

Canadian Abortions

THE PROBLEMS

Is abortion the real answer to the problems of the unwanted, socially undesirable or defective child? Is it the honest answer to the overburdened mother or the economically deprived family? NO! Abortion is a convenient and expedient solution, the price of which is an innocent human life!

In an age of affluence and rapid technical advances, Canadians are capable of solving their problems in a manner which acknowledges and respects the rights of BOTH the mother and the unborn child. It is obvious that our effort must be directed toward this aim if we are to achieve the goal set by Canadians for a "Just Society". Justice can be accomplished only by taking POSITIVE STEPS to correct the social conditions which seem to favor the acceptance of abortion.

- increased assistance and counselling for the unwed mother.
 - expanded education and information services in family planning.
 - education in human reproduction and sexuality, in the ways best suited to meet this growing need.
 - an improved standard of living for the poor and assistance for the overburdened mother.
 - placement of children in the growing number of homes willing to love and care for them.

OPEN LETTER

Mr Pierre-E. Trudeau
Prime Minister
Parliament, Ottawa

Mr. Prime Minister,

Almost two years ago, the Canadian Parliament passed a law authorizing medical or surgical interruption of pregnancy, or in other words, so-called therapeutic abortion.

Since then, a movement has been set up urging that this law be broadened to permit abortion at the mother's request.

We are opposed to this motion for the following reasons:

1. Broadening the present law will give place to numerous abuses;
2. it will not decrease to any great extent, the number of clandestine abortions;
3. it will not lessen the danger that is inherent in this procedure, nor the resultant death rate;
4. it will certainly deprive the country of a large number of citizens who will be needed for prosperity in the future;
5. finally, we believe that the embryo or human foetus is a human being, different from his mother, having the same right to live as do all other human beings.

We would be grateful if you would be good enough to convey to your colleagues in the Canadian Parliament our firm opposition to the broadening of the law on therapeutic abortion.

Please accept, Mr. Prime Minister, our best regards.

Superman says:

"You wanna' see me beat up a locomotive? Seriously guys, with hockey and basketball starting let's get something straight. Intercollege is for the superjocks, intramural is for everybody, and recreation comes before competition. You can't stop anyone from playing, no matter how lousy he is. We all play to win, but it's no victory unless everybody plays. Uh oh, here comes that dumb Lois Lane. Up, up, and away!"
