

THREE HAPPY PEOPLE!
The success of the recent Portrait to Fashion of the annual Parade of Spring Fashions was very much due to the great ability and efforts of Mrs. Douglas Hill, and Mrs. Harry Sear, Jr., conveners, and Mrs. Donald Macmillan, convener of the clothes committee. These young women worked indefatigably and achieved a fashion triumph. Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Sear and Mrs. Macmillan are shown seated in the livingroom at Mrs. Sear's residence, Fitzroy Street.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Hope "Rises Eternal" In Hearts At Springtime

Around the fire, with Mr. C. our company this evening, the talk went back to those years that were young. We brought the chatting toward a close with a lunch of toast and apply jelly, cookies and tea after which another pipe of neighborliness was smoked before the parting. Mr. C. to his house on the hill, James then to forty winks on the couch. But not before lights brightened in that house across the valley in token of the former's safe homing, for walking as well as motoring has its hazards, especially after dark and along dim paths. "There'll be no more sawing at the mill", James commented when lights — out at the barns brought the pair indoors. "I reckon not" agreed Mr. C. "At any rate, the saw is gone." "Yes" James said, "I saw it go." "Oh well, with things as they are — help hard to get and..." "I know" James nodded. "And we've reached years where we can't take too much 'hard sledding' — and sawing's not the easiest work in the world..." But I was just telling Ellen today that for as far back as my memory goes — until last Spring, there was always sawing done at this mill. I remember my father saying when I was a little lad that when the mills were theirs, that sometimes in the rush of the season they kept the saw operating day and night. That would be the old 'up and down' saw", he nodded. "They could out through the great logs of the old growth — we can see the boards and planks in the older barns yet... wide, they are. Yes, always the sound of the saw-

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..
Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on "nerves"—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better.
