Planning for your future work is not easy in today's world. Labour market conditions and educational and training requirements for jobs are continually changing. Despite this continual swift change, there remains one certainty - work will continue to make up a major portion of your life. The resulting educational and career CHOICES you make now will thus affect every aspect of your future.

Effective career decision making requirements taking a realistic, hard look at yourself, the type of work and education and training available and then arriving at an appropriate match. To make it less difficult the Canadian Employment Centre-on Campus has available for your use a computerized career and education information system called CHOICES.

CHOICES consists of three main files of data: Occupations which lets you explore, examine or find related occupations; Education and Training file which contains information on school programmes; and Linkage File which provides lists of occupations typically entered by graduates of a programme of study.

For further information about CHOICES contact Elaine Sobey at your Canada Employment Centre - on Campus - Robertson Library.
