Stolen Safe Found; Money Is Missing

—A large office safe that was stolen from the Jim Harris Texaco service station on Water Street West in Summerside, last December 19th was discovered yesterday afternoon only a short distance from where it was stolen by children playing on the waterfront. The safe, which contained between $300 and $400 in cash and cheques when it was stolen, was found lying in mud and ice at the foot of the concrete breakwater, about 200 yards west of the service station from where it was carried off in a light delivery truck on Sunday night, December 19th, while street lights were out as a result of strong winds. When found, the bottom part of the safe had been removed, along with all the money. But because of ice and mud in the upper portion it was not known if any of the cheques and papers were contained therein. It was thought that the safe may have been dumped in this location quite recently.

Principal Of Slemon Park School Speaks

—Squadron Leader Murray Shanks, principal of the Slemon Park school, last night addressed the Summerside Y's Men's Club as guest speaker at their regular weekly meeting in the Green Street Y Centre. He was introduced by the program chairman, Ys George Meikie. After congratulating the Y's Men on the excellent quality of the meal served by them, he entered into his topic for the evening, which was the educational system in force today, particularly regarding teacher training and qualifications. To stress the importance of his subject, he stated that over one fifth of the total population of Canada was engaged in education, either teaching, receiving instruction, or otherwise connected with it. He told the club that it was anticipated at the present rate of population increase and rate of teacher training, there would be a teacher shortage of 25,000 within five years. Pointing out the inadequacy of present teacher training, he mentioned that it consisted mainly of textbook study for far too short a time, with little or no actual classroom teaching experience to fit the would-be teacher for handling a group of children wisely. He maintained that as a result, teaching is not a profession, and very few make it a life time career with a resulting shortage of qualified instructors. In regard to teachers pay he mentioned that in comparison with a Canadian average of $2,500 per year, the Prince Edward Island average was $1,480. He went on to say that in the United States where teacher qualifications were raised, not lowered, students which had been short of student teachers were now crowded. He scored the lackadaisical attitude of taxpayers and parents toward the schools with the statement that some parents do not even know the name of their child's teacher, never visit the school, and actually give more care to their automobiles than to their children's education, which should be of paramount importance, along with their children's health. At the conclusion of his address, which was well received by the club, he was thanked by Y's Clarence Mercer. Under the heading of business Y's John Ellis brought the attention of the club to the coming radio auction. In regard to the Y's Men's sponsored hymn sing, he asked for volunteers to relieve those presently conducting it, as well as for volunteers to act as ushers. Y's Don Adams told the convention chairman for the Summerside club in connection with the Maritime regional convention being held this year in Saint John on May 21, 22 and 23. Y's George Kay read a letter from Jim Hogan of the Summerside Amateur Athletic Association, thanking the Summerside Y's Men for their part in sponsoring minor hockey in the town. An induction ceremony was held bringing two new members into the club, Y's Keith Hobson and Y's Don Baker. The induction team for the occasion consisted of Y's Bill Currie, Y's Clarence Linkletter and Y's Jim Murphy. Y's Lloyd Gorrill chaired the meeting with Y's Don Adams and Y's Harold Rodd filling the positions of song leader and time-keeper respectively. A report on attendance showed that three members absent, while stamps turned in at the last meeting amounted to 2,412. Present as a guest was Ken MacKenzie of Truro, N.S.

Arctic to study Eskimo art and culture. Another passenger, a department of transport employee, was identified as Sydney J. Sillett, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Sillett of Vancouver. The Eskimo woman was identified as Mrs. Hazel Hildesley. The plane left Churchill at 10 a.m. Tuesday. The flight to Enadale Lake, a northern weather station, normally takes from three to four hours. RCMP officials here said they believed if Sgt. Beaudin was able to make a safe landing all would be able to survive. All passengers had emergency flying equipment in addition to the standard winter-flying gear. The plane was equipped with skis. Temperatures in the barren lands area, inhabited by only a few scattered Eskimo bands, reached 49 degrees below zero overnight. Wednesday, fog and ice crystals prevented search planes from leaving the ground, but Thursday flying conditions were good. Six Dakotas, including four from Winnipeg and one each from Edmonton and Trenton, Ont., plus an RCAF Lancaster from Rockcliffe, Ont., and an Otter based at Churchill, were used. The Lancaster and a Dakota searched throughout Wednesday night hoping to sight flares from the downed plane.

Importance Of Forest Conservation Stressed

The importance of forests and the wood industry in the development of Canada and Prince Edward Island was stressed in the Legislature last night by Hon. E. P. Foley, minister without portfolio. Mr. Foley pointed out that the wood industry had grown to become the biggest in Canada. He stated there was a great need for the conservation and regeneration of forests and that unfortunately poor judgment had been used in this matter in the past. Speaking in the Draft Address debate, Mr. Foley noted that the main part of the industry was centered in Central Canada and British Columbia but that the economy of Prince Edward Island was geared to the economy of the other Canadian Provinces so that when the other Provinces prospered P. E. I. also prospered. "We in Canada have not the love of our country we should have and we have the best country of the world," commented Mr. Foley during a consideration of the educational problem. He stated that schools should instill a greater love for their country into the students and noted that the United States was further ahead in this regard. He commended the Minister of Education on his report and noted that progress along educational lines was being made in the Province. (Continued from page 1)

Death Yesterday

—A vigorous and effective leader, Mr. Monaghan gave towards the building of the Western Hospital at Amherst, was an outstanding incident in his parochial life there and will long be remembered with gratitude by the people of West Prince. He was particularly successful in organizing a Dramatic Club while at Seven Mile Bay which provided entertainment for young and old for several seasons. He was equally at home with the most advanced farmers of his parish and frequently was called upon to speak with authority on matters of particular interest to rural life. Surviving relatives are one brother, John, residing in Summerside and three sisters, Mrs. John L. Duffy, Toronto and two unmarried sisters, Maria and Margaret, residing in Montreal. The remains of the late Father Monaghan will be transferred to St. Dunstan's Basilica this afternoon at 4 o'clock and lie in state, Pontifical Requiem Mass by His Excellency, Most Reverend Malcolm A. Farm Problems

Along with the small quantity of smelts caught the price is very low and as told the drop in price was caused by Japanese smelts coming into the Boston market in refrigerator boats and underselling our smelts. The loss of the smelt fishing industry is a great blow to our fishermen especially as it provided revenue in the winter time when no other fish were being caught.
