

November Wedding Ceremony

Pictured above are Mr. and Mrs. George J. Ghiz (center) with their attendants (left) Mr. Joseph Jabour, best man, and (right) Miss Helen Tawell who was bridesmaid for her sister at the wedding ceremony which took place Nov. 9 at St. Peter's Cathedral. Canon G. E. Moffatt officiated.

Queen's Lady-In-Waiting Includes Sand Gold, Navy, In Wardrobe

By Muriel Narraway
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON, (CP)—Some 26 gowns designed by Angela Delanghe, resident couturier at a west end store controlled by Canada's Garfield Weston, Fortnum and Mason went into the wardrobe trunks of Lady Alice Egerton, the Queen's lady-in-waiting on her round-the-world tour.

Flame red and purple, sand gold, navy and cool floral prints were chosen by this elegant slender woman, so often seen walking behind the Queen.

"Many points must be remembered in the choice and fitting of such gowns," Miss Delanghe said in an interview. Colors and styles must always be less noticeable than those worn by the Queen. It is also important that all outfits look as well behind as they do in front and for such a long tour they must be almost uncrushable.

Simple Evening Gown

All these points were kept in mind when Miss Delanghe designed a simple, flowing floral print evening gown with apple-green background. It has a simple neckline and even the poses of matching flowers played across the skirt from waist to hem are crease-resistant. Each petal is made from the dress material and hand-stitched so that even if the flowers are crushed they still look well.

Lady Egerton picked more than one strapless gown from Miss Delanghe's fashion collection — but tradition demands that straps be added. These range from narrow cording to two-inch widths.

Her brightest ball gown is a flame red chantilly lace semi-crimoline with simple, clinging lines and wide hem. An intriguing point is the deep fringe of matching suede velvet that fringes and weighs the skirt two-thirds of the way round. The centre back skirt is all lace, making a perfect train.

Lady Egerton has also packed three of her Coronation gowns, including a shaded purple crinoline made from 75 yards of fine ruffled nylon tulle studded with brilliants.

Informality Stressed

Most of her gowns, however, are simple. When the tour was planned, the Queen insisted that the accent on dress for all but the biggest state balls should be informal. Dinner jacket and evening suit will not be essential on most occasions and for royal garden parties the rule is "wear what you please."

Lady Egerton finds, however, that formality in her dress is best. She has packed only one cotton style. Most of her gowns are in the light-weight French and Swiss materials favored by the Belgian-born couturier.

An embroidered Swiss lawn in black and white has been chosen for a cocktail dress with Eton jacket. A rich brown embroidered lawn with applied seams and shoulder-wide "V" neckline makes a garden party number, elegant in contrast to the pastel shades the Queen favors for such occasions.

Lady Egerton has chosen much navy including a pure wool coat dress with long sleeves, slim lines and skirt fullness swinging from all-round inverted pleats that start low on the hip. Two or three wool outfits have been included.

That Body Of Yours

By James W. Harris, M.D.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE WITHOUT SYMPTOMS NOT USUALLY DANGEROUS

Because there are so many deaths due to heart stroke (coronary thrombosis) and brain stroke (apoplexy, cerebral haemorrhage), and high blood pressure is recognized as the immediate cause, many men and women visiting their physicians ask to have their blood pressure tested. Their physician may tell them that recent investigation has shown that blood pressure formerly thought to be high enough to reject an applicant for life insurance is not usually serious if it is not "always" high (that is, high on more than one examination) and unless it is accompanied by symptoms such as constant headache, pain in chest, and shortness of breath.

In Postgraduate Medicine, Drs. Arthur M. Master and Harry L. Jaffe, Mount Sinai Hospital, New York, N. Y., in describing the new figures for normal blood pressure, state:

In 1950, Drs. Master, Dublin and Marks published their observations on the blood pressure of 74,000 persons from 15 to 64 years of age who were in average good health and who worked in industrial plants throughout the country during World War II. For years the average normal blood pressure have been set at 150 systolic and about 90 diastolic. From these observa-

Continued on page 9

Wed In Kensington

Above are the principals of a pretty wedding at the United Church Manse in Kensington on October 28, when Marjorie Alice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Smith, of Preetown, and James Leland Ingles, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Ingles, of Kensington, were united in marriage. From left to right are: Mr. Elmer Cole, groomsmen; Mr. and Mrs. Ingles, Miss Phyllis Taylor, bridesmaid. (Photo by Sears)

Bears-Newsom Wedding In Charlottetown

Mr. and Mrs. Wendall T. Bears and their attendants

A pretty wedding took place at the United Baptist Church, Charlottetown on September 23, at 3:30 p.m. when Freda Maye, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Leonard Newsom, York, exchanged marriage vows with Wendall Thomas, adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Bears, Montague.

Rev James D. Davison, B.A.B.D., assisted by Rev. J. M. Sproutle performed the double ring ceremony. Strains of the wedding march were played by Mr. Royston Muford A.R.C.O. at the organ, and who also played appropriate music during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor-length wedding gown of white nylon net over satin.

The fitted bodice was of imported French lace, trimmed with seed pearls and rhinestones. The full-length sleeves were also of lace, and tapered to a point at the wrists. Her floor-length veil of nylon net fell from a coronet of seed pearls. Her only ornament were rhinestone earrings, the gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of Better Time Roses.

Miss Velda Green, cousin of the bride, as maid of honour, wore a bouquet of white gladioli.

Phyllis and Gloria, sisters of the bride, were flower girls, wearing matched dress of yellow and blue net over taffeta with a tulle of matched flowers, and carried a bouquet of mixed flowers. Mr. Rees Newsom, brother of the bride acted as best man. The usher was Mr. Alton Green.

Mrs. Newsom choose for her daughter's wedding a navy sheer dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

A reception for 75 guests was held at the home of the bride, while a decorated three tier wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and groom centered the table.

Assisted in serving were: The Misses Shirley Newsom, Edna Colwill, Elsie MacDonald, Sylvia Carver, Mrs. Kenneth MacDonald and Mrs. Clifford Chappell.

Amid showers of confetti the couple left on a short honeymoon trip through the Maritimes. For traveling the bride wore a powder blue suit, with white accessories. The couple will reside in Centralia, Ont., where the groom is serving with the R. C. A. F.

Prior to her marriage the bride was on the staff at both the Falconwood and P. E. I. Hospitals and previous to her marriage the bride was tendered a miscellaneous shower by her many friends and neighbours in York and vicinity.

ELLEN'S DIARY

By An Island Farmer's Wife

"Yes," the Mallman nodded, "for Maisie, that trip was you might say, a dream come true."

Maisie is the one woman in his life, the kind and much respected mother of their large family, of whom all but one married son have flown from the shelter of the home nest, to marry and establish Island homes of their own. Except too the boy whose dust lies beside that of other fallen comrades of World War II in a strange land overseas.

The Mallman is a tall man and spare, industrious as must be those who combine farming with another calling. For forty years now, maybe a bit more or less, he has farmed and driven mail, through the heat of mid-summer suns the snows and frosts of winter's. In this lengthy interval he has naturally witnessed many a change in the farmsteads which lie along his route—older folks have gone the way of all flesh, younger too sometimes, in untimely passings. Children have grown up and gone to their own fortunes and been replaced by new generations. But none went or none remained that the Mallman did not know personally. "I like to meet the little ones," he will say, "I like to know them all by name."

His wife—the mother of the large family, what is she like? "Tell us about your mother," we recall asking a girl we knew in our school-teaching years, one who had changed to mention lovingly her name.

She considered the words with some bewilderment. "Why," she replied, "there's not much I can tell you about her... she's... well, to tell you the truth, I never considered her as I might another woman, because she's," she chuckled, "just mother!"

This mother is a womanly woman, smallish, neat, in her girlhood convent-taught. She selects and wears her attire well. Mostly in her western years, which becomes her fair coloring; with accents of white to make her as modish as when sometime back in the spring of the century, she returned with husband and a pair of small ones

Exchange Vows

Photographed following their wedding at the Church of the Immaculate Conception at the Brae, on October 28, are Edith McArthur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murdow McArthur, of Coleman, and John Stephen Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Murphy, of Alberton. Mr. and Mrs. Murphy will reside at Alberton. (Photo by Sears) from their first home in a bustling city of The States, to become mistress of an Island farm.

"It's a funny thing how items sometimes piece themselves together," the Mallman continued. "You know," he twinkled, "the wife had other admirers besides me, in her day... Pretty as a picture she was—as a girl—yes, sir pretty as a picture. Blue eyes, fair hair. Not that to me she has changed much since though the years have silvered the gold."

"There was a lad who courted

Continued on page 9

The Stars Say - -

By Genevieve Kemble

For Tomorrow

ON this day the moon enters Leo which augurs well for entertaining, parties, social functions of every type. This influence encourages new friendships and is extremely propitious for family gatherings and congenial companionship with friends.

If it is necessary for you to conduct business negotiations tomorrow, remember that this period is better for planning and for discussion than it is for taking positive action. To achieve the maximum in results, seek the cooperation of others. It will be forthcoming under present friendly influences.

For the Birthday

If tomorrow is your birthday, you may find it necessary during the coming months to change the pattern of your personal life because of national or international situations. This does not necessarily mean a complete upheaval of your personal life but it does mean that if you are alert to world-wide conditions and outside interests gen-

Morning Smile

The door-to-door salesman stared doubtfully at the formidable-looking animal lying on the step. "What breed is your dog?" he asked the little old lady.

"I don't quite know," she said. "My brother sent it to me from Africa."

"Well," said the salesman, hesitatingly, "it's the queerest dog I've ever seen."

The old lady nodded in agreement and said: "You should have seen it before I cut its mane off."

erally your eyes may open to opportunities undreamed of, which lie before you. Taking advantage of them could change your entire future.

You may find yourself experiencing some tension right now, but this restrictive period should end within a month. Try to remain calm while the stress conditions prevail and, if at all possible, take a short trip. A change of scene will do you a great deal of good. Romantic and cultural interests are undimmed good aspects.

A child born on this day will be frank, sensitive and intensely loyal.

How Can I

By Anna Ashley

Q. How can I keep bath towels separate when there are several members in the family?

A. By attaching each towel to a spring clothespin. These clothespins can be made attractive by enameling each one a different color. The initials of each person can also be placed on them.

Q. How can I keep the meringue of a pie from sticking to the knife?

A. Wet the knife in cold water before attempting to cut a meringue pie, and in this way you will prevent the meringue from sticking or peeling off.

Q. How can I give a smooth surface to sticky iron?

A. Rusty, sticky or rough iron can be smoothed to a fine glass finish if they are rubbed with salt and a piece of crinkled paper.

Q. How can I rid the sewing machine and other machinery of dust and lint?

A. A good method for this purpose is the use of a bicycle or automobile pump.

Better English

By D. G. Williams

1. What is wrong with this sentence? "Your assertions are contrary with reason."
2. What is the correct pronunciation of "alienate"?
3. Which one of these words is misspelled? Disadvantageous, diffidence, discrimination, dilemmas.
4. What does the word "objurcation" mean?
5. What is a word beginning with an "a" that means "to destroy the existence of"?

ANSWERS

1. Say, "are contrary to reason."
2. Pronounce al-yen-at, both a's as in ate, e as in men unstressed, accent first syllable.
3. Dilemma.
4. Reproof. "It was an imperial objurcation that brought fear to the king's subjects."
5. Annihilate.

DOROTHY DIX'S COLUMN—

Foolish Worry

Expectant Mother, Wed To Divorced Man, Reproaches Herself, Though Blameless

DEAR MISS DIX: Six months ago I married a divorced man. I had nothing to do with breaking up his home, since he had been divorced for some time before we met. He had no children. Now we are expecting a baby, and everything should be very joyous for us. He's a wonderful husband, devoted and considerate. My difficulty is that I feel guilty being married to a divorced man. I keep thinking that if I had not come into the picture he and his wife might have been reconciled.

I don't know whether or not to give him up now. He insists I'm being foolish, that there never was a real love between his wife and him, that his love for me is the real thing, etc. But I just can't be convinced. Incidentally, they had been married three years.

CONDITIONS FRAUGHT WITH MISGIVING

ANSWER: Your emotional stress probably all revolves around your pregnancy. It is a time when many women experience doubts and uncertainties even when there's no ground for them. Then, you have the added aggravation of being a second wife, which is another condition almost always fraught with misgivings. To top it all off with a guilt complex is putting a tremendous strain on your morale. Since you had nothing to do with

Continued on page 9

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. Is it proper, when issuing invitations to a bridal shower, to invite any persons who are not invited to the wedding itself?

A. This would depend upon the size of the wedding. If it is to be a large one, with a good number of guests, then it would be exceedingly tactless to expect any persons left off the wedding invitation list to bring gifts to a shower on the bride-elect.

Q. Is it proper to take a spoonful of ice cream at the table, and then take this into the mouth by degrees?

A. Never. Take just enough ice cream on the spoon as you can comfortably take into your mouth. Q. If one has not understood the name of a person to whom one has been introduced, what should be said?

A. It is in order to say, "I'm sorry; I did not quite understand the name."

Sheerer by Contrast

Phanto-genic Heel

Ordinary Heel

the new fashion idea

Phanto-genic HEEL

by Phantom

Another "exclusive" from Phantom

the new Phanto-genic darker-tone heel to make your stockings sheerer by contrast beautiful 60 gauge... you must see them!

GREEN TOMATO MINCE MEAT

- 1 peck green tomatoes (through food chopper)
- Cover with boiling water and drain 3 times.
- Then add:
- 1 cup vinegar
- 1 cup butter
- 4 lbs. brown sugar
- 2 lbs. seeded raisins
- 1 teaspoon spice, nutmeg, cloves
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon salt (or more to taste)
- Boil all together 1 1/2 hours.

Brackley Point W. I.