—Enid Margaret Cripps, fair-haired youngest daughter of the late Sir Stafford Cripps, was married Saturday to a Negro law student from the Gold Coast, Joseph Appiah, before primarily dressed Britons and robed Ashanti tribesmen at fashionable St. John's Church.

"The whole world is watching you and you go out from this church to live a new life together in Christ—a life which knows no barriers," the couple was told by Rev. N. A. Perry-Gore.

The two plan to settle in the Gold Coast, British colony on the west coast of Africa.

The bride is a tall, buxom woman of 31 known as Peggy. The bridegroom, an inch or two shorter, is the bespectacled son of a tribal leader and personal representative in London of the Gold Coast's prime minister.

Show Little Election Interest

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—The Kitchener-Waterloo Record asked 50 residents two questions. 1. Do you know the date of the federal election? 2. Do you know who is running in Waterloo North? The results, said a reporter: Only 22 could name the date. Aug. 10. Fifteen confessed they had no idea. One man asked: "What election?" "People who can't tell you the date are semi-stupid," another man replied. He could only name two of the four candidates in the constituency. Only one person, a woman, gave the correct answers.
