Blanchard Corner

The question for this week has to be: Was Blanchard's first hockey game really hockey or was it tag-team wrestling on ice? Either way you look at it, Blanchard lost 6 to 4 to the Broad Street Sophomores.

Blanchard goaltender Dwight MacDonald was left alone in front of his net on many occasions because the defence kept forgetting which end to defend. George Nelson, Wayne Murphy, Steve McGirr, and James Campbell scored Blanchard's goals, while nobody cares who scored for the Sophomores. Meanwhile, the softball season has not yet ended at time of writing. The Blanchard Bomberettes are waiting out the typhoon season to play their championship game against Bernie #2. Here's hoping you score a big victory in your game, and here's hoping I score at the house party tonight. I'll be in the Superman costume.

By the way J.J., you will not find out who writes this column because: that's the way it is.
