Humphrey Put Skates On Tow-Headed Boy

By JACK BRAUCKMANN—VANCOUVER (CP)— Twelve years ago, Pat Humphrey laced a pair of girl's skates on the feet of a pale, tow-headed, four-year-old boy and plunked him on the ice of the Vancouver Forum.

Visions of a whirling, leaping, rocketing dynamo named Dick Button had filled Mrs. Humphrey's mind since 1948—the year Button became Olympic champion and the year the tow-headed boy was born.

The visions were never so clear as on the day early this month when skating officials named her son Jay, 16, to represent his country in world competition.

This weekend Jay faces his greatest challenge—the world championships in Colorado Springs, Colo., where he will be going after the senior singles crown.

When Jay was on skates at four his policeman-father, Fred Humphrey, though his son was getting some early training for hockey, the sport Fred had played and loved as a boy.

BOTH WORKED

Fred and Pat had married in 1947, the year after Fred returned from a stint as an air force pilot and the year after Pat graduated in nursing from a Vancouver hospital.

They did not know then, nor for seven years, that their lives would revolve around their son's skating—that they would have to work opposite shifts for years so they could afford Jay's skating.

Competitive skating is one of the most expensive sports, with lessons at $10 an hour, skates at $75 a pair and hour after hour of ice time—not to mention the travelling, the clothing, the special music to skate to.

The Humphreys worked the opposite shifts so they could earn the needed money while one of them was home with Jay and his younger brother and sister.

Until he hit the national level, Jay won practically every competition entered. His last title coming when he grabbed the Canadian junior men's championship in 1963.

He finished third in 1964's national senior men's event and repeated in that spot this year in Calgary. But his free-skating wizardry earned him second place in that portion of the event in 1964 and this year he beat even Canadian champion Don Knight in free-skating.

FIGURES IMPROVING

All that separates the five-foot-six, 130-pound youngster from the country's highest figure-skating title is a matter of school figures—the intricate patterns which count for 60 per cent of a skater's competition mark. These figures are improving.

Last spring, he earned the Canadian Figure Skating Association's gold medal—the symbol of the eighth and most grueling test given members to evaluate their cumulative skating progress. He followed that up by winning the United States seventh and gold test medals during the summer.

Last weekend he finished sixth in the North American champion ship in Rochester, N.Y., skating against veterans in his first international competition.

Cobalt Irradiation Reported Of Value In Tonsils Cancer

TORONTO (CP)—Irradiation with cobalt appears to have significant value in curing cancer of the tonsils, both at the primary site of the cancer and where it has spread to lymph nodes.

This was the conclusion drawn from a report on 19 patients given here to the annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Radiologists by Dr. Herbert E. Brizel and Dr. Ralph M. Scott, both of the University of Louisville School of Medicine, Louisville, Ky.

"Until recently, irradiation and surgery had little to offer in advanced cases," Dr. Brizel said. There was high per centage of post-operative complications after radical surgery, he said, and radiation treatment could not be given in large enough doses to kill the cancer without damaging normal tissue.

Now with supervoltage radiation from high energy cobalt units readily available, successful treatment of tonsil cancers is greatly enhanced, he said.

All 19 patients treated in the Louisville study had advanced cancer and most were cancerous in several areas. They were treated with a cobalt 60 unit for six weeks.

Two Toronto radiologists told how x-ray studies of the knee with an opaque liquid injected into the joint to outline any abnormalities have helped doctors

The bidding:
South West North East
1♥ 4♣ 5♥ Dbls.

Opening lead—king of spades. It is hard to invent a new type of play in bridge, but this hand played in 1959 by the late Ralph Hirschberg, New York star, comes close to filling the bill.

Hirschberg got to five hearts doubled on the bidding of spades. West led the king of spades and then shifted to the nine of diamonds. East took the queen with the ace and returned a spade, ruffed in dummy with the deuce.

Having lost two tricks, Hirschberg had to win the rest to make the contract. It seemed positive that East, who had doubled five hearts, had all the missing trumps and that the contract would therefore have to go down one. However, Hirschberg accomplished the apparently impossible when he proceeded to make the contract.

At trick four he led the nine of hearts from dummy, East, realizing that South would finesse if he followed low, covered the ten to protect his sure trump trick.

Hirschberg won with the jack, led a diamond to the king, and ruffed a diamond. He then cashed three club tricks, ending in dummy, to bring about this position:

North ♠ 1069
South ♠ AK6

Hirschberg now led a diamond from dummy. East could not afford to ruff with the three, which would permit declarer to overruff with the six and trump a spade in dummy, so he ruffed with the seven.

Hirschberg overruffed with the king, trumped the queen of spades with the queen of hearts, and led another diamond from dummy. East, whose trump holding by now consisted of the 8-4 in front of South's A-4, was forced to ruff and watch his ironclad trump trick go down the drain.

12 Are Killed When Lightning Fires Dynamite

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—At least 12 persons were killed here when a lightning bolt exploded a dynamite deposit near the mouth of a tunnel being built to connect Rio's north and south zones. More than 30 persons were injured.

Another lightning bolt struck nearby during the same thunderstorm, killing a 17-year-old girl and injuring four more persons.

The dynamite blast sent tons of rock and debris tumbling down to cover the tunnel mouth. A fire department spokesman said 12 bodies had been recovered at the blast site but it would be hours or even days before it was known whether others perished in the blast and subsequent landslide.
