older than myself. Do you think we can be happy together? He is nice in every way, only a bit of a drinker and other women. Do you think he will change after we are married? He says he loves me and will be a good husband.

A. S.

ANSWER: Your matrimonial prospects certainly don't indicate too rosy a future. The difference in age between you and your fiancé is in itself no great barrier, but this, his fondness of drinking and his flirtatious inclinations add up to a bad combination. If he loves you very much, he might change for you, but such changes are rare indeed!

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a boy of 16. Last year I took a girl to a dance at my school. She was two years younger than I and her mother was very nice to let her go. This year, I would like to take someone else but don't want to hurt the feelings of the other girl or her mother. Would I be rude to do so?

ERNIE

ANSWER: The fact that you took a girl to a dance once doesn't obligate you to take her every year. Go ahead, invite the second girl and I'm sure there will be no hard feelings. It's much wiser for you to change dates, anyway. Go ahead with your invitation and have a good time!

DOROTHY DIX cannot reply personally to readers but will answer problems of general interest through her column.

Enjoyable Xmas Play Staged By Students

In this play the art of giving was stressed rather than the art of receiving. Two Christmas carols were sung by the Glee Club; a vocal solo, "Holy Night" by Merle Elderkin; and "Away in a Manger" was sung by Margaret Shaw. Mr. G. Chaisson, instructor of music at the High School, was the accompanist.
