STORY STRANGE AS NOVELIST'S DREAM.

A. C. Kinnaman Goes Back to His First Wife. The Woman that He Thought Dead, Turns Up After Twenty-Two Years.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., September 30.—A petition filed by A. C. Kinnaman in a suit for the annulment of his marriage to Mrs. Lucy Kinnaman, who was Mrs. Lucy Fleck of St. Louis, Mo., reveals a story strange as a novelist's dream. Kinnaman was married to Mrs. Lucy Fleck 22 years ago. He wishes the marriage annulled because he has discovered that Mrs. Anna Kinnaman, who was Mrs. Anna Mead, the woman he married in 1876, and afterward believed dead, is alive. He has wedded two women both widows. Each woman is older than he, the second Mrs. Kinnaman being 20 years his senior. Mrs. Anna Kinnaman married a man named Fisher in South Bend, after she had been informed that Kinnaman had died in St. Louis.

For years Kinnaman and Mrs. Anna Kinnaman, or Mrs. Fisher, have lived within a few hundred miles of each other each believing that the other was dead. After 22 years, a death, that of Kinnaman's father, at Flora, Ill., led to the discovery that both Kinnaman and Mrs. Kinnaman were alive and well, and that each had contracted a second marriage.

Neither Kinnaman nor Mrs. Fisher can be charged with bigamy. They acted in good faith when they entered the second marriage, and in each case the statute of limitation acts as a bar to legal action. In the autumn of 1876 young Alonzo Kinnaman, a student of Eureka College, Eureka Ill., found difficulty in studying his daily lessons. Try as he might his vagrant eyes would look across the street and linger on the house where pretty Anna dwelled. The boy knew her well, and her story a story of a short marital life and then widowhood.

She was his senior but a few years, and richer in worldly experience, but for all that her face was winsome. When the school term ended the student followed his sweetheart to her home near South Bend, and they went quietly to Niles, Mich., where they were wed. The young couple went back to Kinnaman's home at Flora, Ill., where they lived their honeymoon dream for some one year.

Altercations parted the couple and Mrs. Kinnaman's mother took her daughter back to her girlhood home near South Bend.

In 1880 Kinnaman reached St. Louis and heard his wife was dead.

Mrs. Lucy Fleck, a widow who lived across the street from the store where he worked, went often to the grocery. She and the young clerk became friendly. Mrs. Fleck was many years his senior, but like his first wife, widowhood had not dimmed her attractions.

Soon the courtship terminated in marriage—a union which has existed happily 22 years. Kinnaman has worked steadily and earned money. The house was childless, but no cloud came until the death of his father at Flora, last spring brought the revelation.

A BIG COMET IS NOW APPROACHING US.

Astronomers have Labelled it "Comet B 1902." It Will be Visible to the Naked Eye in Less than a Week's Time.

A new comet will become visible to the eyes of Charlottetonians in the course of a week or less. It is now approaching the earth at a rate of three million miles a day. Its head is twenty times the size of the earth while its tail is millions of miles long. At present it can only be seen through a telescope. In a few days, however, it will become visible to the naked eye.

It is going to be the brightest luminary of its kind that has visited this planet since the big comet of 1882. By the end of October it should be a very conspicuous object in the north-eastern sky, where it has chosen to make its appearance. It will be visible for about a month and a half, dating from the end of the present week, when it enters Cassiopeia. Owing to the dull weather of the past few days in Montreal it has been impossible to make observations there, but Toronto the comet has been visible to the telescopic eye for several days.

The comet's technical name is "Comet B. 1902." By this name it will be known to coming generations of astronomers. About the middle of November it will pass in review before the sun. Then it will be lost to sight.

Mr. Crommelin, an official of the Greenwich observatory, says that the luminary will form a striking sight for the naked eye, and he advises all who can to have a peep at it.

Unlike its noted predecessor of 1882 it has chosen a seasonable hour for its daily visitation and citizens will not have to remain up longer than eleven o'clock to see the visitor. In 1882 people had to trundle out of bed at three and four in the morning in order to have a look at the comet of that year.

WILD WEST HOLD-UP IN NEW YORK

A Fashionable Stage Coach Stopped and Robbed by Three Masked Men—Passengers Compelled to Give Up All Their Money and Valuables.

MIDDLETON, N. Y., Oct. 2.—The stage coach "Pioneer," which makes daily trips between Warwick and Goshen, was held up and robbed by three masked horsemen late this afternoon. The coach was bewailing along the road two miles from Florida, when at a lonely spot on the road, Clinton and Horatio S. Wisner, who own the coach, and were on it, saw the men on horseback suddenly emerge from the dense woods, which line the highway. Clinton was driving. The robbers ordered him to pull up his horses. This he refused to do, and the highwaymen opened fire with revolvers. But the shots went wild, but the shooting had the effect of compelling the whip to bring his horses to a stop.

Inside the coach were Mrs. J. A. Chamberlain, Mrs. Fred Webster, Mrs. James Fuller, Mrs. Hart, Mrs. E. D. Johnson, all of Florida. While two of the highwaymen covered the Wisner brothers with their revolvers the third, using many threats compelled the passengers to give up their money and valuables.

After the robbery had been completed the robbers spurred up their horses and escaped.

When news of the hold-up became known the entire populace was aroused. Poses of armed men were hastily formed and at once started in search for the highwaymen.

Clinton W. Wisner is president of the village of Warwick.

SHE WILL BECOME A GERMAN COUNTESS

A Pretty American Girl—One of the Bell's of Ann Arbor Society is to be the the Mistress of a German Castle—A Web of Romance.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 3.—Pretty Ethel Louise Wyman, one of the belles of Ann Arbor society and the petted child of the old pioneer aristocracy, has become a countess and is on her way now to Neustadt, Prussia, to become mistress of the ancient castle and estate of Count Hugo Lerchenfeld Koefering, a military officer high in the service of the German Emperor.

A web of romance has been spun about the meeting and the subsequent love-making of the young American girl and the noble Teuton—and despite the pursuits by the count, ocean races, stratagems by the girl's mother, parental objection and absolute prohibition—the wedding took place Wednesday in Lady Chapel of Gray St., St. Patrick's cathedral in New York city. Forgiving parents gave their blessing to Countess Ethel as I wished her and Count Hugo long happy lives and prosperity.

Ethel Wyman's parents were John E. Wyman and Mrs. Carrie Conwell Wyman. The girl was given her education here and then went to Ossining seminary at Sing Sing, New York. A little over two years ago Ethel was sent to Europe to study music. She had great talent on the violin and was taught by the best virtuosos in Berlin. There she met the Count Koefering, and the first thing Mamma Wyman knew back in America was an engagement announcement.

"Never! No great, greasy German for my son-in-law," vowed Mrs. Wyman, and she threw her things into a steamer trunk and dashed over to Europe to rescue Ethel.

Ethel was practically kidnapped by her parents and back to America she came. On the next steamer waving bank bills at the captain and engineer for more steam and speed, followed Count Hugo. He landed in New York four days behind. He located Ethel, refused to be squelched or kept out by the parents, and once more met Ethel at the Waldorf-Astoria.

The Wyman's were introduced to the court by Ethel. They had to admit he was a model young man, also handsome, courtly and wealthy.

Finally it was agreed that there should be no wedding for two years yet. That was last summer. By rare good fortune the ocean chase was kept out of the papers. But Ethel and the count could not wait, and the wedding invitations were sent out. Ann Arbor friends were remembered and through them the romance leaked out.

MILLION AND HALF BY TURN IN WHEAT

CHICAGO, October 1.—There has been no grain operation this season comparable with the Armour wheat "spread," which closed to-day, with a profit of $1,500,000. It has been the cleverest turn in years, never involving much risk. In May and June, Armour bought July and sold September wheat and liquidated that "spread" at moderate profit. The July was taken on when at little discount and was put at one time at 5 cents over the September. In July, while that first spread was being liquidated, the Armour interest began buying the September and selling the December. No secret was made of the operation and the Armour people preached their faith to everybody. "Security of good wheat and an abundance of poor.
