Busy Committee Schedule Facing MPs This Week

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—One of the heaviest schedules of parliamentary committee meetings on record is shaping up for this week and there is every indication tempers will be short.

The difficulty facing the committee clerks, party whips and MPs generally is sorting out the schedule so everyone can be where he wants to be, when he wants to be there.

The situation would seem on the surface to be one of mathematical simplicity. There are 265 MPs and 15 committees. As many as seven can meet simultaneously.

The fact, however, is that not all MPs are equally interested in committee work. The smaller parties in the Commons find the schedule more burdensome than the larger parties since they do not have much of a manpower pool to draw from.

But some MPs relish committee work. A few have special talents or special interests that encourage them to seek membership on several committees at a time.

WASTE TIME

The result is that large blocks of time are wasted waiting for committee sessions to get under way with a proper quorum.

Last Thursday, for instance, the railways, airlines and shipping committee of 26 members waited 45 minutes in the forenoon and another 40 minutes in the afternoon to gather together its quorum of 14 members.

Meanwhile top - level executives of Trans-Canada Air Lines waited patiently to get on with the testimony and back to their jobs at TCA headquarters in Montreal.

On Friday, the public accounts committee—one of the more diligent and least partisan of the parliamentary committees—waited 25 minutes for a quorum. The external affairs committee waited 20 minutes.

As one MP put it, the schedule leaves little time for MPs to do their normal office work. He said his stenographer reaches the office at 9 a.m. and he has only 30 minutes with her before he is due at a 9:30 a.m. committee meeting.

AT SAME TIME

The railways, airlines and shipping committee was meeting last week during the same hours as the railways, canals and telegraph lines committee—a seeming duplication of bodies that adds to confusion.

Douglas Fisher (NDP — Port Arthur) has developed in recent years as one of the more active members of the committee studying CNR and TCA affairs. But while TCA officials testified before the one committee, Mr. Fisher had to be at the other where he was sponsoring a private bill.

But when the CNR-TCA committee attempted to have the quorum reduced to 10 from 14, Mr. Fisher was there to object. He said the committee would have no trouble achieving a quorum of 14 this week while CNR President Donald Gordon and his aides are on the parliamentary hot seat for the annual review of the publicly-owned railway's affairs.

Commissioner To Advise On Voters List, Absentees

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — The proposed representation commissioner is to recommend to Parliament whether Canada should adopt a system of permanent voters' lists and absentee voting.

This electoral system is employed now in most Commonwealth countries but it will be several years before Canada's Parliament will have to make a decision on the commissioner's recommendations as a result of a bill given first reading in the Commons Monday.

The commissioner is to be a $25,000-a-year appointee of Parliament who is instructed to give precedence to drawing new boundaries for Parliament's electoral districts in accordance with the 1961 census.

The present target is to have this redistribution done by 1966 and within two years of that the commissioner is instructed to make his recommendations about permanent lists and absentee voting.

Voters' lists now are drawn up just before every federal election on the basis of a house-to-house canvass. The only absentees from a constituency now permitted to vote are members of the armed forces posted at places other than their place of ordinary residence.

CASTONGUAY FAVORED

The new post of representation commissioner is expected to go to Nelson Castonguay, chief electoral officer, who has been endorsed for the job by the government and opposition parties.

The commissioner is to be appointed by resolution of the House of Commons. Under the Representation Commissioner Act introduced Monday he also will wield many of the powers currently held by the chief electoral officer.

Redistribution, the commissioner's principal job, has been done up to now by a parliamentary committee. The government has proposed that the new commissioner co-ordinate 10 independent commissions, nominated jointly by the prime minister and leader of the opposition, to draft the changes of boundaries in the 10 provinces.

TO PREPARE MAPS

One section of the bill instructs him as soon as possible to prepare maps showing the distribution of population, for each province and alternative proposals for boundaries of electoral districts for the electoral boundaries commissions.

Since this is a wholly new system of redistribution for Canada, the legislation provides that the Commons elections committee review the legislation at the first parliamentary session after 1968.

The last parliamentary redistribution was made in 1952 on the basis of the 1951 census.

Opposition Peppers Gov't On Forgotten Pearson Date

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition MPs have peppered the government with questions about a news report that President Lyndon Johnson forgot he has a date next month with Prime Minister Pearson, and about presidential Press Secretary Pierre Salinger forgetting Mr. Pearson's title.

The Commons questions referred to a press conference in Washington Saturday at which Mr. Johnson listed the foreign visitors he will receive next month and Mr. Salinger's mention of "foreign minister Pearson" when he tried to correct the president's omission.

Marcel Lessard (SC—Lac-St Jean) first asked External Affairs Minister Paul Martin in French what steps the new Liberal government had taken to inform the United States there had been an election in Canada. Mr. Martin, replying in French, said that was well known.

"Will the minister so inform Pierre Salinger?" asked Paul Martineau (PC — Pontiac-Temiscaminque).

SAYS POST 'TEMPORARY'

George Muir (PC — Lisgar) asked whether it could be made clear that Mr. Pearson is serving as prime minister "only temporarily."

Mr. Martin replied:

"It was quite apparent that the new president regarded our prime minister as an important spokesman for matters relating to our two countries and for the peace of the world when he was the second head of government to be received by the new president."

Mr. Pearson conferred with Mr. Johnson in Washington after the Kennedy funeral on Nov. 25.

The prime minister was not in the Commons during the exchanges.

Russians Aim At More Goods

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Premier Khrushchev said here the use of artificial leather and other materials would make it possible to raise Soviet footwear production by 40 per cent by 1970.

"In increasing the production of consumer goods," he said in a major economic speech, "it is necessary at the same time to improve their quality, appearance and finish.

"We must no longer reconcile ourselves to our fabrics, footwear and other consumer goods, however durable, looking less smart than foreign goods," he added.

RAISE BREAD PRICES

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bread prices are being raised a cent a loaf by most major city bakeries, it was disclosed Tuesday. The price of a standard 15-ounce loaf was increased to 22 from 21 cents. Bakery spokesmen blame the increase on higher costs of bread ingredients, with labor costs a secondary factor.

SOUTH

♥ Q3
♦ AQ
♣ A94

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1♥	Pass	Pass	2♠
Pass	3♠	Pass	4♠

Opening lead — king of hearts.

The most interesting hands to play are those where the contract seems headed for defeat but where declarer, by skillful play, can salvage a vital trick and thus make the contract.

Take this hand, for example, where West cashes two hearts and shifts to the deuce of clubs. It is not easy to see how South can make four spades, even if all 52 cards are seen. He apparently has to lose a diamond and a club and go down one.

But, if he plays correctly, declarer can accomplish his mission and the opponents can do nothing to stop it.

South takes the club with the ace, plays a spade to the ace, and ruffs a heart. He then draws three rounds of trumps, at which point this is the position:

North

♦K5

West
♥KJ
♦J98

East
♠976
♥Q7
♦Q

South
♥AQ
♦94

Declarer now plays his last trump. West is forced to discard a club, while dummy and East each discard a diamond. Having compelled West to part with a club, South now capitalizes on the situation by leading a club to the king and returning the ten of hearts and discarding the nine of clubs on it.

West wins with the jack but must then lead a diamond from the K-J into South's A-Q. The result of this line of play is that South saves a diamond trick and makes the contract.

The recommended line of play is clearly correct — even if the bidding that West must have the king of diamonds and that a diamond finesse would fail, if attempted. Continuous trump leads render him helpless.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
