

Happenings of The Week

Mummy came home on Monday for Britain's Royal children, Prince Charles, 2, and Princess Anne, six months, who spent the last 3 1/2 months with Grandpa—the King and Queen, Princess Elizabeth—Mummy to the Royal tots—has been a "navy wife" in Malta since last fall with her sailor husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, stationed there in the Royal Navy. Her 3 1/2-month separation from her family was the longest yet. She landed at London Airport from Malta one-half hour after her children arrived in the Royal train which brought the King and Queen from Sandringham House. Prince Charles gleefully ran into his mother's outstretched arms as she walked in the door of Clarence House, their London home. In Malta, Princess Elizabeth joined other navy wives in the gay round of Christmas and New Year's parties, balls and dinners for which the naval base is famous. But even on vacation she had to attend dozens of duty functions, inspect military camps, visit hospitals and preside over charity functions. In December she made a semi-official visit to Greece, and last month she flew to Tripoli, North Africa, to inspect British troops. The vacation came to an end a few days ago when, with other officers' wives, she waved goodbye to her husband as he sailed on a Mediterranean cruise. The Duke of Edinburgh commands the frigate HMS Magpie, a ship of the British Mediterranean fleet.

ELLEN'S DIARY

When Autumn tinted the woodlands with its glory and kindled her flames in hedgerows, on lawns and fields and meadow, and the whole world about was fruited and mellow, "What of the Winter?" we mused. "What will the white months have to offer? . . . What changes bring?" And we saw the swallows and the robins gather their young, and the dark starlings with noisy chatter, to say "Au Revoir to the neighborhood— and it is true a piece of us followed these creatures of Nature as small wings they lifted and flew away from us, ever into the sunlight and summer skies of far places. Because the yards and fields which had been bright and full of their living, were suddenly empty and forlorn. Then at length came the vague call of the wild geese as they too, strange lovely birds, beat through a sky that was colder, winging in fascinating formation to some near or far milestone on their trek to the South.

Bowman - Sutherland Nuptials

Picture above following their marriage at 130th Hospital Station. Capt. and Mrs. Edwin D. Bowman, Mrs. G. Sutherland, daughter of Mrs. W. G. Sutherland and the former of Mrs. W. G. Sutherland and the latter Mrs. Sutherland, M.L.A., of Montague.

Household Scrapbook

By Roberta Lee
Guests
If you have over-night guests quite often, trying spending a night in the guest room to see how comfortable it is. In this way you will notice what could be added to make the guest more comfortable.

Better English

By B. C. Williams
1. What is wrong with this sentence? "Directly he entered the room, the man pled guilty."

ANSWERS

1. Sav. 'As soon as he entered the room, the man pleaded guilty.' 2. Pronounce both o's as in joke, accent second syllable. 3. Emigrant. 4. Wanting confidence in one's self; timid; modest. 'The servant opened the door with diffident courtesy.' 5. Prevalent.

A Woman's Work Is Never Done!

As an aftermath of announcement of clippers. Determined not to pay new price, termed "outrage" by many. Mrs. V. Maletie has turned barber for son Wilfred. Proof positive that days of "shave and haircut for two bits" are long since dead.

Advertisement for SALADA TEA BAGS, featuring a woman's face and the text: "After all is said and done, how does it taste in the cup? That is what counts! 'SALADA' TEA BAGS yield the perfect flavor."

That Body Of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.
CANCER OF THE TONGUE
When a small sore occurs on tongue, little is thought of it unless it becomes painful or increases in size. As some of these sores cause little or no pain, it may remain for weeks and unless a little lump occurs in the neck (enlarged gland), the physician is not consulted. What may fail to realize is that a sore that does not heal may be malignant (cancer). As in every form of cancer, tongue cancer is curable if early treatment is given.

Cook's Corner

STUFFED ENGLISH GRAPES
Wash, and cut in halves crosswise the dark English grapes; remove seeds; put between the halves about 1/4 or 1/2 teaspoon cream cheese, cut in a little pad. Hold together with a toothpick. Serve in circle on small plate—about 10 to a serving—with small piece of fruit cake.

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee
Q. Isn't it considered bad manners and rude for a guest to refuse a drink when in the home of a friend?

The Stars Say

By Genevieve Remble
For Tomorrow
A SUDDEN turn in the wheel of fortune may come to the fore, with dramatic and dynamic climax to events and productive issues already in the "lap of the gods."

Day After Tomorrow

It might be as well to make it a day of relaxation, diversion, private pursuits and studies. It may be a period of reflection and meditation with a weighing in the balance of certain major culminations in which a probable change may demand serious consideration.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, may find this a period of a readjustment of affairs, with important issues up for the advisability of impending change, future security and long-term acceptance of responsibilities with a sense of duty, recognizing obligations, clearing the decks for progressive action. Refrain from looking basic factors too squarely in the face. As to details, leave re-arranging of schedules in accordance with coming developments.

How Can I

By Anne Aahley
Q. How can I clean tinware thoroughly?
A. Dampen a cloth and dip it into common soda; then rub the tinware thoroughly. Follow this by washing and wiping dry. This treatment will remove all stains.
Q. How can I make use of leftover bacon rinds?
A. Use them for flavoring various dishes, such as lima beans and dried peas, or for flavoring soups.
Q. How can I make the leaves of a rubber plant green and glossy?
A. Try putting a little sweet oil around the roots every few weeks.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

A Happy Home Domestic Situation Influences Every Other Facet Of Life

WE ALL recognize that the greatest blessing that can possibly come to any of us is a happy home life. If we have that, we have not only a perpetual source of joy, but also we have a compensation for whatever ill fortune may befall us. If we lack that, we have nothing, even though Lady Luck may have emptied all of her gewgaws into our laps. A palace is nothing but an abode of misery if it is filled with strife and quarreling. Marriage is a honeymoon if a man and woman fight like cat and dog. Children are poisoned in mind and body who grow up in an atmosphere that reeks with hate and gloom. Wealth and fame are but empty honors if there is none to share them with, no one to rejoice in our success.

WHY IS IT SO RARE?

All of this being true and all of us knowing it, how strange it is that so few people ever really honestly and intelligently try to make a happy home, and that happy homes are so rare that we point them out as objects of interest. Yet the secret of making a happy home is simplicity itself. It is merely to treat your husband or wife and children with the forbearance and courtesy you would show a casual stranger on whom you wished to make a good impression. That we do not do this, that we save for our own the rudeness, the boorishness, the tempers and the selfishness that we would not dream of visiting on anyone else, is one of life's great and unnecessary tragedies.

"HOME TRUTHS" CAUSE DISRUPTION

It is only in the home circle that the vicious practice of telling home truths prevails, and we say to each other the things that we know they would rather die than hear. Mr. Jones would be incapable of telling Mrs. Smith that he thought she had the intellect of a hen, but he doesn't hesitate to tell his wife that he considers her a fool. Mrs. Brown would never spoil Mr. Green's dinner by criticizing his table manners, but she never lets a meal pass without telling her husband what she thinks of a man who gorges his soup and uses a fork as if it were an agricultural implement. It is only our own families who tell us that our new hats are too young for us, or that we are getting too fat, or that we sing off key, that people laugh at us and not with us when we try to tell funny stories, or that while others might make a success of something we aspire to do, we haven't the ability to do it. It is only our own families who give us the inferiority complexes that are responsible for half of our failures. It is only our families who refuse to grant us any privacy and any individual liberty and who nag us until we are driven to leave home and go off among strangers to live in order to have any peace and freedom. And the curious thing is that we commit these sins against the people we really love and deliberately deprive ourselves of a happy family life, knowing it to be the greatest blessing in the world.

Morning Smile

Home-knitted
"Why the coat collar turned up, old man? It isn't cold."
To hide the home-knitted scarf that hides the home-knitted pillow that hides the home-knitted tie.

A Good Bet

A charitable woman noticed a poorly dressed man standing at a street corner near her home. Taking pity on him one morning, she pressed a dollar bill into his hand as she passed, whispering "Never Despair." The next day she passed by again, and he stopped her and handed her $9. "What does this mean?" she asked. To which he replied, "It means, ma'am, that 'Never Despair' won in the third race at 8 to 1!"

-Needlecraft-

Advertisement for Needlecraft, featuring a woman in a dress and the text: "FOR THE HOME - CLASSROOM CASUAL - Perfect choice for the classroom—a casual chamer using side panels to point the way down to deep hip pockets! Try plaid — with perky pique collar and cuffs for a light touch. No. 3085 is cut in sizes 8, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 8, 1 1/4 yards, 84-inch, 3/4 yard 35-inch contrasting. Send 25c for each PATTERN which includes a complete sewing guide. Print Your Name, Address and Style Number plainly. Be sure to state also you want. Include postal unit, or zone number in your address. Address: Pattern Department The Charlotte-Town Guardian, Pattern No. 3085."

Advertisement for DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS, featuring a woman's face and the text: "NOW—She's Got Exciting ZIP and GLOW...and Plenty of Beauty. Don't envy her cheeks—make yours healthy! Make it yours the way Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an enriching your blood stream, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills may bring you new pep, energy, joy in life—Get back 'in the pink' with DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS."