

YOU WOULD THINK that the Clancy Brothers and Tommy Makem had seen enough of snow after they had been grounded in Montreal and were unable to be in Charlottetown for their concert, Friday night but the jolly foursome from Ireland didn't let it show if it did. Ireland's foremost folksingers, FROM THE LEFT, Petty, Tommy and Liam Clancy, and Tommy Makem clown around in the snow prior to their concert at the Provincial Vocational Institute last night. The concert was the feature performance at this year's St. Dunstan's Winter Carnival.

Audience Enraptured By Irish Folksingers

By RICHARD WHITLOCK

From the time that they ran onto stage until they had disappeared in the same manner after three encores and a standing ovation, the Clancy Brothers and Tommy Makem, Ireland's most renowned folksingers, kept an overflowing audience of approximately 1,400 at the Provincial Vocational Institute in a state of constant rapture.

The Clancys and Tommy Makem, the feature attraction at this year's St. Dunstan's Winter Carnival, were scheduled to perform Friday evening but were grounded in Montreal due to poor weather and their performance was postponed until tonight.

From their opening number of "The Wild Colonial Boy," a rousing ballad about an outlaw to Tommy Makem's humorous but soft solo, "Dick Darby, an Irish Cobbler," the Clancys and Tommy Makem displayed the versatility which earned them the position of one of the world's greatest folk quartet.

WIDE VARIETY

The program chosen for last night's concert was typically one which has led these performers to the heights which they stand throughout the world today. The topics of their songs ranged from the bold IRA Irish resistance group against the British, to the light-sided humor found in singing about Irish Whiskey, a song that seemed most popular with the audience.

The audience, as they discovered much to their delight, did not attend the concert just to listen and enjoy the antics of the Clancys and Tommy Makem. Before the night was through they had the audience into the thick of things. Not as other

Entire Music Festival Scheduled For Centre

SUMMERSIDE — Charlotte-town's Music Festival this year will be held in the Confederation Centre from start to finish.

Fire Guts House On McEwen Rd.

SUMMERSIDE — Fire gutted the home of Austin Adams, McEwen Road, at 5 a.m. Sunday morning. No one was injured in the blaze which caused damage estimated at $2,000. The home was partly covered by insurance.

The Summerside Fire Department was called to the scene. Cause of the fire was an overheated space heater.

Firemen Called On False Alarm

The Charlottetown Fire Department was called to Spring Park School at 1:30 this morning. Reason for the call was a false alarm.

The area where a line was reported out.

The City Police reported that the Bill Marie snack bar on Spring Park Road lost its front window when a large sign came crashing down. No one was reported injured.

The Charlottetown Radio range last night reported winds of 65 m.p.h. gusting to 85 and 90 with earlier gusts as high as 100 miles per hour.

There was mixed precipitation of rain, snow and drizzle.

TEACHERS PLEASED

The festival association was told of the music teachers' pleasure at being able to study the music before ordering it, and this because the association has placed copies of the music in the Summerside and Charlottetown libraries. It was decided that next year the association would purchase two complete sets to put on display, as this year some numbers were missing.

It was announced that the final date for entries to be in Feb. 5. The entry forms are available from anyone of the three secretaries mentioned in the syllabus.

First Baptist Church Activity 'Flourishing,' Reports Show

Reports presented at the annual meeting of the First Baptist Church of Charlottetown, held last week, indicated that most phases of the church's activities were in a very flourishing condition, however, the Pastor, Rev. Malcolm Harlow, while commending in his report the various officers and groups, suggested that it would be unwise to adopt an attitude of complacency but rather that it would be well for the congregation to "examine its sense of direction."

The report of the clerk, presented by Mrs. Windsor Brehaut, showed a total resident membership of 598. There had been a loss of 35 through death and removal from the community and a gain of 30 through baptism and transfer from other areas.

The report of the Board of Christian Education was presented by Mrs. Athol Roberts who with Rev. Ross Howard is co-chairman. The report revealed some marked advances including the establishment of a library for church leaders, active and prospective, and the making available of books and periodicals for the congregation, the development of the audio-visual program, the establishment of a drama group and the development of a comprehensive camping program in connection with the church's camp at Rice Point.

Blizzard Hits Prince County

ALBERTON — A blinding blizzard struck Western Prince County about eight o'clock last night and in a short time almost zero visibility brought all motor traffic to a standstill.

Strong easterly winds resulted in severe drifting which soon blocked high cuttings caused by Friday's storm.

Snow plows were unable to continue operating and were called in except for emergency runs.

A 20-minute power failure occurred in some areas shortly after nine o'clock.

53 Ways to Entertain Once

This bachelor says it takes 53 "distinct acts of body and mind, ranging from laying a fire to putting out the silver, to prepare a meal for three guests." He tells how he managed to tick each item of the list—almost... and why, if nothing else, "at least I'll be a better guest." Don't miss your February Reader's Digest.

A MAJOR DIFFERENCE

Poverty Is News Today, Welfare Agency Is Told

SUMMERSIDE — At the annual meeting of the Prince County Welfare Agency here on Sunday, guest speaker F. R. MacKinnon, M.S.W., deputy minister of welfare for Nova Scotia, spoke on the topic: "The role of the social agency today and in the 70's."

Mr. MacKinnon said that the major difference in poverty today as contrasted to 25 years ago is that today poverty is "news" whereas "it was not news when I grew up during the 20's and the hungry 30's."

"The happiest omen of the past 10 or 15 years is the developing community conscience on behalf of the underprivileged and the disadvantaged... this is the brightest hope in the world around us at the moment."

Mr. MacKinnon said it is only within the last few years that we have begun to ask ourselves what we should do about poverty, and what are the reasons for poverty.

And when we ask these questions we immediately expose the depths of our ignorance and our lack of knowledge of human beings and human behavior," he said.

"The physical science has been exalted," said the speaker, "and the social sciences neglected to the point where we may destroy ourselves. There are a multitude of questions which our social science cannot answer, questions having to do with both the individual and the community, such as: why does one boy get into trouble repeatedly and have to be sent to a training school while another reforms and becomes a good citizen? Why have some communities lost their pride, their get up and go and their sense of identity and mission?" Mr. MacKinnon emphasized the danger of pat answers to these questions.

But in answer to the question of what a social agency can do about social ills, Mr. MacKinnon made some important points: a social agency should be dedicated to prevention of such ills, to getting at the source of the problem; it should be committed to abolish poverty; it should make an effort to improve housing; it should be dedicated to the education of everyone to the maximum of his ability; it must seek some solution to the problem of unemployment and take a new look at the importance of recreation.

The basic requirements of a social agency are a qualified staff of workers and a sufficient number of them to do the job," said the deputy minister, "since how aid is given often spells the difference between a dole and a constructive program of rehabilitation."

Directors Named

Russell Phaneuf gave the nominating committee's report, nominating Eldon Hickey, Summerside; Clarence Doyle, Summerside; Albert Noonan, Alberton; Leonard MacLellan, New Anson, and St. Clair Duffy, Kinkora, to the board of directors for the next three years.

Rev. Grant Walls, president of the Summerside Ministerial Association, and Hon. Hubert B. MacNeill, minister of health, addressed the meeting briefly.

Vehicles Collide At Sherbrooke

SUMMERSIDE — At Sherbrooke about 8.30 Saturday evening, according to a police report, a 1966 Ford driven by Daniel Joseph MacNeill, Summerside, was in collision with a 1960 Pontiac driven by Keith Carson Dawson, Tyne Valley. A total of $950 was the damage estimate. There were no injuries.
