Another "Mare's" Nest.

THE Patriot has discovered another little mare's nest. In 1886 the heading of the balance sheet was changed from "Balance Sheet" to "Provincial Treasury Balance Sheet." On the principle that to the evil all things seem to be evil, the Patriot infers that this was done to "cover up the tracks" of the Government. We are informed by the Auditor that the change was made on his own motion, because he found that the Patriot and some of the members of the Legislature were continually laboring under misapprehensions concerning the scope of the Balance Sheet. To remove these misapprehensions he simply made the description of it more definite. But the balance sheet is now precisely the same in form, and precisely the same in respect to the items it contains, as it ever was; and every account of the Government is clearly stated under the covers of the Auditor's Report. It is to be regretted that the Auditor's kindly effort to relieve the Patriot's misapprehension was in vain. But his failure was not his fault. Some people are so blind and stupid that they cannot see; others are so full of prejudice suspicion and dishonesty that they will not see. As to which of these two classes the Patriot belongs—let the people judge.

Our Tennis Clubs at Play.

A LARGE audience enjoyed the exceedingly pleasant and artistic entertainment given by members of Fitzroy and Mic-Mac Lawn Tennis Clubs in the Lyceum, last evening. The manœuvres of the "Broom Brigade" were admirable. There never was in Charlottetown a scene in which were combined so much beauty and grace of movement. The military precision of the fair Amazons was wonderful. It could only have been gained in so short a time by soldiers of the keenest intelligence under instruction the most careful and assiduous. We have no doubt that the charming members of the Tennis Clubs were appreciative pupils of the gallant captain, and that to the gallant captain himself the work of instruction was, per se, a labor of love. Under such conditions only could the admirable results which were seen last evening have been so quickly reached. The figures in the tableaux vivants were artistically clothed and grouped, and evidently produced upon the audience the impression that was desired. We must congratulate the artist—amateur though he may be—upon the success of this beautiful feature of the entertainment. Mr. H. J. Palmer's reading was fairly well given—though he had not taken into careful account the largeness of the hall, and some of the best points in it were therefore lost to those who occupied the back seats. The songs sung by Mrs. Malcolm McLeod and Rev. Fred. E. J. Lloyd were quite delightful—both singers were enthusiastically encored—and the instrumental music by Mr. Vinnicombe's Orchestra was exceedingly good. The farce of "The Mousetrap" was capitally done—the leading actors being Mrs. Blanchard and Mr. Arnaud. Interest and pleasure were maintained throughout the entertainment and until the curtain dropped at a few minutes to eleven o'clock.

How They Were Rescued.

Forty-two of the crew of the missing steamer Danmark, and all of the passengers left at the Azores by the Missouri, have arrived at Lisbon on the steamer Acor. Raben, the first officer, reported that on April 4, the Danmark's shaft was broken, and the next day the disabled steamer met the steamship Missouri, from London for Philadelphia and Baltimore. The Missouri towed the Danmark until the 6th, when the latter seemed about to sink. At first the Missouri was only able to take aboard about 200 of the Danmark's pasengers, but after having jettisoned a portion of her cargo, she found accommodation for all the crew and the passengers. The Missouri proceeded to the Azores, and left there the first and second officers and 320 of the passengers. She then continued on her journey to Philadelphia with 340 passengers and the remainder of the crew. The Danmark was about 800 miles from Newfoundland when the accident happened. The engine pipe on the Danmark burst and the engineer was killed on the spot. The ship was badly damaged, and in consequence of this damage, together with the breaking of the shaft, the vessel was helpless in the heavy seas that prevailed.

Henry George on Wages.

Mr. George had a conversation with the eminent political economist, Professor Thorold Rogers, a few days ago. Mr. Rogers told him that a calculation he had recently made showed that the wages of a common laborer in the days of Henry VII. would be equivalent in the money of our day to £145 per annum. Mr. George afterwards learned that the present wages of a coal miner in good times were about £65 a year. Another of Professor Rogers' remarks was that the location of textile industries in the North of England instead of the South was due to the fact that factories and machinery were during the 17th century subjected to local taxation in the South of England, but were exempt in the North.

—It is evident that commercial union with the mother country would be a boon to every farmer and to every Canadian of whatever occupation; that, as Principal Grant puts it, "Instead of five millions competing against sixty millions it would be three hundred and twenty millions against sixty millions."

—The ladies who control matters in Oskalassa, Kansas, have been proved to be true, zealous and efficient reformers; and the citizens who elected them "for the form of the thing last year," have re-elected them this year, on their merits as practical administrators. This is a significant fact.

Remember the sale of farm, stock and implements of the late Alexander McMillan, at Wheatley River, to-morrow, at 11 o'clock, a. m.—G. M. Harris, Auctioneer.

Triple-Link Anniversary.

Yesterday was the 70th anniversary of the introduction of Oddfellowship in America. The fraternity in various parts of the Lower Provinces have noted the event in a becoming manner. No greater loyalty to the Order was shown in any part of the jurisdiction than among the Odds of P. E. Island. A grand rally was brought together by special and regular trains at Charlottetown on Thursday and the exercises are reported to have been interesting and attractive.

The above extract appeared in the Fredericton Reporter of the 20th inst. We are sure that the writer is not a member of the fraternity of Oddfellows. At any rate, time past, present and future is of no account with him—in fact, he rises superior to the rest of the race, whose actions and words are only received, if worthy of remembrance after they have been performed or uttered. Is he the victim of hallucination? No, emphatically, no. The writer is a seer, and he has but given expression to what has already been mysteriously revealed to him of the ceremonies of Natal Day celebrations, which take place tomorrow.

Personal.

Rev. Dr. Doyle, of Summerside, is in the city.

Archbishop O'Brien, of Halifax, is visiting the city.

C. D. Everett and William Logan, old and well-known men of business in St. John, are dead.

Rubenstein will celebrate his jubilee on July 23. It was in 1839 that he made his first public appearance at a benefit concert in Moscow.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain are about to give a series of political dinners, followed by receptions, at their mansion in Prince's Gardens, according to the London Court Journal.

A well known English actress is angry because a manufacturer of false teeth has placarded his town with pictures representing her "before and after" taking a set of his famous teeth. The "before" portrait is the one which makes her angry.

The Boston Transcript says, in reference to the proposed prohibitory amendment in Massachusetts, that, "for a moral campaign, the amount of misrepresentation and calumny afloat almost exceeds belief."
