

Lost flesh lately?
Does your brain tire?
Losing control over your nerves?

Are your muscles becoming exhausted?

You certainly know the remedy. It is nothing new; just the same remedy that has been curing these cases of thinness and paleness for twenty-five years. Scott's Emulsion. The cod-liver oil in it is the food that makes the flesh, and the hypophosphites give tone to the nerves.

For the Children.

One of my dear little tots has never seen some of her relations. She is just beginning to talk; so the other evening I proposed she should include in her prayers some mention of her uncles and aunts whom she had never seen. She demurred. I asked: "Why not?" She replied, "Well, the fact of the matter is, papa, I object to odds and ends of people being mixed up in my prayers with papa and mamma."

Some children were trespassing in a field the other day, and were quite happy gathering flowers—when a keeper came up shouting angrily, "Now, then, what business have you to be in here? Didn't you see the notice at the gate?" Oh, yes, please Sir," answered one little lassie timidly. "We saw a notice, but it had "Private" on it, so we didn't like to look!"

"Stop, Bessie! What are you pounding little brother for?" "Because, mamma, he's sure to do something he oughtn't to in about ten minutes."

Two boys had been on a trip to the seaside and were on their way home, when one noticed that his companion was carrying a bottle half filled with sea-water. "Why, what ave yer got there, Bill?" he asked. "Well, yer see," was the reply, "my mother hasn't seen t' sea, so I thought I'd take her a drop." "But," said the first, "while yer were doing it, why didn't yer take a full bottle?" "Not me! What should I ha' done when t' tide began a-raising and broke th' bottle!"

A teacher in a Board school was recently examining a class of small boys in mental arithmetic. She said:—"If your father gave your mother thirty shillings to-day and two pounds to-morrow, what would she have?" And a small boy, near the bottom of the class, replied:—"She would have a fit!"

An amusing story, illustrating the difference between men's tastes in regard to eggs, is told in connection with a clerical breakfast party given by Bishop Thirlwall. The meal had proceeded successfully up to a certain point, when it was perceived that there was a subdued commotion among the guests. "Ahem!" said the Bishop, "there's a very odd smell in the room, I think." "My egg, my lord!" said an abject-looking curate at the other end of the table. "Ah," said his reverend host, turning to a servant, "take that gentleman's egg away; it is a bad one." "Oh, no, my lord!" exclaimed the self-abasing curate, continuing his repast; "it is good enough for me!" The Bishop's answer is not recorded, but we presume he asked the curate in his politest tones to step outside and finish his egg at the far end of the garden.

Fred: "And what do you think of my argument, Will?"
Will: "Sound—most certainly sound."
Fred: "And what else?"
Will: "Nothing else—merely sound."—Tid-Bits.

Drugs are expensive. Sometimes they are more expensive than need be. And sometimes they are not so reliable as they ought to be.

There was a time when the prices of drugs were away up—too high altogether.

That is not the case now. The Apothecaries Hall changed that some time ago.

You can get prescriptions from pure drugs at the proper prices—no fancy profits.

You can get all my reliable special remedies; they've been tried and found effective.

The price—the main thing—will be found right in every case.

SUCCESSFUL LAWN PARTY.

The residence of Mr. James Cruwys was the scene of the annual lawn party and gathering of the families on the 31st August. About forty of the relatives and several friends attended, and all seemed to enjoy themselves. During the afternoon various games were indulged in. There were swings and hammocks for the children, base ball, lawn tennis, croquet, etc., for the middle-aged, while the older ones held a love feast and talked over olden times. An orchestra rendered excellent music during the evening, with vocal selections interspersed.

An elaborate tea was spread on the lawn about six o'clock, to which ever one did ample justice.

Several group photographs were taken, including a large one of the party.

Among those present were Mrs. Wm. Ward, of Kingston; Miss Esther Clow, North Wiltshire; Mrs. David Irving, Brockton Mass; Mr. Wm. D. Taddon, Providence, R. I.

The front of the house and lawn were artistically decorated with choice flowers and evergreens, and these, with the group of children moving about, made a very picturesque scene.

Again after supper more games were indulged in until a late hour when the last of the many makers took their leave. Everyone voted it the most successful party ever undertaken by the family.
