

16,945 Children Are Members Says Red Cross Commissioner

Red Cross, organized almost 100 years ago, was the inspiration of Henri Dunant, a Swiss Banker, who exemplified that Christ-like spirit of humanitarianism which is inherent in all of us, said Miss E. J. Arsenault, commissioner of the Red Cross in her annual report. He surely understood the parable of "The Good Samaritan" and proved to the world at large that he really was one. He moulded for us this International organization through which we can show our "love of neighbour", whether he be across the street, across the nation, or across the world.

At the end of every year, every proprietor of a business takes stock so that he may find out just how he stands in an organization such as the Red Cross, we must do likewise. What shall we employ as a yardstick to measure the effectiveness of what we are trying to accomplish? It seems to me we can do no better than to use the three objectives of the Red Cross as our measuring scale, and see how the activities of the Prince Edward Island Red Cross fit in to the overall picture. What are these three objectives? (1) To promote health. (2) To prevent disease. (3) To lessen suffering.

How is the Red Cross promoting health in this Province? First of all, through the 16,945 school children who are members of Junior Red Cross in 633 classrooms, and who have "Health, Service to Others, Citizenship, and International Understanding" as their aims. I think you will all agree that for a child there is a real educational value to membership in Junior Red Cross.

RED CROSS IDEALS
The ideals of Red Cross seem to make a deep impression on the young mind. If the spirit of "helping others", and the friendly relations between members of all races and creeds of this "largest in the world" youth organization could be projected more firmly into future adult life, it surely would go a long way towards correcting international mistrust evidenced in the world today.

To help the Juniors to carry out their motto "I Serve" in a concrete manner they have their "Handicapped Children's fund" which ideally they should support by "self denial", and by undertaking projects which develop leadership and responsibility in them. Through this Handicapped Children's Fund to which they contributed $1,567.28, and which was further augmented again this year by some $4,500.00 from the Charlottetown Rotary Club and the Masons of Montague, 202 children with different disabilities were given a measure of good health.

What can be more healthful than

Ontario Good Roads Ass'n Head Dreams Super Highway

TORONTO (CP)—It's the year 2001 and the scene is a six-lane superhighway in Ontario.

A powerful car rolls down a side road and stops beside a booth. The driver pays his toll fee and presents two cards to the guard on duty. One, from his garage, certifies his car passed the regular three-month check in top condition. The second, signed by a police official, attests the driver has passed his six-month motoring examination and is physically and mentally fit to drive.

Finally the guard checks the car's safety belts and the machine slips into the stream of 75-mile-an-hour traffic under the eye of a helicopter-borne traffic officer.

All this is the dream of Edgar Drew, president of the Ontario Good Roads Association. He outlined his highway of the future to 2,000 delegates attending the annual convention.

NO OBSTRUCTIONS
"Our trunk roads will be four or six lanes, with wide graded and sodded shoulder of at least 100 feet on either side. There will be no obstructions, such as poles or trees along this shoulder to menace a driver who loses control of his vehicle. Rather the wide shoulder will slow his progress to a smooth stop or enable him to return to the surfaced portion of the road."

"In the case that the driver does not succeed in regaining control of his car in this distance, there will be a thick, bushy, resilient hedge separating the shoulder from the opposite traffic which will slow his vehicle to a dead stop within 20 feet without harm to the occupants."

Censorship Of U.S. Radio, TV Ads Threatened

NEW YORK (AP)—Commissioner Robert E. Lee said Tuesday the Federal Communications Commission does not want to censor radio and TV advertising, but that the practices of "a few sharp operators" may force action by the United States Congress in this field.

In an address prepared for a meeting of the Radio and Television Executives Society, Lee emphasized that his criticism was directed only at a "short-sighted minority."
