Your Voice Is You

Nothing else about you is as once so versatile and so distinctively yours. It reveals much to a job interviewer or a psychologist. In November Reader's Digest read how your "voice box" functions, its split-second operation controlled by your brain... and about the new voice-operated door lock: it opens only if you say "Open, Sesame!"

Research Council's annual meeting held at Amherst. In her report, Sister St. Lucius, explained how the experiment was set up and how she was currently conducting it with two classrooms of grade 10 students at Souris Regional High School.

This experiment is the first of its kind in P.E.I. In her address, explaining the reason for such an experiment, Sister St. Lucius said "We are now living in an age what might appropriately be called a revolutionary age on all levels."

W. H. Horton also gave a talk on "The Scholastic Achievement of Students in The Academic of P.E.I."

Red Cross Faced With Challenge In Meeting Problems Of World

In his talk at the semi-annual meeting of the P.E.I. Red Cross at the Confederation Centre, Major-General A.E. Winch of Toronto, national commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross Society stated that "international understanding and friendship are needed as never before, and provide the greatest challenge ever thrown to the Red Cross in peace and war." He went on to say that teaching people to help themselves can bring the desired results as he described the technical assistance which forms part of the Red Cross Society's "Five-Year Development" program. This is designed to help solve these international problems in order to achieve a world of understanding and peace. He laid great stress on the importance of the international friendship and understanding programs being promoted by the Junior Red Cross and said that these are also on a "self-help" basis.

General Winch who has just returned from attending the 20th International Red Cross Conference held in Vienna in the early part of October visited the Sudan, Ethiopia, Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania previous to his arrival in Vienna. He described the deplorable conditions he was shown by the different national Red Cross officials as "literally beyond belief"—and said that these arise as the result of starvation, malnutrition and diseases which are unknown in this country.

During the course of his remarks the national commissioner referred to the real friendship which he was shown when he visited the Alliance of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies in the USSR in May of this year. He commented that the good contacts and friendly relations established on this visit have already made it possible for the Canadian Red Cross Society to achieve the greatest success to date in the re-union of Russian relatives with their families now living in Canada.

LAUDS UNITED APPEAL Major General Winch who was introduced by J. Gordon MacDonald, past president of the P.E.I. Red Cross, in his opening remarks expressed appreciation to the United Appeal to which Red Cross owes a deep debt of gratitude since approximately 65 per cent of its funds are collected by United Appeals across Canada. He stressed the necessity of Red Cross personnel—both volunteers and staff—playing a prominent part in promoting and supporting the United Appeal. He also stated that unless these United Appeals meet with success it is impossible for Red Cross to carry out its full program. This, of course, applies to the international self-help projects with which the General dealt, as well as with the programs carried on for all Canadians.

Judge C. St. C. Trainor, vice-president of the P.E.I. Red Cross, presided at the meeting which was attended by a large number of Red Cross officials and volunteers including representatives of many other organizations whose members give such outstanding co-operation with various Red Cross activities.

In expressing the appreciation of the meeting to General Winch for his challenging talk, Dr. K.A. Parker, chairman of the Junior Red Cross committee, gave a few highlights including the voluntary services provided by 40 high school Red Cross "Volunteers" who carried out various duties in hospitals and nursing homes in Charlottetown and Summerside during the past summer; the major role played by the 16 high school representatives from this province who attended the Atlantic Provinces Training Centre held at Mt. Allison University in July, as well as by the two young people who the delegates from P.E.I. to the American Red Cross High School Training Centre at Grove City in Pennsylvania.

AWARDS PRESENTED

His Honour, Lieutenant Governor W.J. MacDonald, who is the honorary president of the P.E.I. Division presented Edwin C. Johnstone with an Honorary Membership in the society. This is the highest award bestowed by the Canadian Red Cross Society for outstanding Red Cross services of a provincial nature. Badges of Service were also presented by the Lieutenant Governor to six nurses who have devotedly looked after the looting of sickroom equipment cupboards, mostly in their own homes, as well as to some 18 teachers in Queen's County who have given leadership to Junior Red Cross branches in their schools for 15 or more years. Two Certificates of Merit were also awarded in recognition of five years of voluntary service. The report of the awards committee was given by its chairman, Mrs. Benjamin Rogers.

Other chairman of standing committees who gave highlights included Ian Rankin who heads water safety services and who paid tribute to the many organizations which played prominent roles in the most successful season ever when over 9,000 participated in the classes. Mr. Rankin introduced an outstanding volunteer in person of Cpl. Robert Williams of the RCMP who told of the three phases of water safety in which he had been pleased to play a part—the weekly swim periods for retarded children, the instruction and testing of the Life Guards for the National Parks in "Surf Life Guarding" as well as giving classes in small craft safety measures to all Red Cross water safety instructors.

"HOME CARE" Mrs. Helen Bolger reported on the increasing demand for courses in "Home Care" particularly for teenagers, and the popularity of the sickroom supply loan cupboards.

The success of the blood donor clinics held so far this year was commented on by the provincial chairman of this service, F.A.S. Jones who also outlined plans for the final clinics for 1965 which are to be held the week of Dec. 5 in Prince County.

Mrs. Eric Wilson reported on Voluntary Services in the absence of the chairman, Mrs. L.E. Frowse, and told of the urgent need that exists for more volunteers to carry out the "friendly visiting" program.

Dr. W.R. Stewart dealt with the work carried out by the first aid department particularly with reference to the services rendered by volunteers at the permanent and mobile first aid posts. He read an excerpt from a letter received by a first aider from a victim to whom first aid had been rendered at the scene of a serious accident. This victim attributed recovery to the fact that she had received such expert treatment "on the spot" from his Red Cross first aider.
